CURRENT COMMENT
By Chester H. Rowell

JUDGE Robert M. Clarke, who is campaigning against the World Court, is quoted by a newspaper supporter as having said to the Republican Women's Federation:

"I do not agree with any such court that would have the right to take up such questions as the alien land law, the Monroe doctrine, or the immigration laws of the United States.'

If Judge Clarke said this, he should suspend further discussion of the subject until he has first made the preparation on it which he would regard as essential before presenting a case in court. Then, when he has read the documents defining the jurisdiction of the Court, he will know as a lawyer that the Court is expressly forbidden to consider these questions without our consent, then given, and that it would be practically impossible to get them before the Court even with our consent. If he were counsel for the Japanese government, employed to bring these questions before the Court, he will know that he would have to advise his clients that it could not be done, and that, before the Court, he would have to confess lack of jurisdiction. So, learning these facts, by reading the law, he will not longer say the exact opposite to the people.

JUDGE Clarke, as a lawyer, would not go before the justice of the peace of Alpine county and demand a bill of attainder against Senator Borah on a charge of counterfeiting. He would realize that even an Alpine justice of the peace would know that he had no jurisdiction over Senator Borah on any charge and no jurisdiction over anybody on a counterfeiting charge, and that nobody has jurisdiction to issue a bill of attainder. So, the thing being trebly beyond the authority of the justice court, he would not be preposterous enough to ask it to act.

TO SAY that the World Court could act on the three subjects mentioned in the quotation from Judge Clarke's speech is equally preposterous. The Court could not consider them, first, because they are domestic questions; second, because they are non-justiciable questions; and, third, because no question affecting us can be heard without our consent, given at the time to that particular case, by the act of the President and two-thirds of the Senate. These points are not debatable. The law on the subject is too plain for question. The only possible difference of opinion is between those who have read and those who have not read the law. Judge Clarke, plainly, has not read it. He should do so, before he discusses it again.

AFTER all, why should this World Court be an issue in the campaign? It is not, unless it is made an issue by candidates who say that if elected they will move to revoke the action by which America has already been voted into the World Court. Other nations may keep us out of the Court by refusing to accept the conditions we have imposed, and the question is therefore properly an issue in their politics; but our part of the steps to make the United States a member of the Court is already complete, and there is nothing further to do unless somebody is going to move to rescind that action. If the act of adherence is construed as a treaty, even that is impossible unless proposed by the President. Except in the past tense, as a subject for historic discussion, the question does not exist. Why make it the future-tense issue of a present-tense election?

THERE will be two reapportionment bills on the California ballot this fall. One provides for reapportionment by population, under the present constitution. The legislature having for six years refused to obey the constitution, there is no choice left but direct action by the people. That is what the initiative is for—to serve as a referendum against legislative inaction. The other is a proposal to change the constitution, so as to provide for an Assembly apportioned according to population, as now, but to make a Senate in which no county shall have more than one senator, and no senator will represent more than three counties. Thus Los Angeles, San Francisco and Alameda counties shall have one senator each, while the three smallest counties, with no more population than a single block in these city counties, will also have one senator.

THE second bill is based on two asumptions — first, that the counties, like the states of the union, are sovereign; and, second, that the people of the country are more fit for self-government than those of the cities. Those who believe in these two propositions will vote for the bill.

THE real danger is that the existence of two bills may defeat both. And the chief harm of that will be the increase in the already great and just resentment in Southern California at the arbitrary denial of the plain rights of that section. Unless we want revived agitation for state division, we should reapportion the state, lawfully and justly.

DELEGATES GO HOME

All Progress Looking to World Disarmament Is Blocked Until September

RIO DE JANEIRO, June 11.—Brazil has determined to resign from the League of Nations, it was revealed today in a cable sent by the government to Mello Franco, the Brazilian council member at Geneva.

(By United Press)

GENEVA, June 11.—With Brazil already resigned from the League of Nations council, Spain threatening to withdraw from the league, and all progress toward world disarmament blocked until September, members of the council will be arriving in their home capitals today and tomorrow, to explain to their respective cabinets the painful happenings at Geneva.

France told the council yesterday that she could not disarm until her security had been guaranteed adequately. Sir Austen Chamberlain, the British foreign secretary, then requested delay in consideration of French proposals to amend the league covenant to conform with the French idea of security. The amendments would enable the council to act more quickly to prevent hostilities and also to render quicker financial, economy and military aid to an attacked nation. Sir Austen said he needed time to ascertain the precise scope of the proposals.

The council held that Brazil cannot resign before September, when the assembly will be in session and prepared to elect a successor.

Alleging that the league, under open domination, would become "an entirely different institution from that originally planned," President Bernardes, of Brazil, announced Brazil's intention of "remaining faithful to those American ideals outside of which it never will be possible to end armaments competition nor to establish world peace."

The Spanish substitute delegate, Quarbole, told the council that Spain would not accept any solution of the council membership dispute which would place Spain in the second category of nations.

New Auto Carrier Act Being Drafted

SAN FRANCISCO, June 11.—A committee of 21, appointed by the state railroad commission, met today to draft a new act governing auto stage and transportation, to be presented to the next session of the legislature. The conference was considered of double importance in view of the recent U. S. supreme court decision declaring the state railroad commission to have no jurisdiction over private auto carriers on state highways.

University Gives Diplomas to 473

LOS ANGELES, June 11.—Diplomas were awarded to 473 graduates today at the Los Angeles branch of the University of California.

The graduates, attired in the traditional caps and gowns paraded across the campus at 10 o'clock this morning to the auditorium, where President William Wallace Campbell, of the University of California, Berkeley, addressed them.

Degrees and honors were conferred by Dr. Ernest Carrol Moore, director of the Southern Branch.

Black Hand Shout Starts Panic

BROOKLYN, N. Y., June 11.—A small boy shouted "Black Hander," probably as a hot retort to some tormentor, in front of a school attended largely by Italians here today, and precipitated a panic which spread through the hundreds of children at the school, then around the neighborhood and finally required strenuous efforts by police to quiet. Two children were so severely hurt they were taken to hospitals and others were knocked down and bruised, requiring first aid treatment.

RENEW MANIAC SEARCH AFTER THIRD MURDER

(By United Press)

SAN FRANCISCO, June 11.—Police today went back to their search for San Francisco's "strangler," the murdering madman, who yesterday claimed his third victim.

He called late yesterday at the flat of Mrs. Lillian St. Mary, 63-year-old widow, who rents rooms. She was alone at the time.

When R. C. Brian, a roomer, returned home, he found her stretched across the bed in an unrented room. She had been crushed to death.

With the evidence that the "strangler" has changed his mode of attack from strangling to crushing, police came to the conclusion today that the murderer of three women is an escaped lunatic.

They began a check of records of all California institutions for the feeble-minded and insane.

Mrs. St. Mary was the second woman killed by the "strangler" in San Francisco. The first was Mrs. Clara Newman, apartment house proprietor.

His next victim was a San Jose woman, Mrs. Laura E. Beal, 65.

In all his appearance, witnesses have been able to catch only fleeting glimpses of him. Lack of an adequate description is the greatest obstacle to his apprehension, police admitted.

RICH GIRL TAKES POISON AND DIES

NEW YORK, June 11.—Mrs. Charlotte P. McKenzie, of San Francisco, was understood to be enroute to New York today, following death of her daughter, Jean. Miss McKenzie's lifeless body was found on the bathroom floor of her apartment in Washington Square.

Two empty bottles, which had contained a chemical preparation, lay on the floor beside her. It was reported she had been depressed recently over the marriage of a girl chum, who formerly shared the apartment.

Miss McKenzie, daughter of the late James McKenzie, stockholder in the Singer Sewing Machine company, was reputed to have a substantial independent fortune. Her body was found yesterday by R. T. Fish, who told the police he called to talk over business matters he managed for her.

A brother of the dead girl lives in Los Angeles, according to relatives here. She had taught in a private school in Baltimore at one time and came to New York about a year ago.

'Meanest Man' at Last Discovered

LOS ANGELES, June 11.—The "meanest man" in California, according to Los Angeles boosters, is L. E. Ross, state statistician and chief of the bureau of vital statistics, at Sacramento.

All because Ross estimated the population of Los Angeles at 764,274, whereas the chamber of commerce claims to have counted 1,211,333 inhabitants here.

Ross based his figures on average population gains over a period of 10 years. The chamber's figures were based on the number of gas meters, school enrollment, telephone connections and city directory.

Farmer's Wife Beaten to Death

FOWLERVILLE, Mich., June 11.—Mrs. Arthur Monroe, wife of a farmer living near here, was found beaten to death in her home here today, and her husband is near death from attack by persons believed to have been intent on robbery.

MOVE BEGINS FOR WRIGHT ACT REPEAL

Petitions Being Prepared For Initiative on California Prohibition Law

SULLIVAN IS AT HELM

Former Chief Justice at Head of Committee Warring Volsteadian Aridity

(By United Press)

SAN FRANCISCO, June 11.—A movement to repeal the law under which California aids the enforcement of the Volstead act was under way today.

Petitions were being prepared for circulation in the metropolitan areas of California, calling upon the state to decide by an initiative measure on the November ballots, whether it wants to retain the Wright act, passed by the people in 1922.

Eighty thousand names are necessary to bring the subject to a vote.

With a former chief justice of the state supreme court, Matt I. Sullivan, at the helm, a committee of San Francisco business men met yesterday to launch a drastic attack against Volsteadian aridity.

They formed the Wright Act Repeal committee and pledged $5000 of the $8000 needed to place the petitions for signatures. They outlined future formation of branch committees in southern and interior California.

"We will accomplish two things," declared Judge Sullivan. "California will have an opportunity to say whether it wants prohibition and its attendant evils. And next, the repeal, if accomplished, will prevent the success of the proposed Coolidge plan for creation of a 'dollar-a-year' enforcement auxiliary from the ranks of city, county and state peace officers."

Hiker Keeps On Way to New York

NORWALK, O., June 11.—Undaunted by 11 days without food, George Hasler Johnson, hiking from Chicago to New York without eating, set out this morning for Wellington, 25 miles distant.

Johnson arrived in Norwalk at 10:30 last night, weighing 23 pounds less than when he left Chicago, on June 1. His only sustenance has been water, 20 quarts of which he consumes daily.

The fasting hiker said he was in fine physical condition when he departed this morning.

Loses His Money; Broker Kills Self

LOS ANGELES, June 11.—Solomon Loeb, 49, prominent Los Angeles broker, formerly of Shreveport, La., committed suicide by shooting himself in the head, according to police, who attributed the tragedy to financial reverses.

"I have lost all my money," Loeb wrote in a farewell note, made public today by investigators.

Marx Government Wins In Reichstag

BERLIN, June 11.—The reichstag today defeated a Communist effort to unseat the Marx government. The deputies rejected this misconfidence motion by a rising vote.

CHILD KILLED BY AUTO

MODESTO, Calif., June 11.—Ortensia Rios, 7, was run down and killed last night by an automobile driven by J. F. Gonzales. The child darted from behind a string of fruit cars in the path of the automobile.

Mother Driven To Suicide By Crying Babe

LOS ANGELES, June 11.—The constant crying of her 9-months-old baby impelled Mrs. W. H. Kuntz, 21, to commit suicide by eating ant paste, according to police reports. After eating the poisonous substance, Mrs. Kuntz relented, and informed her husband, it was said. He rushed her to a hospital, where she died shortly afterward.

PROGRESSIVES PUT APPROVAL ON C. C. YOUNG

(By United Press)

LOS ANGELES, June 11.—At a conference representing 17 different progressive groups, whose voting membership totals approximately 107,000, Lt. Gov. C. C. Young was unanimously indorsed for the governorship, Lew Head, chairman of the conference, announced today.

"This progressive conference," Head explained," comprises five large labor organizations, the German-American league, the Progressive alliance and the Progressive Party of California, together with nine smaller bodies.

"Some of them had already indorsed Young for governor, individually, but this is the first time that all of the progressive organizations have met in formal delegated conference, not alone to pick out satisfactory nominees for the governorship, but for senator, members of the legislature, congressmen and other officers, to recommend to all progressive voters in Southern California.

"We will also pass upon and recommend united action on all initiative propositions and amendments to the constitution. We are going right down the line to secure for California the most progressive government we can for the people of this state."

3 ARE KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENTS

LOS ANGELES, June 11.—Three persons were killed here during the night in automobile accidents, according to police reports today.

Mrs. Julia Warner, 22, was struck by a machine driven by Mrs. Ruth Fowler, 21. She died almost immediately. Mrs. Fowler was placed under technical arrest and released on her own recognizance.

G. R. Wilson, 25, was killed when his automobile collided with a car driven by H. N. Martin, who was detained for questioning by police.

In a third accident, an unidentified woman was run down and killed by a hit-and-run driver, who is being sought by the police.

Secretary Work Hanged In Effigy

PHOENIX, Ariz., June 11.—Secretary of the Interior Hubert Work was hanged in effigy near here by a crowd of homesteaders from the Paradise and Deer valleys, according to authorities, who began an investigation of the incident today. The mock hanging occurred on the Black Canyon road, in the Verde River Irrigation and Power district. Secretary Work recently cancelled the permits for financing reclamation of the district's lands.

British Protest Soviet Activity

LONDON, June 11. — Great Britain today sent a note to Moscow, protesting the subsidizing with Russian funds of the British Trades Union council during the general strike in May.

FRESNO'S SHERIFF HALTS DUEL SCHEDULED AT DAWN

(By United Press)

FRESNO, June 11.—A scheduled duel at dawn in Fresno ended in an anti-climax, when one of the proposed duelists received a lecture from the sheriff.

Informed by a telephone call that a duel was to take place, Sheriff W. F. Jones and a deputy arrived on the duelling ground first, and hid behind some trees. Finally one of the duellists arrived. During the conversation, he admitted that he and another were to settle an "affair of honor."

Sheriff Jones informed him that his proposed adversary had decided that he didn't care to get up so early, and so had appointed the sheriff as his second over the telephone. Sheriff Jones then cancelled the duel. The man would not tell what the trouble was over or what weapons were to be used. He was unarmed.

DEMOCRATS MAY TRY TO UNSEAT VARE

Newberry Case Cited by Senator with Reference To Case in Pennsylvania

VAST SUMS ARE SPENT

Republican Leader Testifies He Contributed or Stood Good for $408,000

WASHINGTON, June 11.—The mounting cost of the recent Pennsylvania primary reached $1,313,000, in evidence divulged to the special senate investigating committee today.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 11.—Evidence of campaign expenditures in the Pennsylvania primary may be used by Democrats in an effort to unseat William S. Vare, wet Republican. A member of the senate committee conducting the inquiry, told the United Press today that the senate would act.

Declining to comment officially because he is sitting as a judge in the case, he said:

"We have the power to say who is fit to sit in the senate. If Senator Truman H. Newberry, of Michigan, was chased out of that body because his forces spent $190,000, I don't see why Vare should be overlooked.

"We will wait until we hear all the evidence and then give our judgment, but the fact that admissions already have been made that more than a half million dollars was expended in a part of the state, certainly will demand the attention of the senate."

Contributions of $408,000

Joseph R. Grundy, a Republican political leader in Pennsylvania, told the senate primary investigating committee today that he personally had given and stood good for $408,000 for the recent primary campaign of Senator George Wharton Pepper.

Under close examination by Senator Jim Reed, Democrat, Missouri, noted prosecutor, Grundy admitted that he had "loaned" the Pepper organization $300,000 outright; that he had contributed $18,000 and signed a joint note on the Corn Exchange bank with A. W. H. Folwell for $90,000.

Has Faith in People

"Well, I have faith that the people of Pennsylvania will make it up to me when all the contributions are in," Grundy replied.

He said he had received notes and receipts from the treasury of the Pepper campaign committee for the amounts he advanced.

The committee session was adjourned at noon until 2 p. m. with Grundy still on the stand.

Grundy's admission of the amount he advanced brought the total already revealed by witnesses before the committee of expenditures in the campaign to $1,105,000.

Witnesses for Gifford Pinchot told the committee his expenditures amounted to about $195,000. Senator George Wharton Pepper informed the committee his personal campaign expenditures amounted to $125,000.

$306,000 Spent in West

W. L. Mellon, nephew of the secretary of the treasury, said that about $306,000 had been spent in Pepper's behalf in the western part of the state.

William S. Vare, successful candidate, filed a statement that he had contributed $71,000 to his campaign.

Senator Reed, Democrat, Missouri, tried to have Grundy tell how the candidates stood on the wet issue.

Grundy said he believed that John S. Fisher, successful Mellon candidate for governor, had never said how he stood. Grundy told of a meeting in a Philadelphia hotel, in April, at which plans were made for a Pepper-Fisher-Smith-Woodward coalition. Grundy said he "wasn't so much for Pepper," but that he was favorable to Fisher."

"What was you object in forming the coalition?" asked Reed.

Wanted To Get Votes

"To get votes. That's the only idea I had anyway—to get as many votes as we could."

Reed brought out that Pepper and Fisher maintained separate state headquarters. "It was a sort of double-barreled arrangement," said Grundy.

Grundy testified that Cyrus E. Wood was chairman of the Pepper state committee and also of the Fisher committee.

"That's astounding, in view of Mr. Wood's statement to us that he had virtually nothing to do with the campaign," said Reed.

Grundy said Wood directed the whole organization. Grundy said

NOOSE CHEATED BY TECHNICALITY

AUBURN, Calif., June 11.—The hangman's noose, which dangled menacingly before the eyes of Millan Vukich, was cheated of its victim today—temporarily at least.

Discovery was made by Vukich's counsel that a copy of the appeal and transcript of testimony in his case, through an error, had never been filed with the state supreme court. The convicted man's attorney, W. J. Burns, started frantic efforts to stay the execution, which had been set for today. Warden Frank J. Smith, of San Quentin, announced late yesterday afternoon that he would accept a certified copy of the appeal and stay the hanging, although officially the case was not before the supreme court.

Vukich was sentenced to death for the murder of R. T. Stone, mill owner, who was shot from ambush at Forest Hill, Calif.

American Slain In Sinaloa City

NOGALES, Ariz., June 11.—The body of Richard Dawson, of Chicasha, Okla., whose death in Mexico is being investigated by the state department at Washington, was buried today at Los Muchias, Sinaloa according to advices here from the Mexican city.

Dawson died last night from a crushed skull. An unknown assailant is said to have attacked him on the streets of Los Muchias, Tuesday night.

Dawson is said to have a widow in Los Angeles.

Army Chaplain To Visit Orient

SAN FRANCISCO, June 11.—Capt. Orville I. Clampitt, army chaplain, who recently figured in the public gaze as a suspected Lothario, until subsequently vindicated by a court-martial board, today prepared for an official detail to the Orient and back. He is in San Francisco to embark on the transport Sommer, sailing tomorrow. He will return to his post at Vancouver barracks, Wn., on completion of the voyage.

2 PROPOSALS GET BIG VOTE IN SANTA ANA

Beach Towns Pile Up Majority, Only to Be Overcome by Ballots in North

HARD BLOW IN ORANGE

Count in Anaheim and Fullerton Aids in Preventing Approval of Measure

BOTH of the Newport Harbor bond proposals went down to defeat at yesterday's election, under a slaughtering administered by the interior precincts. Proposition No. 1, for improvement of the harbor entrance, lacked 580 votes of the necessary two-thirds majority, while proposition No. 2, for development of the inside harbor, was short by 2241 votes. Complete returns from the 172 precincts in the county gave:

No. 1 ($650,000 for harbor entrance): Yes, 12,188, no, 6384.

No. 2 ($550,000 for inside harbor): Yes, 11,521; no, 6881.

The city of Santa Ana gave the bonds a splendid majority of nearly five to one, turning out close to 70 per cent of the vote that was registered, as follows: No. 1, yes, 5303; no, 1129; No. 2, yes, 5208; no, 1365. This, added to the nearly unanimous vote of the beach sections, gave the bonds a commanding lead when they reached the agricultural districts north of Santa Ana. But there the march of victory came to an abrupt halt.

Slaughtered in Orange

Orange and its environs, with the exception of El Modena, dealt a smashing blow to the bond proposals, turning out a two-thirds majority against both issues. The blow was repeated at Anaheim with scarcely less force, and again at Fullerton, where four municipal bond issues were beaten without exception at the special election, May 26.

Sentiment regarding the bonds appeared to be considerably spotted throughout the county. While La Habra and Fullerton were returning heavy majorities against the bonds, Brea, their neighbor, scored a pronounced victory for the issue. Placentia returned a slight but insufficient majority for the bonds, but Yorba Linda, just beyond, beat them soundly. Tustin, adjacent to Santa Ana, gave a fair majority to the entrance proposal, but rejected the inside bonds, while Irvine, nearby, carried both issues. El Toro, next beyond, was only lukewarm to the bonds, while San Juan Capistrano, representing the farthest-south sentiment, turned them down by a vote of virtually two to one.

Beach Towns Solid

From Laguna Beach to Seal Beach the shore line presented an unbroken front. Both of those towns, with Huntington Beach, Newport Beach, Costa Mesa and the territory intervening between Santa Ana, carried the bonds without the loss of a precinct. Defeat came from the southeast, north and west sections, including San Juan Capistrano, Orange, Villa Park, Olive, West Orange, Anaheim with East and West Anaheim, Yorba Linda, La Habra, Fullerton, Buena Park, Garden Grove, Stanton and Los Alamitos. The heaviest favorable votes were in Newport Beach and Costa Mesa precincts, some of which has not a single vote in opposition. The worst defeat was suffered at Stanton, which voted: yes, 9; and no, 98 on No. 1; yes, 6, and no, 98, on No. 2. No. 25 and No. 32 were the banner bond precincts in Santa Ana, as indicated by their votes on the entrance proposal. No. 25 voted favorably, 134 to 10, No. 32 voting 102 to 7.

A large crowd gathered in the street before the Register building last night to hear returns of the election brought in by the Register's county-wide news-gathering staff. So rapidly were the reports obtained that by 10 o'clock the re-

UPROAR CAUSED IN REICHSTAG BY HINDENBURG

BERLIN, June 11.—The Reichstag was in an uproar when the subject of President Von Hindenburg's letter declaring against confiscation of the former rulers' property aroused the wrath of the Socialists. They abandoned the reserve with which the presidential office has heretofore been treated and openly criticized the action of the president.

Charging the president with "giving up the neutrality which he solemnly promised to observe in internal political controversial questions" the Socialists, through former Chancellor Herman Mueller, declared:

"This constitutes a violation of the non-partisanship incumbent upon the president by virtue of his office."

The Socialists seemed particularly angry that the president had designated the proposed confiscation measure as an infringement on the principles of justice and morality, and sought by many historical examples to show that the former rulers themselves had violated justice and morality by their demands.

President Von Hindenburg's letter was addressed to Count Frederick Von Liebell, monarchist leader and Von Hindenburg's campaign manager in the presidential elections. Von Hindenburg characterized the proposed seizure of the property of the former German emperor and other German rulers as "an attack on the constitutional foundations of the state and a violation of the fundamental laws of morals and justice."

In his speech in the Reichstag, Dr. Mueller asked:

"Is it right for the president to stamp the 12,000,000 citizens who signed the referendum petition as committing a lawless and immoral act? Is it right for the president thus to offend millions of his own people?"

Concluding his speech angrily, the former chancellor exclaimed:

"The Social Democratic party herewith openly protests against the partisanship of the president and urges the voters to participate in the referendum so that public wealth my triumph over princes' robbery."

SMELTERS SUED IN PATENT CASE

PHOENIX, Arfiz., June 11.—A suit involving large sums has been filed in the United States district court here by George Campbell Carson, of San Francisco, against the United Verde Copper company and the United Verde extension Mining company for profits which Carson claims the defendant companies have earned by using "metalurgical furnaces of the character and description patented" by him.

Carson's patent rights to certain improvements in the construction and charging of open hearth and reverbatory furnaces recently were upheld by the N. S. circuit court of appeals in San Francisco. The new suit is a companion to one originally filed by Carson against the American Smelting and Refining company.

The United Verde Copper company smelters, owned by the estate of the late Senator W. A. Clark, of Montana, comprise a separate business entity from the American Smelting and Refining company, and before the San Francisco decree can be applied to their proceses and properties, it is necessary to establish in the court that similar infringements have been and are being practiced, which Carson contends.

Mexican Highway Laws Like Those Of United States

SALTILLO, Mex., June 11.—Promulgation of the law for construction of public highways and bridges has been made by President Plutarco Elias Calles through publication in Diario Official.

It contains many provisions which are largely patterned after the road acts of the more progressive states of the United States, but regulatory powers are conferred upon the federal instead of the state governments. All matters relating to traffic upon the highways shall be directed by the secretary of communications and public works.

The chief executive of the nation may, whenever he deems it convenient and to the public interests, create a national debt for the construction and improvement of public roads and bridges, issuing bonds for those purposes. Trunk highways are now under construction under the new law, their cost being met by a sales tax on gasoline.

Medals Await 2 Arctic Aviators

WASHINGTON, June 11. — In recognition of his achievement as the first explorer to reach the north pole in an airplane, Lt. Com. Richard E. Byrd will receive from President Coolidge the Hubbard gold medal of the National Geographic society, it is announced.

The ceremony will be held June 23. A gold medal also will be presented to Floyd Bennett, who accompanied Byrd on the flight.

The presentation will be made in the presence of the cabinet, diplomatic corps, scientists and army and navy officers. Before this gathering Byrd will tell the story of his history-making flight from Spitzbergen to the top of the world, and will show for the first time the motion pictures taken during the flight.

College Youths Admit Car Theft

SACRAMENTO, June 11.—Two young collegians from Utah were arrested here after stripping a parked automobile of valuables carried inside.

At police headquarters the boys, Clifford Engborg and Donald Jordan, 20 years old each, confessed to more than a dozen thefts from automobiles in Sacramento in the last few weeks. Both admitted similar operations in other California cities.

They said they were students at the University of Utah, and were on a sight-seeing tour of California.

Propose to Make Marriage Easier

BERLIN, June 11.—Berlin city fathers have decided that marriage is too difficult. Hence they voted for the abolition of red tape, hitherto involved in the ceremony before the magistrate. Henceforth young Berliners who want to get married may obtain the necessary registration papers within one day from one bureau, while heretofore they had to make the rounds of half a dozen bureaus.

Good Roads Bill Passed by Senate

WASHINGTON, June 11.—The senate late today passed the Oddie good roads bill, authorizing appropriation of $165,000,000 during the next three years for highway improvement.

BAR AMERICAIN IS POPULAR IN PARIS

PARIS, June 11.—Instead of calling a lackey and, with the aristocratic air of the old regime, ordering liqueurs for his guests, the owner of a French chateau today looks over the assemblage and says with the slightly slangly accent of modern Paris:

"How about a cocktail at the bar?"

In a corner of the library, at the end of the dining room, or, if the chateau owner is very wealthy and has sufficient room, in a regular bar with all the furnishings that go with it, his guests find a white aproned barman, a rail to place their feet, resplendent glass ware and such an array of bottles as has not been publicly in New York for many a day.

It is not only in the chateaux and country villas but in Paris apartments that this new custom has found a foothold. A few years ago a woman of the high society in France would have been offended if one of her guests proposed a visit to a bar. Those were the days when frequenters of such resorts were placed in two classes — "incomprehensible Englishmen and crazy Americans." The curtains were carefully drawn to hide the scene from the public gaze.

Now the craze for what is known here as a "Bar American" is such that special bars have had to be provided for women in the first class hotels in Paris. Men who want a drink in company of women can enter but the women cannot enter the bars for men.

One young woman, who was married recently, insisted that the furnishing of her apartment should include a bar. It was the only means, she said, of being sure that her husband and his friends would be home for dinner at a reasonable hour.

Start Harvest of Great Wheat Crop

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Calif., June 11—Harvesting of the record breaking wheat crop in this section was started today by hundreds of farm hands, who are here from all parts of the state.

More than two million bushels of highest grade wheat is ready to be harvested. This is the largest production in the history of the central counties.

It is estimated the value of the crop will total more than $3,000,000.

Trapper Fined for Selling Two Skins

MONTGOMERY CREEK, June 11.—Having paid a fine of $25 for trapping without a license, Charles F. Lane casts up accounts and finds trapping is poor business at best. "I killed a bear and a raccoon," he explains. "I sold the bear skin for $2 and the coon skin for $1. I received $3 fo rthe two skins, but I had to pay $2.13 expressage, leaving me only 87 cents in the clear. And now to pay a fine of $25—it's too much."

Tweaked George's Nose; Is Pinched

WASHINGTON, June 11.—Edwin L. McCulloch, secretary to Senator Means, of Colorado, appeared in police court to answer a charge that he had tweaked the nose of George S. Roberts, Washington representative of the Foreign Credit Exchange bureau of the National Association of Credit Men. The case was continued because of lack of witnesses. The trouble is said to have arisen over whether McCulloch was justified in referring to Roberts as "George" during a breakfast discussion.

Tough Luck Trails Publisher's Autos

AUBURN, June 11.—B. A. Sassidy, publisher, thinks a jinx is following his automobiles. Last month one was demolished by a train near Applegate. Two weeks ago another was in a collision and Mrs. Cassidy received two cracked bones. Yesterday a third car was destroped by fire at Yuba City, when the garage at the home of Cassidy's parents, where he was visiting, burned.

Restrictions Put On Arizona Cotton

WASHINGTON, June 11—To prevent the spread of the thurberia weevil, the department of agriculture has announced tentative regulations restricting the movements of cotton and cotton products, as well as other materials capable of carrying the pest from the infested area of Arziona, into or through any other part of the country.

300 HURLED IN PRISON DURING FUNERAL OF YI

SEOUL, Korea, June 11.—Yi, the last emperor of Korea, whose twilight reign ended with the Japanese annexation in 1910, last night was borne to his final resting place, but the great funeral planned by the Japanese government was not carried out without disorders arising from the protest of his former subjects against the alien rule that succeeded his.

As the procession bearing the catafalque of the dead monarch slowly traversed the 14-mile road from the capital to Kinkoku, the burial place, 300 students were held in prison for their part in disturbances that impeded the public funeral procession through the streets of Seoul yesterday morning.

Try to Distribute Pamphlets

The students attempted to distribute pamphlets favoring Korean independence. This caused a disturbance that almost broke up the solemn march from the palace, where the ceremonies had begun at 6:30 a. m., and was quieted only with difficulty by troops, gendarmes and police. A second outbreak came as the catafalque was nearing the funeral pavilion, set up in a great open space a mile from the palace. Here a student raised the Korean cry for independence, someone yelled "Bomb!" and a panic ensued. Many spectators were seriously trampled before order was restored.

More than 100,000 persons lined the route of the procession in the capital, which was heavily guarded by soldiers and police, while a tense atmosphere hung over the proceedings. Seoul was literally crowded by troops and police, the authorities taking every precaution against outbreaks that funeral of the last monarch under whom Korea enjoyed even a shadow of independence.

The procession between Seoul and the great hill at Kinkoku, on which the tomb had been prepared, was greatly curtailed because the Japanese, fearing further disorders, would not permit the public to follow the coffin. Earlier estimates placed the number expected to take part in the long march at 50,000, but this was reduced to a comparatively small figure.

Interment At Midnight

This procession began at 1 o'clock and reached the mausoleum at midnight. Along the road the spectators were mostly women weeping and mourning in the traditional Korean fashion. Two thousand pallbearers garbed in the white of orean mourning shared the burden of the catafalque, acting in relays of 500 each, taking frequent rests for tea and lunch. Prince Yi, Jr., and his wife followed, accompanied by about 300 members of the court, all riding in jinrikshas. The prince and princess spent the night in specially constructed lodgings at the tomb.

The final burial rites were held privately today, according to the Buddhist ritual.

The morning's ceremonies at the palace were attended by descendants of the dead, court officials and other dignitaries. The coffin was then placed on its great wooden catafalque and borne through the streets amid the cries of professional weepers and sobs of women relatives. A representative of the emperor of Japan and the senior member of the foreign diplomatic corps at Tokio took part in the procession, which stretched almost from the palace to the pavilion. There the public funeral was held, after which the body was started on its long journey to the tomb.

W. trial here was upheld recently by the third district court of appeals. The appellate court was notified today that its action in the case had been sustained.

BOOM TOWN OF GOLD RUSH IS NOW FORSAKEN

SACRAMENTO, June 11.—Hidden in the Eldorado county hills northeast of here lies the original boom town of the gold rush days—Coloma, on the site where James Marshall found the first flake of yellow metal that was the impetus for the greatest westward movement known to mining.

Once a city of 10,000 population, it has dwindled until the census taker must count carefully to register a total of 150.

In this village in which California's present-day prosperity was born there remain on its main street only a combination grocery and lunch counter, a postoffice, an automobile service station and here and there the shell of a fire-butted building or the weed-grown foundations of business blocks.

When the gold fever was at its height, stores of all kinds lined the streets of Coloma—there were fourteen hotels, the inevitable Wells-Fargo express office and the usual saloons, gambling houses, a Chinese bank and even a sewing machine agent's office. There was a jail, an armory, four churches and three schools.

Fool's gold still glitters in the sand near the monument marking the site of Sutter's saw mill in the mill race of which Marshall made his discovery, but the yellow wealth of '48 went with the six pony express lines that operated between Coloma and surrounding mines delivering mail for $1 an ounce.

The old jail which housed killers and bad men in those days now is a stable. On a slope back of the town is the lonesome-looking memorial statue of Marshall with bronze finger pointing to the spot where the gold rush began.

MIAMI CHOSEN FOR REALTORS' MEETING

TULSA, Okla., June 11.—Miami, Fla., was chosen as the place for holding the next annual business meeting of the National Association of Real Estate Boards by action of the board of directors, taken here today. The meeting will be held in the middle of January, the exact date to be decided later.

The decision as to where the next annual convention will be held was postponed to the next meeting of the board of directors, to be held in Chicago. Invitations have formally been placed before the association by the following cities:

RUM BOAT TAKEN ACROSS ALASKA

WRANGELL, Alaska, June 11.—Under joint escort of the British Columbia constabulary and U. S. customs officers, a boat load of liquor passed through Wrangell and today was progressing up the Stikine river toward the international boundary.

Its passage through American territory is authorized by precedent established by the old Russian treaty, under which the Yukon and Stikine rivers were made international in character, accessible to both the United States and the Canadian provinces.

The liquor boat will continue 35 miles up the Stikine river to the boundary, where the liquor will be transferred to shallow draft river boats to continue to Telegraph creek, center of the new mining activity in northern British Columbia.

The vessel is anchoring near populated centers at night to avoid the hazards of hijacking.

Freckle-Faced Film Kid to Wed

Barry is 18. Because he is a minor, he filed consent papers signed by his mother, Mrs. Martha Barry Eyre, Los Angeles.

No date or place of the marriage was indicated.

Much Help Given Farmers In West

WASHINGTON, June 11.—The federal government has assumed obligations of farmers on western irrigation projects amounting to more than $27,000,000, as a result of passage of the reclamation relief act, Secretary of Interior Work announced today. The sum represents the charfe-off which congress has authorized to be lifted from the obligations of farmers for project construction.

he had no list of contributors to any Pepper committee, but that the treasurers of the various committees could furnish the information.

"What do you have to do with the raising of money?" asked Reed.

"Practically nothing."

"Who did that?"

Raise Most of Money

"Well, Francis J. McIlheny and W. H. Fotwell did most of it—they and the treasurers who undertook the responsibility for running the campaigns."

"Will you tell us who were the big contributors to the campaign?" Reed asked.

"Well, I don't recollect just now."

"Slightly over $18,000."

Grundy denied repeatedly and emphatically that he had raised money among Pennsylvania manufacturers.

Senator Pepper, unsuccessful in the Pennsylvania Republican race, was called to the witness stand today to relate details of his campaign organization. Pepper, telling how he had set up headquarters through his workers in various sections of the state, declared:

"I obtained the assistance of my friends for this work.

"I did not rely upon paid workers, but on my friends. And I want to recognize now the great obligation that I owe them."

INFLUENCE OF WOMAN MAYOR IS BEING FELT

SEATTLE, June 11—Not a week has gone by since Mrs. Bertha K. Landes became mayor of Seattle, but already her influence is being felt through all the law enforcement agencies in a far-reaching way.

Her latest plan to obtain "honest and vigorous enforcement" was revealed today when it was learned she has made an agreement with Ewing Colvin, King county prosecutor, for co-operation in undercover investigations.

This is the third step she has taken in reorganizing the work of policing her city.

First, she had William earing, her new chief of Police, give the department a thorough shake-up, with removals and transfers to stir it out of its lethargy.

Second, she was instrumental in beginning the organization of a "center crime information clearing house" to further the co-operation of police, sheriff's deputies, federal prohibition agents, coast guardsmen and immigration authorities in the vicinity of Seattle.

Now comes her plan for secret sleuthing.

"It is no reflection on our police force for me to ask for money to employ men to watch them. Other cities do it, and the various federal government departments do it," she said.

At their conference, Colvin said he will ask the county commissioners next month for $5000 for undercover work.

Mrs. Landes indicated she would ask the city council for money for the same purpose to be used in cooperation with the county prosecutor.

Child Dies After Drinking Kerosene

Man's Body Found On Railway Track

SACRAMENTO, June 11—With one leg and one arm cut off by the wheels of a freight train, the body of an unidentified man, about 45, was found on the Southern Pacific tracks at McConnell station, south of here, today.

In the victim's clothing was a bottle of denatured alcohol, purchased in a Stockton drug store.

The coroner's office believes the man was a laborer, who fell from a freight train on which he was stealing a ride.

Apricot Growers Need More Help

HANFORD, June 11.—Apricot growers are facing a serious labor problem, according to R. L. Kimmel, secretary of the chamber of commerce. This morning, calls for pickers could not be filled and practically all cutting sheds are running short handed. It is said that the labor shortage is so acute that growers are facing inevitable loss of a portion of their crops.

Jane Cowl Given Ovation In London

LONDON, June 11—Jane Cowl, American actress, scored a signal triumph in her first appearance in London in Noel Coward's "Easy Virtue" at the Duke of York's theater. The audience gave Miss Cowl an ovation and several curtain calls and finally insisted on speeches by both herself and Coward, the playwright.

Blushing Trees

Among the novel features of the Florida swamps are the blushing trees, writes S. Leonard Bastin in the February St. Nicholas. Certain kinds of trees, normally green, are seen to take on a pink hue on special occasions, such as during a rainfall or when there is a sudden fall in temperature. For a long time an explanation of the behavior of the blushing trees has been wanting. Recently the mystery has, to a large extent, been cleared up. A microscopic examination of the leaves of some of these trees has revealed the fact that they are the homes of myriads of minute insects. These little creatures, whose identity has not been fully determined, appear to make their home on the foliage and, almost certainly live on the sap of the tree. Normally, the insects are as bright a green as the leaves on which they exist, but when rain comes, or, for any reason, the temperature falls, a remarkable change occurs. The green coloration gradually declines and its place is taken by a rosy hue. The insects, although so small individually, are present in sufficient numbers to make the tree as a whole appear to blush. If the rain stops or temperature returns to a more genial degree, the insects become green again in a short while.

TOKIO, June 11.—The war department has purchased a large tract of land near Darien, in the Japanese leased territory in Manchuria, and will establish an aviation base there. The ground is now being cleared for a flying field.

SON OF EDITOR MUST ANSWER IN DEATH CASE

SAN JOSE, June 11.—Frederick David Galloway, 24, today was held to answer to the superior court for the murder of Andrew Pashute, 22.

Galloway, son of a Santa Cruz newspaper editor, declined to take the stand at his preliminary hearing before Judge Charles Witten. He sat, subdued and reflecting, as details of the murder, to which he has confessed, were related.

William Condon, chief deputy sheriff, told of finding Andrew Pashute's body about four miles from San Jose, nearly two weeks ago.

Dr. W. H. Heuschle, autopsy surgeon, related finding 12 to 20 fractures on the skull and face bones of the murdered youth. Any one of the skull fractures, he said, would have caused death.

Galloway, according to his confession, murdered Pashute with an automobile crank.

The third witness was George Pyne, deputy sheriff, who arrested Galloway in Los Angeles. He told of receiving the detailed confession from Galloway and of verification of the signature.

Galloway was returned to the San Jose jail, where he had spent the morning brooding over a richly adorned ukulele, once owned by Pashute.

Liquor, the ukulele and fear were contributing factors to the murder, Galloway said.

Fear arose from belief that Pashute would reveal the story of Galloway's desertion from the army.

Business Women Plan To Attend Convention

Miss Louise Kaiser, president of the Business and Professional Women's club, Mrs. Ruth Ellis, Mrs. Clara Cushman, Mrs. Helen Jeffrey and Mrs. Olive Lopez are planning to attend various sessions of the district federation B. and P. W. convening tonight at Anaheim. The five were named as official delegates of the local club, and some of them will be in attendance at each session.

The big event of the convention will be the dinner tomorrow night at Anaheim Elks club where delegates and visitors to the number of 400 are expected. Helen Harden, retiring president of the hostess club, has arranged an interesting program of music, song and readings to follow the dinner. Santa Ana is sending a delegation of some fifteen or twenty members to the dinner.

The assembly is second in importance only to the state convention which will be held in September in Hollywood, and to which the local club will send several delegates. Tonight's opening session will be a reception to delegates and friends in the Anaheim clubhouse, 411 North Los Angeles street. The credential committee will register district officers, delegates and visitors, tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock in convention headquarters, Anaheim high school auditorium, West Center street.

WATER HEARING IS NEAR COMPLETION

SAN FRANCISCO, June 11.—A hearing, which may decide the extent of the state railroad commission's authority in declaring water companies to be public utilities, opened and neared completion today.

The hearing was on a complaint brought by the Smith Realty company, of Long Beach, against the San Dieguito Water company, in an effort to have the railroad commission declare the water company a public utility, automatically obligating it to serve holdings of the complaining company located in the vicinity of the San Lieguito Water company's water project, near San Diego.

The San Dieguito company contended before the commission that it never had been a public utility and at present serves only four contract consumers, among which are the city of San Diego, the San Dieguito Irrigation district and the Del Mar Irrigation district.

The hearing adjourned at mid-day with the final arguments by W. A. Clary, appearing in opposition to the complaint, still in progress.

Felling of Holy Tree Results In Fatal Accidents

SEMARANG, Java, June 11—Superstitious Javanese have had a new proof of the power of the "spirit," which dwells in the Holy Waringen Tree, as result of the cutting down of one of the trees by servants of an European here.

The Waringen is a great, heavy trunked tree common through Java and the natives worship the "spirit" which dwells in and will not cut down or mutilate one for fear of death.

An European resident named Rees here, however, had no such superstitions and ordered two of his servants to chop down one of the trees which was weakening the foundations of his house as it put forth new roots. After many threats, the servants finally felled the tree.

That night the Rees house collapsed, killing one Enropean and wounding two othors.. Next day the two servants who had cut down the tree died mysteriously, despite the fact that they had placed offerings of rice and fish before all the Waringen trees in the neighborhood in an effort to propitiate the angered god.

In another instance, an European ordered a native up a tree to cut off an unsightly limb. The limb fell on the European's head and he was killed, while the man who had cut it from the trunk of the tree fell and suffered a broken leg.

Sumpter Clark, who is now piloting the Albany team in the Southwestern league, was at one time on the roster of the Cleveland Indians, but more recently has been playing with the Atlanta Southern league team.

Mad Horse Bites And Chases Owner

DES MOINES, Ia., June 11.—"I hope all your rabies die," James Madden, of Oxford, yelled over his shoulder as he heid up his b. v. d.'s and outsprinted an omnivorous horse to the back porch. Dobbin meanwhile bit the head off the family pig and chewed several chunks out of his brother horses. A veterinarian ended his antics with a pistol shot. Madden said he was feeding the horse salt when it bit his arm, and continued to chew at him, ripped off his overalls and chased him about the yard, tearing at his shirt. Madden was given Pasteur treatment for rabies.

Dr. Homer H. Seerley has a record of 40 years of continuous service as president of Iowa State Teachers' college.

Betrothals Weddings Receptions — By Eleanor Young Elliott — Phone Nine-O. — Social Items Fashion Hints

Pre-nuptial Courtesy Extended by Hostess At Jonathan Club

ONE of the many charming affairs complimenting Miss Mildred Paul and her betrothal to Felton Browning, was the dinner which Mrs. Lewis F. Moulton gave recently at the handsome new Jonathan club in Los Angeles, at the same time including her brother, Dr. Cyril Gail of Los Angeles and his fiancee, Miss Hazel Wilkins of Santa Monica, in the little group of honor guests.

Orchid tapers in silver candlesticks shed a soft glow over the table which was attractive in orange and lavender appointments with summer flowers in the brilliant colors. The friendly group included Mrs. William Hunnewell, noted member of the dramatic department of the University of California, Southern Branch, with which she has been connected ever since the establishment of the branch, and Miss Charlotte Moulton, daughter of the hostess, to whom the dinner came as a little farewell event ere her departure for a trip abroad. Beverly Hills friends completed the group.

Dr. Gail is connected with the faculty of University of Southern California where he is in charge of the dental clinic. He was a college-mate of Dr. Cassius Paul, another of the guests, as well as a Delta Sigma Delta fraternity brother.

Following the dinner with its interesting features connected with the anticipated wedding of the four young people, the one of a few months ago of Dr. and Mrs. Cassius Paul, and the contemplated trip of Miss Moulton, the merry group enjoyed a theater party as Mrs. Moulton's guests.

Miss Charlotte Moulton will leave soon for the east, traveling as far as Chicago with Mrs. Ella Campau. She will sail from New York harbor on the S. S. Majestic with the Clarkson tour, but will not return with the party, planning instead to join her uncle, Irving F. Moulton of San Francisco and his party, and return with them on the Olympic which will bring her home in time to register for Pomona College in early September.

Engagement Revealed At Quilting Party

A friendly quilting party held Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. R. Marshall, 1212 Ross street, brought to light the plans of another June wedding when the betrothal of Miss Ruth Elliott and Lauraine Bowe was announced.

The comforts that were knotted during the afternoon by the interested guests, were for the hope-chest of the bride-to-be and the work was accompanied by many friendly wishes for her future. The wedding of the young people was promised as an event of late June.

CHURCH SOCIETIES

Capistrano Y. L. I.

An interesting meeting of Capistrano institute, No. 104, Y.L.I., was held in Knights of Columbus hall last Tuesday evening with a goodly attendance.

The president, Mrs. Stella Engelman, and first vice president-elect, Miss Anne Lieberman, gave excellent reports of the grand institute meeting held in San Francisco and to which they were delegates. The institute went on record as opposed to extremely short skirts, cigarette smoking, narcotics and anything which will detract from the dignity of Catholic womanhood.

Miss Arnella Klatt gave a fine account of the recent biennial meeting in Los Angeles of the Diocesan Council of Catholic Women, at which she and Miss Elizabeth Paine represented Capistrano institute.

During a social period following the meeting, the good of the order committee served ice cream and wafers.

Brotherhood Picnic

One of the most successful parties in its history was presented last Tuesday evening by the Men's Brotherhood of the First Presbyterian church which complimented the Aid society of the church at a picnic supper given at Orange county park.

It was estimated that 300 persons enjoyed the affair, and partook of the sumptuous supper planned and prepared by the men. The menu offered fruit cocktail, baked ham, mashed potatoes, creamed peas, with coffee, buns, jellies, olives and pickles, and a dessert course of ice cream and wafers.

Dr. H. McVicker Smith, president of the Brotherhood, was highly complimented upon the success of the party and the splendid co-operation and work of the members. Mrs. Clyde A. Bach, president of the Woman's society, was one of the speakers at the supper, and expressed the guests' appreciation of the hospitality.

First Christian

Meeting at the community house Wednesday afternoon, the Missionary society of th eFirst Christian church had an interesting session including business matters directed by Mrs. F. T. Porter and program in charge of Mrs. W. T. Mitchell.

A resume of the past year's work was followed by an outline of plans for the coming year and different members contributed items of interest in both phases. Miss Etta Conkle sang "One Sweetly Solemn Thought" after which new officers were installed.

Mrs. F. T. Porter will serve as president in the new church year and will be assisted by Mrs. James O'Brien, vice president; Mrs. W. B. Williams, treasurer; Mrs. Jesse P. Williams, secretary; and Mesdames Charles L. Johnson, C. F. Skirvin, James O'Brien and G. P. O'Connor, division leaders.

Hostess Duo Presents Charming Rose Party To Host of Friends

ROSES, fragrant and beautiful, offered the decorative motif yesterday for a bridge luncheon at which Mrs. V. R. Rossiter and Mrs. Cal D. Lester entertained scores of their friends from this city and Orange, in the charming clubhouse of the Orange Woman's club.

Rose tints prevailed in the massed hydrangeas, dahlias and Canterbury bells adorning the lobby where the two hostesses greeted their guests, and offered a hint of the charming scene in the big banquet room where over thirty tables were arranged for luncheon. On the stage a row of exquisite Cecil Brunner buds outlined the footlights, while rising in tiers above them were banks of dahlias and cannas, shading from palest pink to depe rose.

Luncheon tables were in complete harmony, each centered with a crystal bud vase containing perfect Radiance rosebuds. Center and plate doilies were rose-tinted while nut cups and place cards sounded the same color note and the symphony was completed by the two-course luncheon menu in which the color motif was maintained wherever possible.

A little group of friends from Santa Ana and Orange, assisted in all details of the afternoon, including serving, distributing tally cards and collecting scores at the close of the bridge games. This group was comprised of the Misses Elizabeth Paine, Clara, Armelia and Rose Klatt and Helen Gorman of this city, Miss Lillian Thompson, Miss Watson, Mrs. H. C. Meehan Mrs. H. Krohe, Mrs. J. S. Kramer Mrs. J. D. Spinnetta, and Mrs. F E. Stanley of Orange.

The effect of the beautiful gowns worn by the guests, the charming white frock by Mrs. Lester and the orchid chosen by Mrs. Rossiter, and the vivid rose-tinted flowers against the taupe hangings of the pleasant clubhouse, was exceedingly picturesque and formed one of the most brilliant scenes of the summer's long list of hospitalities.

The gifts chosen by the hostesses to reward those making special scores, were in keeping with the charm of the afternoon and were all the clever handiwork of Mrs. Lester. A hand-painted scarf was presented Mrs. John A. Tubbs, holder of high score while a hand-woven sports scarfs was Mrs. Jack Clayton's trophy as second high. Still a third variety of the popular costume accessory, was the semi-sports scarf of white with pastel trimming, awarded as third prize to Mrs. William C. Thoms of Kalamazoo, Mich., a house-guest of her sister, Mrs. L. A. Collver of 610 South Broadway. Consolation gift presented Mrs. J. Faulkner, was one of the popular fibre bags of Philippine workmanship, which Mrs. Lester had painted in attractive design.

Country Club Members Will Dance Tonight

Dancing tonight at Santa Ana Country club, bids fair to attract an unusually large crowd, as the cool weather makes dancing the ideal amusement, and the spacious ball-room of the clubhouse, the ideal spot in which to enjoy that amusement. The presence of an excellent orchestra will add to the pleasure of the event, and many reservations have been made for dinner preceding the evening of dancing, although the formal supper-dance of the entertainment calendar is not scheduled until June 18.

The bridge party Wednesday was a pleasant affair, and introduced a new feature in serving refreshments following the session of playing, thus offering an interval of friendly chat to the guests. Attractive prizes were secured by Mrs. D. K. Hammond scoring high, and Mrs. Morris Cain, second.

Those attending the various social functions at the clubhouse are happy to welcome Mrs. T. F. McGilvray home from her two months' stay in New York, where she was called by illness in her family. She reached home over a week ago.

Week-end Plans at Parkridge Clubhouse

Santa Ana members of Parkridge Country club are anticipating joining members from other communities tomorrow night in the popular clubhouse near Corona, for a sport dance which promises unusual charm in its informality.

Many of the guests plan to remain over night and be ready for Sunday morning's weekly gun shoot or else enjoy an early game over the club's unequalled golf course. Sunday is the closing date for the $7.70 membership plan which has attracted much interest and resulted in a number of important additions to the club.

Miss Dorotha Pollock Will Wed After Return Home

MR. AND MRS. Harold Kent Pollock of West Fifth street, are anticipating the early return home of their daughter, Miss Dorotha Pollock, after the completion of her year as English teacher in the Pasa Robles high schoo'. However, they will soon be called upon to give her up again, as Miss Pollock's betrothal to Charles Edward Fagg has been announced and the date of June 28 selected for their wedding.

Miss Pollock was a member of the 1925 graduating class of Stanford University and her fiance will complete his work this year in the law department of Stanford. Their wedding will take place in Riverside at the Calvary Presbyterian church with the Rev. William Everett Roberts of the local church, as officiating minister.

Miss Pollock's school was to close today and she planned to leave at once for San Francisco where she was to be soloist at the wedding of a close friend. From San Francisco she will return to Santa Ana by way of Riverside, there to sing at the wedding of still another friend.

The closing weeks of her school term at Paso Robles have been made extremely interesting by a series of dinners, showers and teas arranged in honor of her approaching marriage.

Music Section Will Observe Guest Night

Invitations have beben issued by the Music section of Ebell society, to a delightful program at the club auditorium Monday night at 8 o'clock, in celebration of the section's annual guest day. Program features will include a talk on "Community Music" by Mrs. Mullen of Redlands, who has been a decided factor in the musical and cultural life of her community by bringing famous musicians there each year in programs and recitals. During her stay here, Mrs. Mullen will be the guest of Mrs. Rolla Hays.

Following her talk will be piano numbers by Ione Tunison Peek; a musical pantomime directed by Gladys Simpson Shafer in which Miss Chalma Lindsay, noted dancer, and other talented folk will appear; songs by Madame Leontine Redon, and a one-act play.

Following the program, to which all those interested in music are extended invitation, the guests will adjourn to the peacock room where Miss Leonora Tompkins, leader of the section, and her members will serve light refreshments.

Jolly Dozen

The Jolly Dozen 500 club held a very delightful meeting yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Frank B. Smith, 609 East Fifth street. The living rooms were bright with gladioli and dahlias from the Smith garden.

After the series of interesting games, prizes were awarded to holders of high score at the three tables, Mrs. G. W. Young, Miss Barbara Klatt and Mrs. S. E. Groty. Mrs. John Rudolph received the consolation, a personal gift, which she greatly appreciated.

During the afternoon, Miss Rachel Smith, daughter of the home, and Miss Elizabeth Groty, served delicious punch to the players, who closed the pleasant afternoon with a view of the dahlias, which are just coming into perfection.

Those present besides the hostess included Mesdames S. E. Groty, John Rudolph, J. W. Markel, Frank Koss, Olive Lopez, G. W. Young, Charles Schmiedeberg, Elizabeth Dryer, W. J. Schonberg and the Misses Barbara and Bertha Klatt.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. George W. Young, 1515 North Main street.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Santa Ana Woman's club will meet Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock with Mrs. S. E. Littrell, 207 Cypress street where book reviews will be given by Mrs. Lovisa Leslie and Mrs. Arletta Phillips. Members will be expected to answer roll call with quotations from their favorite authors.

Cradle Roll, Primary and Beginners departments of the First Baptist Sunday school will hold their annual picnic in Birch park tomorrow afternoon from 2 to 4 o'clock, with mothers and friends of the little people invited to come and enjoy the merry party.

SENATE'S VOTE ON FARM AID IS DUE NEXT WEEK

WASHINGTON, June 11.—Farm-relief legislation has started down the home stretch in the senate, with the McNary equalization fee bill losing ground.

The senate has agreed by unanimous consent to limit debate, beginning next Tuesday, and a vote by Wednesday or Thursday is expected by floor manager.

Champions of the McNary measure seeing their support dwindle, they have conceded that the bill will have a close shave. They had depended on help from the southern Democrats, but the leaders of the minority declare the bulk of their members will vote against the bill on the ground that it would serve to make tariff protection a permanent policy of the government.

Mellon Dissents

They received another blow when Secretary Mellon declined to give the equalization fee principle his indorsement. He had been asked by those supporting the bill for an opinion, and indicated that he could not concur in the opinion of Vice President Dawes that the proposal is sound from an economic standpoint.

Encouraged by these developments, the administration forces offered a substitute relief plan, identical with that introduced in the house by Representative Tincher, Republican, Kansas. It provides for a $100,000,000 revolving fund to be used by a federal marketing commission as loans to co-operative farm organizations for the marketing of surplus crops.

Cotton Stabilization

Senator Gooding, Republican, Idaho, made a futile appeal to southern senators, attempting to show the advantages that would accrue to the cotton farmers under the McNary bill. Senator George, Democrat, Georgia, cut him short, however, and drew an admission from him that it would be necessary to stabilize world prices before cotton prices in the United States could be stabilized.

"World stabilization will not benefit domestic cotton growers, but the real benefits would be enjoyed by foreigners by their low cost of production," pursued the Georgia senator. "More good will come to the American cotton farmer from co-operative marketing," he said.

COUNTY HARBOR BOND ISSUE IS LOST AT POLLS

sult of the election was apparent and was so made known to the waiting citizens.

There will be no further attempt made to carry a county bond proposal for development of the harbor, it was announced today by George Peabody, of Newport Beach, member of the harbor executive committee and prominent leader in the bond campaign.

Can't Be Presented Again

Under the present law, the harbor proposal could not again be presented to the voters, Peabody said. The law requires certain procedure, including appointment of a harbor commission, preparation of a plan of improvement by the commission, and presentation of that plan before the voters. If it is rejected, the law provides that it cannot be presented again, he said. Rejection also terminates the service of the harbor commission, said Peabody. If another election should be called, it would first be necessary to start new preliminary proceedings by appointing a harbor commission, outlining a new plan and preparing it for presentation. Sentiment shown by the northern part of the county yesterday precludes possibility of such a move, Peabody believes.

Peabody also declared there was no chance to get an appropriation from the county supervisors for immediate protection of the harbor entrance. There is no fund available for such purpose, he said.

"However," contiued Peabody, "the matter can't stand as it is. We can't let it be said that Orange county doesn't care how dangerous to human life that harbor entrance is. There will be a meeting called next week by prominent citizens of the southern part of the county, to consider several plans which we have in mind for meeting the situation. We are not yet ready to divulge those plans. But we are determined that something must be done, particularly with reference to the harbor entrance."

Pleased by Santa Ana Vote

Peabody expressed pleasure at the showing made on behalf of the bonds in Santa Ana.

"I want to express the appreciation of the executive committee for the work accomplished for the bonds in Santa Ana and for the vote registered there. It was splendid," he declared.

Chairman T. B. Talbert, of the county board of supervisors, were more optimistic than Peabody regarding the possibility of a county appropriation for the harbor entrance. Talbert, in fact, stated that he intended to propose an appropriation, and thought that the county might raise $125,000 for the purpose, without disturbing the present tax rate. With the possibility of some aid from the city of Newport Beach, $150,000 might be raised, he said.

Will Suggest Appropriation

"After the start of the new fiscal year, July 1, we should be able to provide for this in our budget, without an increase in the present tax rate," said Talbert. "I am going to suggest the appropriation, as a matter of good business, as well as for humanitarian motives. Leaving aside the question of protecting human life, however, it seems to me good business to protect the $500,000 investment we made at the harbor in 1919.

"Financially, the county is in a position to make an appropriation, I believe. We are pretty well caught up with the financing of our new Hall of Records and jail, as well as our roads, all having been built by direct atx. In our next budget, we could provide for the harbor entrance easily."

WARDEN STOPS BABE'S FISHING

DETROIT, Mich., June 11.—Babe Ruth, home run hitter extraordinary, deserted the role long enough early today to emulate Izaak Walton at Island lake, near here.

But before catching as much as one fish, a game warden appeared and reminded Babe that the lake was "closed" until June 16.

Ruth accordingly retuned to Detroit, where he had an engagement to play ball this afternoon.

"I really didn't know anything about their game laws," he said just before the game with Detroit at Navin field. He denied that he had been "arrested."

"I was only warned off the premises," he explained.

Mother Doesn't Believe Indians Killed Her Son

DE SOTO, Wis., June 11.—Passage of a life-time has not dimmed the hope of Mrs. Julia C. Coon, 103-year-old Minnesota pioneer, that her son, George, reported killed by Indians while on a journey across the plains from the Black Hills, will soon return to his home here.

The son, a grown man, was supposed to have been killed or captured, tortured and scalped while on his way back home from a hunting trip into the Black Hills.

But hope remains firm in Mrs. Coon's breast because no authentic word of George's death has ever come from the prairies.

FRONK'S PLEA FOR PROBATION DENIED

LOS ANGELES, June 11.—Permission to file an application for probation was denied to J. K. Fronk, convicted embezzler today, in Superior Judge Edwin F. Hahn's court.

Fronk, who was sentenced to from two to 28 years in the state penitentiary, after pleading guilty last Tuesday, made an impassioned personal plea for leniency.

"I'm not a crook. I'd like a chance to come back if possible," declared the convicted capitalist.

"As for my wealth, I haven't $20 to my name. I therefore ask your leniency."

Judge Hahn, in denying the request, said:

"Seems to me we've been lenient enough with you in dismissing the other 20 counts against you."

M. F. M'DONALD ORANGE COUNTY PIONEER. DIES

The death yesterday, of Millard F. McDonald, 68, of 1131 West Third street, marked the passing of one of Orange county's oldest pioneers. McDonald, a resident of Santa Ana and vicinity for the last 53 years, moved to Greenville in 1873 from Iowa. The Greenville district was known as Gospel Swamp at that time and was the only settled area in this section of the county.

A few years after moving to Gospel Swamp with his parents, McDonald met and married Miss Alice Greenwood. He and his wife moved to the Bolsa district, where they lived for 40 years. About 10 years ago, Mr. and Mrs. McDonald moved to Santa Ana, where they had lived since.

McDonald is survived by his wife, Mrs. Alice McDonald; three daughters, Miss Daisy McDonald, of Santa Ana; Mrs. G. W. Calihan, Balboa, and Mrs. A. W. Sullivan, of Bowie, Ariz. Two sons, Milton F. McDonald, of Los Angeles, and Joseph M. McDonald, of Orange, also survive.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon in the Smith and Tuthill undertaking parlors. Interment will be made in Fairhaven cemetery.

PINK PAPER USED FOR CONSTITUTION

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 11.—The original copy of the first constitution of Missouri—part of it written on feminine pink note paper, has been presented to the Missouri Historical society here.

The official records of the first constitutional convention, held from June 12 to July 19, 1820, were deposited with the society by the grandchildren of William Grymes Pettus, secretary to the convention. The sessions were held in the old Mansion House, in a suite of rooms for which $30 a week was paid.

Although part of the record, and even part of the early drafts of the constitution, are scrawled upon pink note paper and other scraps which were available, the final draft is in a perfect hand, flowing and regular, with every "i" dotted and every "t" crossed.

Another recent gift to the society reveals the origin of our slang phrase "two bits," and of a phrase current 100 years ago, "pieces of eight." A Spanish dollar, cut into four pieces was unearthed by a plow at St. Mary's, Mo. Making change was once a task of actually cutting a larger coin into "two bits," "pieces of eights," or even smaller portions.

Postal Revenue Influenced by Solar Radiation

WASHINGTON, June 11.—An apparent relationship between solar radiation and postal revenues has been discovered by Francis P. Sullivan, retiring controller of the postoffice department.

Seeking to explain the coincidence in postal revenues and observed fluctuations of the amount of heat reaching the earth's atmosphere from the sun, Sullivan said:

"A low point of solar radiation rate values coincided with a high point in other values for the year ended March 31, 1923, and a high point of solar radiation rate values corresponded to a low point in bank debits and crude steel orders in the year ended June 30, 1924, followed at a short interval by low points in newspaper advertising and postal revenues."

Two Sponges and Towel Found In Woman's Stomach

SALINA, Kas., Junge 11.—Miss Svea Johnson, a young woman living in the Fremont neighborhood in McPherson county, is dead at a hospital in Lindsborg, following a long illness. Miss Johnson was operated on for an abdominal trouble but failed to recover. Recently she was taken to Lindsborg to a hospital for another operation, but died before it was performed. An autopsy disclosed a towel, 19x24 inches, and two sponges had been left in the abdomen after the previous operation.

Man Fired On In Rio Grande Swim

BROWNSVILLE, Tex., June 11.—An attempt to swim the Rio Grande after the international bridge, connecting with Matamoras, Mexico, had been closed, may have cost the life of Charles F. Smith, traveling salesman of Corpus Christi.

Mexican officers on the bridge fired at him in the water and it is believed he was killed.

With two friends, Smith engaged in a dispute with a Matamoras taxi driver, pursued by friends of the driver. The disturbance attracted officers on the bride, who opened fire.

McLaughlin and brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. John Callaghan of San Francisco, and friends, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Biggs of Long Beach. B. Callaghan, of Redlands, father of the decedent, has been in Santa Ana during his daughter's last illnes, together with her sister, Mrs. McLaughlin, who left for her home in San Francisco today in company with her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Callaghan.

Seeks Prison to Gain Education

VANCOUVER, B. C., June 11.—The penitentiary as an educational institution was lauded in the county court here when Elzer Lavigne pleaded for such a sentence instead of usual committment to jail when he appeared for trial on a robbery charge.

"Send me to the Big House, or I'll kill myself," the prisoner said. "I want to be where I can learn a trade."

Lavigne, a French-Canadian, was wounded four times during the war. He declared he wasn't strong enough to do manual labor and that the war had interrupted his studies.

His request was granted and he is now behind the gray walls of the prison at New Westminster.

Double Guard at Embassy in Paris

PARIS, June 11.—Agitation over the Sacco-Vanzetti murder case in Massachusetts has prompted redoubling of the guards at the American embassy and the residence of Ambassador Herrick. Six policemen, including a cyclist, are now guarding Herrick's home, while five policemen are stationed at the embassy.

HARBOR ISLAND WORK WILL BE STARTED SOON

Undismayed by the defeat of the harbor bonds, citizens of Newport Beach and Balboa today were making plans for rapid strides in building activities. J. A. Beek, ardent harbor booster and a strong believer in the futdre of the harbor, today brought into the harbor a small dredger for the purpose of dredging channels and filling in a four and one-half acre island just north of Balboa Island.

The dredger will start work the first of next week, according to reports, and will move more than 9000 cubic yards of material. Beek, owner of the island, plans to subdivide it and install all modern improvements at once. He will spend several thousand dollars in improving the island.

The fact that Beek is going ahead with the work is regarded as a strong argument in favor of the harbor and clearly shows the esteem in which the harbor proposition is held by Newport people, it was declared today by George Peabody, head of the Harbor Chamber of Commerce.

Shaves While In Air to Win Bet

KANSAS CITY, June 11.—When Paul C. Phelps went up in an airplane as a passenger this afternoon, he had a two day's growth of beard on his face. Fifteen minutes later, when he stepped from the front cockpit, his face was smooth. Phelps received the shave while the plane, piloted by Charles Quinn, circled Richards Field here. The shaving was performed by John H. McPherson, 31, a barber. The high-shaving operation was done, attendants said, "on a bet."

Snake Victim Will Live, Doctors Say

ITHACA, N. Y., June 11.—Leonard H. Spear, who was bitten by a diamond-black rattlesnake while inspecting the zoological collection at Cornell university, has passed the crisis and will live, it was reported by physicians at the city hospital.

The patient was given two injections of Brazilian snakebite serum.

The serum was rushed here by Dr. Raymond L. Ditmars, curator of the Bronx zoo, New York.

Plenty of Bur-r-ds

Dugald, north of Scotland gamekeeper, was much disgusted at his new boss, a loud-waistcoated, cigar-smoking foreigner who had come up from London and announced that he had bought Dugald's precious moor and would be up for the August shooting.

He showed obvious lack of knowledge of shooting, understood the term "guns" to mean weapons when it really means those who carry them, and otherwise incurred the Scot keeper's disdain.

On the day of the shoot the new lord of the moor appeared in a cross-word puzzle set of tweeds and with two dozen guns. A small army of beaters and underkeepers and a long string of dogs followed him forth to the fray.

He banged away all morning.

About noon Dugald announced acidly: "Well, ah thenk we'll be gooin' hame noo."

"Why, what's the matter?" sharply queried the new owner. "Aren't there any more birds?"

"Aye, they's plenty of bur-r-ds," said Dugald, "but yon's the last dog!"—Everybody's Magazine.

Few See Tornadoes

Very few have seen a tornado. There are states in which no tornado has occurred within the memory of the present generation. A year ago the weather bureau published a record of the tornadoes during the eight years from 1916 to 1923 inclusive. During that time, none occurred in these eight states: Maine, Vermont, Connecticut, Rhode Island, West Virginia, Nevada and Oregon. There was only one apiece for seven states: New Hampshire, Maryland, Utah, Arizone, Idaho, California and Washington. There were only two each in Massachusetts and New Jersey.

In those eight years we had 810 tornadoes in the United States, including one in the District of Columbia. Of that number 702 occurred in the twenty states which form a solid block extending from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico. Roughly speaking, they are what we call the widdle west. For this section alone, the average number of tornadoes in eight years was almost eighty-eight a year.

Know What's What

California farmers and fruit growers know what they're about.

According to figures issued at the state capital, in spite of the fact that there was a shrinkage in the acreage tilled in 1925 over that of 1920, the 1925 production figures nevertheless exceed the same figures of 1920.

In cold figures, this is the analysis given: In 1920 California had 29,365,667 acres in farms; last year this figure had shrunk to 27,565,440 acres. But the crop production total, far from reflecting this shrinkage, was 11,469,260 tons in 1925, as compared with 10,922,000 in 1920.

The production increase here indicated is declared to be due chiefly to the expansion seen in the citrus and grape growing industries.

But it is also no doubt true that our agriculturalists are getting more out of the land per acre.

They know what they're about.

Nameless Canvas May Be Valuable

BERLIN, June 11.—After remaining for years nameless and covered with grime, an apparently genuine Titian has been turned up in an antique shop here.

The subject—one that Titian painted more than once—is "Venus, Cupid and the Organ Player," and though the Venus evidently is an idealized figure, the organist has been identified as the youthful Philip, later Phillip II, of Spain, and the Cupid as one of Titian's own infant sons.

Philip met Titian in Milan in 1548 and again in Augsburg two years later, ad so might have sat for the likeness. The painting, after treatment, proved to be well preserved and the blue of the sky in the background is exceptionally intense.

Police News

A report was made today of the theft of $3.50 in cash from the desk of one of the teachers in the Frances E. Willard junior high school. Officer Hershey investigated.

TWO SERIOUSLY INJURED WHEN CAR OVERTURNS

Two persons are hovering between life and death in the Santa Ana Valley hospital today and two others are suffering from slighter injuries as the result of an automobile accident about 6 o'clock last night, on Newport boulevard, nea rCosta Mesa.

Mrs. Minnie Deitmire, East Thirty-first street, Los Angeles, and G. K. Nolan, of Balboa, are in a serious condition, according to reports from the hospital this morning. Both suffered fractured skulls and severe cuts and bruises.

L. N. Lawrence, 5870 Astrolla avenue, Los Angeles, and R. A. Griffin, of Sixteenth and Main streets, Los Angeles, received minor injuries. Lawrence left the hospital this morning.

The accident occurred when the left front wheel of the car collapsed. The car turned over three times, persons who witnessed the accident delared. Mrs. Deitmire was driving the machine. The car was badly damaged.

Captain Meehan, of the state motorcycle squad, and Deputy Sheriff Ed French investigated.

Bryan Abandons His Skull Cap

OMAHA, Neb., June 11.—After 19 years of constant association, Charles Bryan and his famous skull cap have parted company.

Bryan, Democratic vice presidential nominee in 1924, and former governor of Nebraska, was rarely seen without his cranial decoration during the entire 19 years. He wore it constantly during the hectic Democratic National convention in New York.

"I considered the skull cap a necessity for many years," Bryan explained. "The nerves of my head were injured many years ago by my sitting in the sunlight and it affected my sight.

Even when sitting under a brilliant electric light, these nerves have been affected.

"But I figured they had had a score of years of rest and I ought to try to get my head hardened. I keep the cap in my pocket for emergencies, but I very seldom use it any more."

SCHOOL SYSTEM CHANGES WILL BE DISCUSSED

Changes in assignments of teachers in junior high chools, made necessary by a recent opinion by Attorney General U. S. Webb to the effect that the Santa Ana city school system has no right to operate junior high schools, will be discussed at a special meeting of the board of education, to be held next Tuesday, it was announced today at the board rooms.

As a result of the attorney general's opinion, it will be necessary to assign properly certificated high school teachers to instruct the ninth grade in the Julia C. Lathrop and the Frances E. Willard schools, which institutions, with the beginning of the next school year, will lose their official status as junior high schools.

Heretofore teachers holding junior high school certificates, based on normal school or teachers' college diplomas and some university work, but not an A. B. degree, have been employed for all grades in these schools. Inasmuch as high school teachers are receiving more money than those holding junior certificates, the new arrangement will entail some extra expense to the city, it was explained.

Because of reduced revenues, operating as grammar schools, it might be necessary to do away with certain specialized positions in the teaching force heretofore financed by junior high funds.

SPEAKER TELLS IMPORTANCE OF BOULDER DAM

J. Hunter Clark, general manager of the bureau of light and power, Los Angeles, addressing the Lions club here yesterday on the Boulder dam project, indelibly impressed upon the minds of Lions the volume of silt carried by the Colorado river by declaring that the volume each year is in excess of the total amount of dirt moved in the opening of the Panama Canal.

Clark stressed the dangerous situation of Imperial valley by pointing out that the valley itself is a bowl, with the river running along a portion of the rim, and the possibility of irreparable damage being done by the river flooding the valley.

Comparing the flood situation in the Sacramento and Imperial valleys, he said that in the Sacramento river valley, land owners can return to their homes within two or three months after they are driven out by flood waters, while if the Imperial valley should be flooded, the lands would be permanently ruined, ranch owners suffering loss of their holdings.

Drainage Impossible

He said that were the Imperial valley flooded, a permanent lake would be formed, similar to Salton sea, draining of the valley being impossible. Water in the Sacramento river section drains rapidly and land is not ruined, he said.

Reciting conditions in the valley two years ago, Clark said that in June farmers were fighting to keep Colorado river waters from flooding the valley and in September their crops dried up because of lack of water.

"The Colorado river is the greatest natural asset in the southwest and yet the greatest menace," Clark said, in pointing to the possibility of thousands of acres being irrigated and thousands of horsepower of electricity being generated through impounding of the waters as proposed under the Boulder dam plan.

Delegates Are Named

Delegates and alternates to the district convention, in San Francisco, in July, were announced by President Harold Wahlberg, as follows:

Delegates—C. S. Crookshank, T. F. Ham, Bruce Munroe, H. W. Hillyard, S. B. Kaufman, Dr. E. H. Rowland, H. E. Wahlberg. Alternates—W. B. Ashford, Roy King, Bert West, Fred Merker, Herbert Miller, Mason Yould, E. M. Sundquist.

Wahlberg, W. S. Spicer and Dr. E. H. Rowland were named as delegates to the convention of Lions International, to be held in San Francisco at the same time as the district convention. Frank Purinton, Harry Hanson and Glenn Tidball were chosen alternates.

CHICAGO, June 11 — Russell B. Cooper, of Johnstown, Pa., 22-year-old graduate fellow at the Carnegie Institute of Technology, Pittsburgh, told the National Coal association of research methods by which he has obtained 31 gallons of commercially valuable distillate from a ton of coal, while still retaining a ton of coke for fuel.

Boy Having No Arms Plans to Become Artist

DONIPHAN, Mo., June 11.—William Dodd, 8-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Dodd, wants to be an artist, although he was born without arms. In spite of his handicap, he is learning to do virtually everything a normal boy with good arms can accomplish. At present he writes with his toes, plays marbles, throws rocks, draws pictures, carries in wood, and is far ahead of the other pupils in his class room.

FORMER SANTA ANAN IS GIVEN HIGH POSITION

How the Shell Oil company, the world's largest oil concern, has accepted California methods of drilling as superior to all others was disclosed here today with the appointment of Ruric R.)Rick) Templeton, well known former Santa Anan and until last week geological superintendent in Orange county for the Union Oil company, as advisor to the world managers of the Shell company.

Templeton will leave Los Angeles June 20 for the Orient, completing a 22-week tour of inspection of the Shell holdings in China, Japan, India, Straits Settlements and Europe before arriving at The Hague, Holland, where he will make his headquarters.

The office to be filled by the former Santa Anan is one of the hgihest in the Shell company. He will be located at The Hague eight months a year and will spend four months annually investigating oil lands in the United States, Asia, Africa and Europe.

Templeton is a son of J. C. Templeton, former superintendent of schools here, and is a graduate of Stanford university, where he was a nationally known football and track star. At one time he was varsity coach at Stanford and his brother, "Dink" Templeton, now holds that position.

Templeton has been residing at Fullerton for the last year. Mrs. Templeton will join her husband in Holland after he has completed his tour in the Orient.

The appointment of a Californian as advisor to the heads of the various Shell companies follows a recently announced plan of the big concern to adopt American drilling methods and is proof, oil experts declare, that California methods now are conceded to be the most practicable.

LOEB BECOMES OF AGE BEHIND PRISON'S BARS

(By United Press)

JOLIET, Ill., June 11.—Dickie Loeb passed into the state of manhood today behind the prison bars that are to confine him for life.

The millionaire college boy, who killed Bobby Franks, and was spared from the gallows because of his youth, became 21 years of age today. He was only 18 when, with Nathan Leopold jr., he kidnapped and murdered Bobby Franks "for a thrill."

That was May 21, 1924. Dickie became 19 years old on June 11 of that year—just two weeks before his fate was placed in the hands of Judge John R. Caverly.

Young Leopold is nearly a year older than Dickie, but was still 19 when the famous murder case was heard.

For Dickie, his 21st birthday was not unlike other drab days in the state penitentiary. He had hopes that his mother and brothers would pay him a visit, but a driving rain was falling outside and he feared it might prevent them from coming. If they come from their Chicago home, Dickie will be relieved of his prison duties for a few hours to meet them and eat the birthday delicacies that they promised.

It has been nearly two years since Dickie entered the prison gates and he has changed greatly, his guards report. No longer is he the handsome, erect youth who smiled indifferently—almost contemptuously—when he stood before the bar and confessed killing 14-year-old Robert Franks. His athletic frame has sagged—the cheeks that were round and tanned from outdoor sport when first he was arrested, have lost their plumpness and color. Even his mind, according to the jailers, is not so alert and he is considered "queer."

EXPECT THRONG AT DUNTON RECEPTION

George Dunton, Santa Ana Ford and Lincoln dealer, today was arranging plans for entertaining hundreds of friends and patrons at a formal opening of his rebuilt agency quarters next Tuesday night.

The big garage building will be thrown open to the public for inspection and there will be an entertainment program by well known artists and dancing in the latter part of the evening. Horace Fine, automobile editor of the Register, wil lofficiate as master-of-ceremonies.

"We want the entire populace of Orange county to come, give the once over and enjoy the program we will offer," Dunton said, in announcing the formal opening of his agency in the rebuilt structure. The building was damaged by fire about three months ago.

BILLY EVANS Says

DRASTIC ACTION

Manager John McGraw of the New York Giants is one manager who refuses to stand pat when his club isn't winning.

McGraw has the courage of his convictions. If he feels a certain shift will help his team, he goes through with it, regardless of how drastic it may seem.

The Giants looked great in spring training. It seemed as if McGraw would get much better pitching. That was one thing he lacked last season.

His catching appeared a bit uncertain and the soundness of Shortstop Jackson's knee was of much concern to McGraw.

So far the club hasn't got the pitching McGraw expected. The catching has wobbled a bit. Jackson's knee has twice failed him; his injury looks to be very serious, perhaps permanent.

Laboring under those handicaps, the Giants have failed to show pennant form. Disposing of the two veterans, Groh and Nehf, makes it apparent there is going to be a house-cleaning in New York.

You may temporarily halt John McGraw and his ball club but there is no permanently stopping 'em.

PROMISING ROOKIES

During the last five years high-class ball players have been passing out faster than the recruits have been making good.

In the two major leagues there are a number of clubs that are becoming antiquated. There is a decided need of young blood to take the places of the passing stars.

Several clubs are experimenting this year, particularly with infielders.

To my way of thinking, the most improved young ball player in the majors is Fred Spurgeon of the Cleveland club. He is a year or two from being an outstandnig star, but he certainly seems on the way. Every day he shows improvement in his play.

Detroit, by the way, has a classy looking youngster in Gehringer, and the Yankees have another in Lazzeri.

That in itself is no mean feat but more important, it is proof that the brilliant Bob Meusel is showing the one thing he has always lacked, initiative.

That alone has kept him from being regarded one of the greatest outfielders that ever camped under a fly ball. He deserves such a rating.

Meusel has every physical asset as well as a keen mind, but Bob seemed to lack the competitive spirit that tends to bring out a man's talents all the more.

This year he is showing the proper initiative and aggressiveness that recently caused Manager Miller Huggins of the Yankees to remark:

"There is no more valuable player in the American league than Bob Meusel."

COMPETITIVE SPIRIT

A competitive spirit is a great thing in sport, golf in particular.

The winning of the British amateur by Jess Sweetser is the best proof that could be offered of the high value of a competitive spirit.

Recently, in discussing Sweetser's feat with one of the game's greatest professionals, who prefers that I do not mention his name, I was told:

"Sweetser won because he is a fighter. I rate four other American amateurs who invaded Great Britain as better players than Sweetser but none of them has his fighting spirit.

"Sweetser came from behind in most of his matches to win. At the finish of the first nine holes in three of his clashes he was down to his opponent. That means considerable when only 18 holes are played.

"He is a great golfer but his competitive spirit is even greater. It was his best asset in winning the British title."

COSMETICS ARE BIG NECESSITY IN ATHLETICS, GIRLS DECLARE

CLAIM SHINY NOSE NEVER EXCUSABLE

Judges Unable to Fathom Deep Arguments and Refuse to Return Verdict

Although all sorts of ingenuity has had play in determining new modes, it took the Santa Ana High School Girls' Athletic association to suggest that compacts are essential in athletic contests.

An impromptu debate on the subject was held by the girls at the closing banquet of the year, held Wednesday night in Ketner's gold room.

The subject of debate was, "Resolved: That Girls Should Carry Powder Compacts While Playing Basketball.' 'The affirmative of the question was taken by Miss Virginia Brannon and Miss Marie Tumlinson and the negative side was argued by Miss Mary Goodykoontz and Miss Janet Wilson.

Arguments waxed warm.

Want "Time Out"

My, horrors at the thought of having a shiny nose in a basketball game or on any occasion. "Time out" by all means should be allowed the girls to restore "that schoolgirl complexion."

The judges, the Misses Alverda West, Thelma Patton and Gayle Baldwin, were unable to agree on a decision.

The debate was but one of the features of the program. Between courses, toasts were given. Miss Mary Jane Owens gave a toast to Miss Alverda West, girls' coach. Others were given by Miss Janet Wilson, to Miss Thelma Patton, and by Miss Gayle Baldwin, new G. A. A. president, to Miss Evelyn Yount, retiring president.

Humorous Talk Given.

The affair was given a touch of humor by the impromptu speeches by Miss West, on "The Use of Lemon Cucumbers for Hockey Balls," and Miss Patton, on "A Ride From Siberia to Balboa on the Tail of a Shark."

A kitchen orchestra furnished music. The players were the Misses Clara Kate Owens, Catherine Walbridge, Sherrill Spurgeon, Florence Walbridge and Mable Robertson.

Class numerals were awarded to the senior hockey team as the championship squad in the interclass playoffs. Those receiving numerals were the Misses Goodykoontz, R. Walker, B. Walker, Evans, Hilgers, Chambless, James, Tumlinson, Yount, Fernandez, Lutz, Owens, Hall, Backs and Dart.

PROMINENT S. A. PRINTER DROPS DEAD AT 'CASE'

William Witherow, 60, well known in Orange county among the printing fraternity, dropped dead late yesterday afternoon at a "case" in the Santa Ana Bulletin office. Witherow had worked at the printing business here for the last 18 years and had worked in many of the newspaper offices in Orange county.

He was setting type in the Bulletin office when the summons came. The body is in the Winbigler Mission Funeral home. Arrangements for the funeral had not been completed today.

He is survived by four sons and two daughters. The sons are Clayton, of Fullerton; R. S., of Santa Ana; George, of Earlimart, Calif.; and Mark, of Montebello. The daughters are the Misses Mabel and Ethelda, of Orange. A sister, Mrs. Mabel Trussler, resides in Long Beach.

At the time of his death, Witherow had apartments at 113 East Third street.

REV. SCHROCK WILL DELIVER BACCALAUREATE ADDRESS TO JUNIOR COLLEGE GRADUATES

Baccalaureate service for the graduates of the Santa Ana Junior college will be conducted by the Rev. Perry Schrock at 11 o'clock next Sunday morning, when the pastor will speak on "Life's Highest Service," in the First Congregational church.

Special arrangements are being made to receive the students of the 1926 class. A reserved section, is to be set apart for the graduates.

Ushers will be junior college students.

Special music has been arranged. Mrs. Walter F. Spicer will play several violin selections and Miss Ola Blair will sing a solo.

The baccalaureate service will usher in the events of the commencement week of the Santa Ana junior college. Wednesday night, the annual student body banquet is to be held in the Women's clubhouse, Orange. Thursday night, commencement exercises will be held in the high school auditorium.

Twenty-eight students will graduate with the class. The commencement address will be delivered by William C. Morgan, of the University of California, Southern Branch. Morgan is recognized as one of the best public speakers in the Southland, according to Principal D. K. Hammond, who has prepared the commencement program.

Morgan is to talk on "What Am I Digging For?"

The junior college graduation exercises will be open to the public, it was announced today. Large audiences are anticipated at both the baccalaureate and commencement programs.

LAST RITES HELD FOR MRS. HEANEY

Last solemn rites of the Catholic church were said this morning for Mrs. Hugh J. Heaney, in St. Joseph's church, the Rev. Father Henry Eummelen officiating at the requiem high mass, which was sung by the choir, with Miss Josephine Yoch at the pipe organ. Miss Elizabeth Easton sang the offertory solo, "Rose of the Cross," and Miss Anna Young took solo parts in the mass.

An honor guard from the various church organizations, of which Mrs. Heaney was a member, formed an aisle for the casket, as it was taken from the home, and also from the hearse to the vestibule of the church, two honorary pallbearers having been selected from each order.

The pallbearers were Michael Lynch, Carl M. Heim, Leo Young, Harry Baade, Frank Trujillo and Martin Biggs, the latter from Long Beach.

A profusion of flowers showed the esteem in which Mrs. Heaney was held. Father Eummelen spoke highly of her life on earth.

Interment was made in Calvary cemetery, Los Angeles.

Y. W. C. A. SUMMER CAMP IS PLANNED

Summer camp plans have been made by the Santa Ana Young Women's Christian association. For years such camps have been conducted for the boys of Orange county but this will be the first of its kind for girls. Girls will be in camp during the week of August 3 to 10. They will spend the week at Camp Osceola, in the San Bernardino mountains. This will be a joint camp for Girl Reserves from Orange, Anaheim, Garden Grove and Santa Ana, and will be limited to senior high school girls or those who will be in senior high school the coming semester. There will be a program of activities for each day, insuring a profitable and enjoyable vacation week. The camp will be in charge of Y. W. C. A. secretaries and advisors.

SHORT WALNUT CROP EXPECTED IN SOUTHLAND

Orange County Production Not Expected to Exceed 25 Per Cent of Normal

Judged from the settings at the present time, the 1926 Orange county walnut crop will be only 25 per cent of the normal production, in the opinion of J. E. Gowen, secretary of the Santa Ana Walnut Growers' association.

The nuts still are setting and a few weeks more may result in a more optimistic view being taken of the crop situation, he said, but in any event, the crop will be a great deal short of the normal crop.

There have been a number of reasons set forth for the shrinkage of the walnut crop. Gowen's idea is that the dryness of the ground between the irrigated soil on the top and the moist soil that holds the deep roots has been partially, at least, to blame. On sandy soil, where the fall rains permeated to the deep roots, good settings have been observed in the walnut groves, he said.

The general opinion of walnut growers in Southern California is, according to the Santa Ana secretary, that the crop of the Southland will not run over 60 per cent in any event.

If the foreign crop is not heavy and the holdover crop is not sufficient to cause any great effect on the market, the prices obtained by the growers this fall should be comparatively good, he believes.

The quality of the nuts this year, in Gowen's opinion, is almost uniformly good, which will be decidedly in favor of the Southern California growers when the product goes to market.

The walnut men feel the short crop this year more because of the disappointing results obtained last year, it was added.

LOST BELL FOUND BY 'DIVINING ROD'

STOCKHOLM, June 11 — The staunch supporters of the old-time divining rod have scored a success against their scientist opponents by ascertaining the location of an old church bell, sunk off the Swedish coast during the Russian shore raids in the war of 1809.

The bell belonged to the church on the island of Vaddoe and local tradition has it that, in order to save the bell from the Russians, it was placed on a sled, but that its weight broke the ice as it was being taken across a frozen passage to the mainland.

It has now been located by a divining rod man, a painted named Karlstrom, who claims to have the power to find hidden objects of copper, brass or silver. To prove that he had found the church bell, two iron rods were driven down to it, about 12 feet, and an electric bell was made to ring through the submerged contact. Now the islanders have organized a committee to build a coffer dam and raise the bell. Those who cannot work contribute money.

All over Sweden divining rod men are still in much demand for the discovery of well springs and water rveins and in the press a dispute has been raging for months as to the scientific basis for their reactions.

APPROVAL AND CENSURE OF CONDITIONS IN SANTA ANA'S JUVENILE HOME ARE VOICED

Approval, as well as censure, of conditions as they exist in the Orange County Juvenile home, located in Santa Ana, is expressed by Mrs. Harvey M. Harper, of Eureka, Calif., in an interview published in a recent issue of Humboldt Times, a daily paper issued in Eureka, the county seat of Humboldt county.

Mrs. Harper is the chairman of the juvenile home committee of Humboldt county. Prior to being appointed to that position, she served on the county grand jury. She also is actively identified with the Parent-Teacher movement and other social welfare activities in Humboldt county.

Made Visit Here.

Last month she visited Santa Ana while making a survey of institutions for the care and education of neglected children. During her visit here she visited the county juvenile home and conferred with A. J. Cranston, city superintendent of schools, who is chairman of the county juvenile home committee.

The interview goes on to say that she was impressed with the work and policy of City Superintendent Cranston, who believes that the problem of dealing with juveniles should be handled as an educational matter and not from the standpoint of penalogy. She was well pleased with the educational work carried on in the Santa Ana institution, where, she added, the teaching is especially efficient. Speaking of the institution as a whole, she thought that but for the fact that quarters and equipment are cramped, excellent work is being done for neglected youth.

There were some features, however, in the local institution, which failed to arouse her enthusiasm. Among them was an apparent prison atmosphere, as evidenced by cells and cages. Contrasting this condition with other schools she visited, her observations are set forth in the following paragraphs:

Pleased With Schools

"In San Diego, Mrs. Harper found unusually fine work being carried on, both in the San Diego Parental school, where an average of 30 are being taken care of in a $50,000 building, and the probation system for the children which is in operation there. Here, as in Ventura and later in the Whittier school for boys, Mrs. Harper observed that the system of having separate rooms for the children was found the wisest, and helps to do away with the undesirable prison atmosphere, apparent where they were placed in wire cages without privacy, as is still done in the Santa Ana 24-hour school."

She also noticed in the case of the Santa Ana school that the salaries of the man and his wife, who have charge of the school, are insufficient for the work.

Mrs. Harper was particularly impressed with the ideal condition obtaining in the San Diego school, which, she thought, should serve as a model for other institutions.

PRESSON WILL NOT ARGUE IN DOG QUESTION

When asked this morning for a reply to the charges made by the Orange County Chiropractic association against the medical profession, and his office in particular, in the matter of compulsory immunization, Dr. V. G. Presson, county health officer, declared that he neither had time nor desire to enter into controversies with people who are prejudiced against medical science and its remedies against disease.

The chiropractors' communication to the county supervisors, protesting against the recent emergency ordinance, requiring vaccination of all dogs against rabies, declares that there have not been three cases of rabies in the history of California. Answering this assertion, Dr. Presson called attention to the fact that since January 1 of this year there have been not less than 27 cases of rabies in the county, all of which were fully established by post mortem examination. He added that as a result of the rabies outbreak, seven persons have been taking treatment against the dreaded disease.

He promised to be present at the next regular council meeting, when the proposed city emergency ordinance, modeled after the one adopted by the county, will come up for adoption. At that time, he added, he not only will present evidence by leading authorities regarding the benefits of immunization, but give facts and figures that are somewhat at variance with those quoted by the chiropractors.

He also intimated that in all probability, representatives of the state board of health would be present to refute the charges made by the chiropractors.

BOY, 4, HIT BY CAR NEAR DEATH, FEAR

Phillip Powell, four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Powell, 207 1-2 East Maple street, Fullerton, was in a critical condition at the Fullerton hospital today where he was taken after being hit by an automobile driven by Charles Koenneker, San Diego. Physicians said the boy was suffering from a basic fracture of the skull and that it was doubtful if he would live.

The accident occurred on South Spadra street and was unavoidable, according to Koenneker, who said he was driving slowly and that the Powell boy suddenly darted in front of the machine, apparently not having noticed it approaching.

MARRIAGE HERE ONE DETAIL IN ALLEGED WILD SOCIAL CAREER

RECENTLY ARRIVED FROM PHILADELPHIA

Draft Deposited in Name Of Baldwin Locomotive Works Head, Police Say

Acquiring a wife in Santa Ana, through a ceremony performed by the Rev. Perry F. Schrock, pastor of the First Congregational church, was but one of the details of a whirlwind financial and social career, which landed J. Lee Wright Montgomery, 26, in the Los Angeles county jail on a forgery charge, according to information reaching Santa Ana today from Los Angeles, concerning the debonair "world traveler" and "cadet lieutenant."

Another mere detail in his blazed trail of checks was the depositing of a draft in the name of "Stanley B. Vauclain, president of the Baldwin Locomotive works," but in neglecting to remember Vauclain's first name is Samuel, Montgomery "slipped an important cog," dispatches further related.

Married In Santa Ana

On June 8, County Clerk J. M. Backs issued a marriage license to J. Lee Wright Montgomery, 26, of Los Angeles, and Louise M. Hughes, 30, of Redondo Beach, the ceremony being performed later by the Congregational pastor, records here show.

The forte of Montgomery, who is said to be a recent arrival from Philadelphia, was depositing worthless drafts and then getting travelers' checks on them, it is charged.

Montgomery, police say, arrived in Los Angeles the latter part of May and opened an account with the Pershing Square branch of the Pacific-Southwest bank by depositing a $2000 draft in the name of Vauclain. Then, it is said, he went to another window and got $2000 in travelers' checks on the draft.

Checks Are Refused

On May 28, the story goes, he tried to get travelers' checks at the National City bank after depositing a draft of $2000 in his own name, but the bank refused to issue the checks on such short notice. Some time later, police say, he urged the manager of the American Express company, Seventh and Olive streets, to appoint him a representative to conduct world tours, declaring he had intimate knowledge of foreign lands. At the express company, it is charged, he obtained $400 in travelers' checks on a worthless check on the National City bank.

He got $400 more in travelers' checks, it is said at the California bank on June 8, when an employe thought he recognized him as a client after he had opened an account by depositing a $2500 draft on the First National bank in Philadelphia. The same day, the account continues, he was refused travelers' checks at the Merchants' National bank, where he deposited a check on the Security Trust and Savings bank. He had, it is declared, obtained $400 in travelers' checks at the Security bank by depositing a $4000 check on the Merchants' National.

Tried to Join Lodge

On June 4, police charge, he applied for membership in a lodge, representing himself to be Vauclain, of the locomotive works. He game a check for $140 on the Na-

EASY WAY TO REDUCE

Adopted by Many of New York's Beautiful Actresses and Chorus Girls

HOW to be slender is the question agitating all feminine hearts today—Why? Because a woman cannot look at her best if she is overburdened with ugly rolls of FAT.—"If a woman cares to look youthful she must be slender."

Now that SILPH, an easy, safe and inexpensive chewing gum to reduce, is on the market, there is no excuse for fat people not to at least try it! Most people wish to be slender but few are willing to go through strenuous exercises or follow weakening diets—SILPH seems to have filled the gap—it is harmless, easy and pleasant. No impossible over night reductions are claimed for SILPH—it appears from reports received that the loss of weight is generally 3 to 4 pounds a week. Men use it as well as women and it seems to give them very gratifying results—Try it yourself today, but do not accept a cheaper imitation. Comes in a handy, GREEN box—at all good drug or dept. stores — sells for 50c; comes in one size only. If your druggist is out of it send direct to the SILPH CO., 9 W. 60th St., N.Y.C.

IMPORTANT: After you have given SILPH a fair trial (remember that we do not claim "wonderful reductions" in one week) if you are not entirely satisfied your druggist will refund your money so the trial does not cost you a cent but be sure and get the green box.

YOST BROADWAY THEATER

Rosemary Dering, the girl who recently was selected as "Red" Grange's leading lady for his motion picture, is most unique in her style of dancing, assisted by her most able partner, Noel. Rosemary and Neel McDaniel head the vaudeville at th Yost Broadway theater in a most delightful and original series of dances.

The three Melody girls is an offering made up of beautiful girls in a routine of harmony numbers and solos.

"The Bear Cat," from the magic pen of Willard Mack and presented by Fred C. Hagan and company exemplifies this bit of philosophy.

Hagan depicts a happy husband with but one worry.

Seldom do we find a man so expertly versatile as Tim Marks, who is known as "The Versatile Chap." Many have been proclaimed as such, but exceedingly few have shown the versatility, ability and the knowledge of combining for entertainment purposes their talents as has Tim Marks. He is what one might call a "dancing field" if strict adherence to the art of terpischore can be so accounted.

Hjlan's "Wonder Birds" offer an interesting bit of entertainment and show the wonderful possibilities of the cockatoo when trained. The brilliant colored feathered thespians have a diversified program and the featured stunts are the firing of a cannon by one of the bird actors and the drill in which they march with the precision of soldiers.

"Its the Old Army Game," a picture featuring W. C. Fields, is the Yost Broadway's screen attraction.

W. C. Fields, now playing at the Yost Broadway theater in "It's the Old Army Game."

WEST COAST-WALKER

"The Gold Rush," Charlie Chaplin's new screen feature which closes Saturday night at the West Coast Walker theater is a symbolical autobiography by Chaplin himself.

With that genius which is peculiarly his own, and against the background of old Klondike gold rush days of Chaplinesque conception, the greatest screen-comedian has depicted with subtly tender and delicate masterstrokes the struggle of man's eternal hunt for happiness, its heartbreaks and tears and its laughter and joy.

Charlie Chaplin of the derby, cane, baggy trousers, funny mustache and waddling walk who has made the whole world laugh more than any other mere comedian that ever lived, has built in "The Gold Rush," a delightful structure of fun and laughter.

On the tragedy and misery suffered by the pioneers who first journeyed to the ice-bound Alaska, and on the drama of the soul sufferings of the sourdough who braved mountains, ice, snow and starvation and death in their mad rush for gold, Chaplin has built the funniest and most hilarious comedy of his career.

He has clad himself in the role of a hard-luck sourdough who chases rainbows of the soul and heart in the midst of a mob that chases one thing only—gold and nothing but gold. Pathos and suffering are converted into comedy and laughter—there is a laugh in every one of the eight thousand or so feet of "The Gold Rush."

YOST THEATER

"The American Venus," Paramount's widely heralded film special, which had its local premiere last night at the Yost theater, appears to be blessed with every ingredient that makes for entertainment not only on the screen, but on the musical comedy stage as well.

Of the comedy, romance and thrills that develop in the course of the picture's unreeling, it is perhaps best not to go too much into detail; suffice to say, that they hinge on the efforts of a beautiful girl, aided and abetted by an enterprising press agent, to win a national beauty contest in order to boost the complexion creams and lotions manufactured by her father.

Esther Ralston is a radiant vision of blonde loveliness and makes an appealing sympathetic heroine; Lawrence Gray plays the exuberant publicity man with commandable zeal and vigor; Ford Sterling provokes laughs and chuckles with his usual facility; and Fay Lanphier, who was crowned "Miss America" at the recent Atlantic City bathing beauty pageant, brings both beauty and talent to the title role.

Mrs. Mary B. Cothran is the new manager of one of the largest and most exclusive apartment hotels in Washington, D. C.

SENATOR MOSES HAS OPPOSITION

CONCORD, N. H., June 11—New Hampshire's political campaign, involving the question of whether U. S. Senator George H. Moses is to be returned for a third term is getting under way.

The Republican state primary election will be held on September 7. Because New Hampshire is a Republican state by a substantial majority, there is little question but that Senator Moses, if renominated, will be elected in November.

His opponent at the primary will be Robert P. Bass, former governor and recently a member of legislature from Peterboro. Bass represents the progressive wing of the Republican party; Moses, the "regular" Republicans.

Bass was Governor in 1911 and 1912 and was one of the "seven little governors" who in 1912 memorialized Theodore Roosevelt to be a candidate for the presidency. In that campaign, Bass quit the G. O. P. and was titular head of the Progressive party in this state and its candidate for U. S. senator in 1913. When the Progressive party collapsed, he returned to the Republican fold and was elected to the legislature as recently as 1923.

Senator Moses always has been a straight party man. He was first elected to the senate to succeed Dr. Jacob H. Gallinger, in 1918, and served the remainder of the latter's term. In 1920, he was re-elected for a full term, which he is now completing.

O'DONNELL IS WELCOMED AT HOBOKEN PIER

NEW YORK, June 11.—Patrick Cardinal O'Donnell, primate of Ireland, stood in the dignity of his robes and his 70 years on a Hoboken pier as he landed from the liner President Roosevelt today and spoke deprecatingly as a crowd of churchmen and laymen joined in welcoming him to America.

"I am but a humble man," the prelate said, speaking of the impressive welcome being accorded to all the foreign church leaders arriving for the coming Eucharistic congress in Chicago.

Six feet tall, broad-shouldered and genial, the cardinal, who comes from County Armagh, had played deck golf and joined in other deck sports on the trans-Atlantic voyage. He was interested principally in telling of Ireland's affection for America and in meeting an uncle, John Breslin, of Brooklyn, N. Y., whom he had never seen.

Seventy other churchmen were in the cardinal's party, which was met at the pier by Mayor Frank Hague, of Jersey City, Acting Mayor Augustus Bach, of Hoboken, and New York and New Jersey clerics.

Cardinal O'Donnell is the second primate of Ireland ever to visit the United States.

There are more than 3,000,000 Catholics in Ireland, he said.

The party was taken to the Battery on the fireboat John Purroy Mitchel, whence the cardinal was escorted by a parade to the Vanderbilt hotel. He will remain there until next Wednesday, when he leaves for Chicago.

Meanwhile, civic and church leaders were preparing an enthusiastic welcome to Cardinal Bon Zano, papal delegate to the Eucharistic congress, who is due later today on the steamship Aquitania.

Dr. Fortunate Pita, of Funchal, Madeira, who claims to have discovered a cure for cancer, has been called to Lisbon to experiment in the hospitals.

Steno Sues Man For Failure to Appear In Coat

BERLIN, June 11.—Introduction of the venerable American hot-weather custom of wearing shirt-cleeves in an office has had a legal aftermath in Germany.

It must be realized that shirt-sleeved men are not tolerated in German offices at which women are employed. Coatlessness is considered akin to nudity.

Although the local court prohibited the publication of the names of the principals in this lawsuit, the facts themselves are eloquent:

His secretary entered the office, saw her boss in shirtsleeves, shrieked and rushed from the room, never to return.

The next day she filed suit against her employer, whom she charged with behaving in a manner calculated to offend the sensibilities of a young lady. The alleged offense comprised appearance without a coat. The judge solemnly deliberated and acquitted the defendant.

Thereupon the young lady arose, indignantly, and declared:

"I deeply regret the low, depraved moral standards of this court. You are incapable of comprehending the honor and dignity of a lady."

Instead of having a warrant issued for contempt of court, the judge smiled as the plaintiff stalked from the courtroom.

NEW TREASURE HUNT WILL BE MADE IN CUBA

HAVANA, Cuba, June 11.—A treasure hunt for revlutionary funds amounting to $200,000 in U. S. currency is being organized by veterans of the Cubar War for Freedom, at Aguacate, Cuba.

According to the veterans, just before the battleship Maine was blown up in Havana harbor in 1898, a Cuban filibustering expedition raised $200,000 in the United States. The Spaniards, hearing of the fund, detailed soldiers from Havana to go to Aguacate to investigate the rumor. The Spaniards were successful in locating the group of patriots having the money and pursued them so closely that one of the Cubans buried themoney one of the Cubans buried the money in a secret cache. The Cuban was killed by the Spanish soldiers and the secret died with him.

The remainder of the band now believe they have located the approximate location of the treasure on a farm owned by an American and are endeavoring to get permission from the owner to search for the money on his property.

Cuba abounds in tales of buried treasure. Pirates of the Spanish main are supposed to have buried some of their loot on the Isle of Pines. Several of the keys off the south coast are thought to contain treasure buried by pirates.

Another story circulated in Havana is of a group of German, who, when Cuba joined the Allies against Germany, buried $3,000,000 in cash and jewels on the beach a few miles from Havana, to prevent confiscation by the Cuban government. A group of American adventurers, overhearing instructions for locating thetreasure being given to representatives of the Germans in Havana several years later, made an efofrt to reach the place where the treasure was buried ahead of the representatives but arrived only to find a freshly dug hole in the earth.

PILL-SLAVE FREED FROM CONSTIPATION

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN brought natural relief in a few weeks

A remarkable, convincing tribute is paid Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in this letter from Mr. F. C Aminsen, of Seattle:

"I suffered with chronic constipation for many years and was compelled to use pills every night, but since I got your Kellogg's ALL-BRAN it works fine. I would not be without it. I was so deathly sick of taking pills every night. Now it is so different. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN works so naturally and is pleasant to take."

F. C. AMINSEN,
Kennyhole, Seattle, Washington.

You can get permanent relief from constipation with Kellogg's ALL-BRAN if eaten regularly. Two tablespoonfuls daily—or in chronic cases, with every meal. Doctors recommend it because it is ALL BRAN. It does a job only ALL-BRAN can do. Part-bran products may not do any good at all.

Eat Kellogg's ALL-BRAN with milk or cream. Use it in cooking. Try the recipes given on the package. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is made by Kellogg in Battle Creek, Michigan. Served by the leading hotels and restaurants. Sold by grocers.

WOULD EXTEND AID TO MEXICO IN BUG BATTLE

OLYMPIA, Wn., June 11.—Declaring that "a bug has no more respect for the international boundary than a bootlegger," Dr. George P. Clements, of the agricultural department of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, told the Western Plant Quarantine board, in convention here today, that it was vital that Mexico should be protected from plant pest invasions from foreign shores.

"Mexico's west coast is at the present moment in a process of transition," Dr. Clements said. "New, clean, almost untouched in regard to commercial agricultural production; capable, due to climatic conditions, of a development including the sum total of economic plant life; an infant in arms—Mexico, next to Asia, is our greatest menace.

"Mexico's west coast realizes the precariousness of her position and is laying the foundation for her own protection. She is establishing quarantine regulations at the only point of contact between the east and west and is endeavoring to build up a quarantine and plant pest division in the south that will protect her against the Pacific and in so doing protect us also.

"To the west of us lies Asia—centuries saturatedt, buried in accumulated filth, pests and disease—Asia, which has grown immune to disease through constant contact and whose very vegetation has done likewise.

"The Pacific coast, a new country, susceptible to disease, finds its whole future salvation dependent upon keeping animal and plant pests out of our country and in eradicatiang those which have already found footing. This can be done only by uniform and rational quarantine.

"Our goal is and must continue to be that of agricultural and human cleanliness. We must clean up, costly as it is. The bringing together of these several states under one organization is the first step toward extending our quarantine border to include them all."

Capital Letter

WASHINGTON, June 11.—Has the jacksnipe any better title to demand the federal government's protection than the jackrabbit?

Isn't the jackrabbit just as noble an animal as a jacksnipe is a bird?

If a lot of special rights, privileges and immunities are to be guaranteed to jacksnipe, under the laws of the United States, why can't jackrabbits, with perfect propriety, claim the same ones?

All these questions were hotly argued in the senate the other day, in connection with the action taken on what's known as the "migratory bird bill."

The jackrabbit was ably represented but it did him no good.

Among farmer members of congress, it seems to be the consensus that there can't possibly be too many birds but that rabbits always are liable to become a pest.

That it's discriminatory against jackrabbits wasn't the only reason, however, why the "migratory bird bill" was fought.

It provides, among other things, for a whole batch of new officials.

Ostensibly its purpose is to protect migratory birds, which, being interstate travelers, aren't adequately protected, it's represented, by the game laws of the respective states.

So "bird sanctuaries" are provided, here and there, throughout the whole land, where birds can lay eggs and hatch 'em in safety, and increase and multiply to beat a full house.

Theoretically it sounds friendly to the birds. But—

During the "open season" hunting it to be allowed in part of each "sanctuary." "Shooting grounds" they call 'em. A "shooting ground" and a "sanctuary" are two terms that don't ring on the ear exactly alike.

The bill also requires anybody who goes migratory bird hunting except on his own land to have a federal license. Price $1. At that figure a lot of licenses undoubtedly will be taken out.

The fund's total probably will run into the millions.

And 40 per cent of it's to be spent in hiring federal game wardens—a nice additional bit of patronage for politicians to dish out.

The state rights folk in congress raise the point that we have a great plenty of petty federal officials now. They don't want any more.

Others' sensibilities are shocked at the idea of inviting a migratory bird to make a "sanctuary" his temporary home without advising him that it adjoins a "shooting ground."

They say it will make for "drives," such as they have on European preserves, where so-called sportsmen go out and butcher oodles of semi-tame game, without givin it a chance. They accuse shotgun and ammunition manufacturers of having thought this smfcohönsh6ih 78 828 28 8228 this scheme up.

It was Senator Reed, of Missouri, who raised the question as to the jackrabbit's rights.

If a "sanctuary's" a good thing—and he didn't insist that it is, with a "shooting ground" attached—but if it is—if it's food for jacksnipe, then he demanded it for jackrobbits, too.

He persecuted Senator Norbeck, in charge of the bill, to such an extent that Norbeck offered to accept a jackrabbit amendment if Reed chose to offer one, but Reed didn't consider it worth while.

800 CHILDREN UNCOVER BASE OF OLD SPHINX

CAIRO, June 11.—For the first time in 2200 years, the Sphinx is now entirely visible.

The accumulation of sand which, since Ptolemaic times, has been filling up the depression in which the Sphinx stands and which had buried all but the head, back and shoulders of the Sphinx, has been carried away by an army of workers and this seventh Wonder of the World today again stands fully revealed.

No less than 800 boys and girls and a large corps of skilled masons have been employed for months in the excavation and renovation of the Sphinx.

The youngsters worked in gangs, each with its own special singer, who chanted all-day long little meaningless Arabic ditties which the gangs of dark-skinned children took up and chanted themselves as they streamed up and down the sides of the ever-deepening hole from which the immense bulk of the Sphinx slowly emerged as the work progressed.

Tiny Shrine Unearthed

Once again the giant paws have come to light in their entirety and between them has been found still intact the tiny shrine built by Thotmes about 2000 B. C. This was last examined during some minor excavation in 1817.

The memorial stone to this shrine bears an interesting inscription describing how the Sphinx appeared to the prince in a vision when he had fallen asleep in its shade after a hunting expedition. In his dream the Sphinx told the prince that he would become king, but made him promise to clear his image from the sand in which it had become buried. Subsequently the prince came to the throne as Thotmes IV, and the monument records that in the firs tyear of his reign he fulfilled his dream-promise.

Protection from Wear

Thotmes IV also caused all but the head of the Sphinx to be encased in limestone masonry about a foot thick to protect it against the wear of time. This masonry covering it still perfect on the enormous paws and lower parts of the monument. Some of the red pigment with which the monument was covered also remains, and on the breast are traces of the huge statue of the king who originally had the Sphinx produced.

The Sphinx as now uncovered is about 240 feet long from the end of the paws to the end of the haunches and is about 65 feet high from the base to the crown of the head. In the head there is a hollow about six feet deep and another about two feet deep near the left forefront where attempts have been made to discover treasures that were reputed to have been hidden at some unknown period.

The Sphinx faces due east and, since he was first cut from virgin rock has greeted the rising sun more than 2,000,000 times. Its Egyptian name is Abu Hol, "the father of fear."

New Remedy for Leprosy Claimed

RIO DE JANEIRO, June 11.—A decisive remedy for leprosy has been found growing in abundance in Brazil, claims Dr. Geraldo Kuhlmann, Brazilian botanist.

A plant from which oil is extracted superior in activity to chalmoogra oil which has long been employed extensively to relieve the leprous, thrives in abundance throughout this country. This Brazilian oil can be produced at a considerable less cost than the Indian chalmoogra oil, stated Dr. Kuhlmann in a lecture before the Association of Commercial Employes.

From this plant,—the "Carpotroche braziliensis," commonly known in Brazil as the sapucainha plant,—is extracted an oil, which, when alalyzed at Brazil's principal research station, that of the Oswaldo Cruz institute, showed optical activity of more than one degree greater than that of the best chalmoogra oil, declared Dr. Kuhlmann.

The Duke of Peneranda, nephew and one one the principal heirs of the Empress Eugenie, spends most of his time in England, where he enjoys considerable celebrity as an expert polo player.

JUMPER SUITS WIN PLACE IN LONDON STYLES

LONDON, June 11.—Stockinette, milanese, kasha, tweed and the knitted woolen fabrics that imitate it, have all been made into jumper suits, and there are many neat suits of crepe de chine. A number of useful frocks are also made up of milanese silks, real and artificial, and kindred fabrics to break the monotony of the jumper suit. Most of them are permanently knife-pleated.

The difficulties of obtaining novelties in jumpers for games and holidays is being overcome in many ways. The Shakespeare collar in its original or modified form procures a becoming neckline and is preferable to the "scoop" line, crossed by a loop fastening at the throat.

Feather Trimming Renewed

Again, there is radium velour stockinette with a soft pile and feather trimming to tone down the front and cuffs and pockets. This feather trimming, though pretty, does not last long, but is easily renewed.

Another ingenious trimming on a stockinette jumper suit is felt cloth in two colors for a military collar, which is continued as a facing to the throat opening, and minute rounds about the size of a sixpence of the two colors in felt cloth are sewn on with metal thread to form a design on the jumper. In the original model the stockinette was in reseda green and the felts were putty and beige.

Very little clipped wool trims the present long woolen slip-on coats. Instead the more attractive are in tweed colorings on tailored lines with fancy collars, facings and cuffs. Jacquarded patterns in beautiful colors in artificial silk are being used for coats for holiday two-pieces, the frock of which is on neat, plain lines.

Sleeveless Jerkin

Another useful coat is a short sleeveless jerkin of hand-embroidered cashmere; it goes over crepe de chine blouses and jumpers on cold days. Pleated stockinette capes also make wraps for sharp days out of doors, but as pleating does not hold so well they are not very practical.

Plain short stockinette capes to match stockinette jumper suits have dyed mole collars and the skirts are best arranged in well-pressed box pleats. Some of the kasha suits have sweaters buttoned down the front and are really closed coats.

Knitted and woven fabrics are often blue or mauve, but "bois de rose" is still the most becoming color. The blues range from pale blue and egg blue to pervenche and nattier. Green is also worn, despite prejudice against it.

Suitable for Tennis

Linen jumper suits, mostly decorated with hand-drawn thread work and the skirts made with box pleats at the sides and fixed on mercerized chemise tops, are for fine days and are delightful when fresh and uncreased; but though the tendency to crease has been reduced in some of the finer and more expensive linens, constant ironing is necessary.

Washing silks, of which there are many new designs, in stripes, checks, overchecks, spots, as well as plain tones, are less troublesome and good heavy white washing silk, plain or piped with color, is always suitable for tennis. Many tennis suits now show short polo sleeves covering the top of the arm and turned back with a neat cuff.

Court Notes

Cornelia Tadlock has filed a petition in superior court for appointment as administrator of the $8000 estate left by the late Wintford L. Tadlock, of Anaheim, who died recently in San Bernardino. The widow, five children and four grandchildren are legal heirs.

Seek to Foreclose

J. I. Sheldon, Hattie Munger, Fannie Jordan, Lulu Munger and Caroline Bliss, heirs of the alte Frank W. Sheldon, have filed suit in superior court against Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Hill, of Fullerton, to foreclose a $12,000 mortgage against property near that city.

Filed For Probate

The late Mrs. Minnie Newman, who died June 8, in Neodesha, Kas., left a$ 50,000 estate to her laughter, Vivian Meeks, according to the will, which is on file for probate in superior court here. Attorneys Scarborough, Forgy and Reinhaus filed the probate petition on behalf of the First National bank, of Santa Ana. Under the will, one-third of the estate is bequeathed outright to the daughter, the other two-thirds being left in trust for her with the bank.

Lemon Juice Whitens Skin

The only harmless way to bleach the skin white is to mix the juice of two lemons with three ounces of Orchard White, which any druggist will supply for a few cents. Shake well in a bottle, and you have a whole quarter-pint of the most wonderful skin whitener, softener and beautifier.

Massage this sweetly fragrant lemon bleach into the face, neck, arms and hands. It can not irritate. Famous stage beauties use it to bring that clear, youthful skin and rosy-white complexion; also as a freckle, sunburn and tan bleach. You must mix this remarkable lotion yourself. It can not be bought ready to use because it acts best immediately after it is prepared.—Adv.

MOVE AGAINST MODERN DRESS IS LAUNCHED

BERLIN, June 11.—While the shop windows of Berlin and every other big city throughout the Reich are filled at this time of the year with fancy dress costumes copied from Bavarian peasant models, the women of Bavaria have lodged a protest through a committee of the Diet against the attire of strangers who come to pass the holidays in their mountains and villages. Dress as worn today, the declare, is both immodest and immoral, and visitors should not be allowed to contaminate innocent districts.

Bishops Start Crusade

The original protests came from the Catholic bishops of Bavaria, but the league for the preservation of peasant costume took the matter up and now all political parties and sections of the community are debating the point. The matter would perhaps be of less interest to those abroad if it had not been proposed, as the only remedy, to use "self-help" when an offender appeared.

The attitude of the women members of the Bavarian diet is perhaps more to the point than that of their masculine colleagues. It differs widely. One woman member said she supported the bishops entirely. Another pointed out that the flowing garments of ancient Greece often enough covered immoral hearts.

A masculine speaker declared that the offense is as great in the towns as in the mountain resorts, and that regulations must be applicable everywhere. Socialists and Democrats are all for freedom, both for women visitors and natives.

It is significant that all parties agree that modern dances are not necessarily more immoral than the old-fashioned ones, and need not necessarily be interfered with.

Bavaria is the home of the folk dance, typifying the tempting of the masculine followed by the gradual encircling and capture of the bride, which demands a show of considerably more skill and temperament on both sides, if the public is to be pleased, than any modern ballroom dance is likely to demand.

Doumergue Stays Home So Police Can Obtain Rest

PARIS, June 11.—President Doumergue dislikes to keep the gendarmes out of bed. When he is at the presidential summer residence at Rambouillet, he declines all invitations that would keep him away from the chateau in the evening.

"You see," says the president, in explaining why he has to decline an invitation, "when I leave Rambouillet after dark the gendarmes all along my route are called out and are not allowed to go to bed until I am back home again. So I prefer not to go out. It is not I who calls them out. It is a far more influential person than the president, and over whom, alas, I have no power. It is the prefect of police."

Propose Tax On Open Air Markets

PARIS, June 11—Montmartre and Montparnasse are in full cry against the city of Paris' proposal to tax their famous open-air markets—the "Bread Crust Fair" and the "Turnip Fair."

Many a painter, since become celebrated, made his debut at one or other of these "sidewalk art galleries," and paid his way through a few months or years of additional study by the sale of his works Wares of the different exhibitors are exposed on certain well-known thoroughfares, and the public is invited to stop and buy on the way home from shopping or business.

Tatooing Fad Is Popular In Japan

TOKIO, June 11. — Tattooing, which is illegal in Japan, is becoming a fad again. The police are kept busy running down tattooers in their studios or on the street.

One famous geisha of Osaka has the picture of a monkey tattooed on her back. Many have tigers, dragons or other fierce creatures tattooed upon their persons.

The aristocrats have taken up the costume, many having designs of flowers worked into their flesh. The authorities regard tattooing as a barbarous custom—even worse than waltzing!

Dead Fish Swamp Riviera Village

NICE, June 11.—All is not roses and sweet-scented scenery in the neighborhood of the French Riviera.

The little fishing village of Cros-de-Cagnes, just outside Nice, soon will be uninhabitable unless some means is found of destroying the millions of jelly fish which have appeared in the bay.

Huge piles of dead fish are nightly thrown up on the beach and the authorities recently were unable to clean them away before they commenced to decay. Attempts to burn the fish had been unsuccessful.

In her earlier days, Mrs. Stanley Baldwin, wife of the British prime minister, was a rather celebrated cricket player, and used to play with "The White Heather Club," composed entirely of women members.

Besides the decoration of the Legion of Honor, the Duke of York, second son of King George, is entitled to wear the French Croix de Guerre, which was conferred on him as a reward for his services with the Grand Fleet.

Seek Route by Which Ancients Reached America

WASHINGTON, June 11 — The route by which primitive man reached America is being sought by Dr. Ales Hrdlicka, anthropologist at the National Museum.

Dr. Hrdlicka is on his way to Alaska, hunting for records of man's journey over from Asia via Siberia, the Diomede Islands, the Seward peninsula and then south down the coastal plains and the Yukon, which is the path Dr. Hrdlicka believes he took.

Dr. Hrdlicka will take a small boat and a crew of Eskimos, and hunt the scene of the battle between the inhabitants of Seward Peninsula and the invaders from Asia.

The struggle is told of only in legend, and is supposed to have occurred ages ago.

Dr. Hrdlicka hopes to establish his theory by the finding of relics.

CZECHO-SLOVAKIAN POLITICS IMPROVES

PRAGUE, June 11—The government has introduced in the National Assembly two financial measures that are prdoof that the political situation has improved, since a sufficient majority must have been secured beforehand in order to pass them.

One of the bills provides for a reduction of the estimates of military expenditure for 1926 by 360,000,000 crowns. The expenditure for the previous year was, in round figures, about $50,000,000. The bill further provides that the annual military expenditures for the next eleven years, beginning with 1927, shall not exceed 1,400,000,000 crowns (about $40,000,000), unless unforseen expenditure is authorized by new legislation. For the same period, in order to provide for capital expenditure for national defense on machine guns, new types of guns, defensive measures against gas attacks, and buildings, a special fund of 315,000,000 crowns per annum is to be provided, which must not be applied to other purposes.

The second bill deals with the proposed increase in the pay of civil servants and other state employes. The necessary sum is to be provided by supplementary taxes on alcohol and sugar. Although it is hoped that this bill will be passed before July 1, in which case it is to be passed before July 1, in which case it is to be retroactive as from January 1, it is not certain whether the opposition to it from various quarters can be overcome by that date.

Great Britain to Control Pensions Of All Canadians

LONDON, June 11.—More than 12,000 British pensioners, most of them living in Western Canada, are being advised of a change whereby the Imperial Government is to assume direct control of the administration of pensions in Canada. A branch office of the Imperial Ministry of Pensions is to be established at Ottawa.

Finn Unionists Withdraw from Red Organization

HELSINGFORS, June 11.—At the recent Congress of the Finnish National Organization of Trade Unions the 1922 resolution of affiliation to the Communist International was rescinded. The congress also refused to affiliate with the Amsterdam International.

Police News

A protest against automobiles driving over new pavement on First street, between Halladay and Maple streets, was made to Santa Ana police yesterday by residents of hte district. The matter was investigated by Officer R. W. Knight. Knight referred the matter to Caleb Rash, foreman of construction.

A truck, left standing on the street at 1411 West Third street, was responsible for injuries received by the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Benjamin, according to a report at police headquarters today. The lad struck the truck while riding a bicycle, according to the report, and had to be carried home. It was reported that the truck was not equipped with lights and often was parked all night on the street.

Santiago Phagolla, 20, of Riverside, is in the Orange county jail today on a felony warrant from Riverside. The young man, a Mexican orange picker, was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Dan Adams for Riverside officials, when he appeared here to secure a marriage license for himself and a 13-year-old girl, according to a report at the jail. According to information received here today, serious charges may be preferred against the youth by Riverside officials.

A charge of issuing fictitious checks was dismissed here today and T. Shigaki, 21, a Japanese farmer, was released from the Orange county jail, where he was being held.

A plea for officers to find her missing husband, Louis Carroles, was made to Santa Ana police today by Mrs. Marissa Carroles, according to a report at police headquarters. Mrs. Carroles reported that her husband left home three days ago to find work and had not returned. She declared that herself and four children were left without support. The report described the man as a Mexcian, 36 years old, about five feet, six inches in height, weighing about 130 pounds. The man had a small, black mustache and was dressed in working clothes.

ARMED HERRIN AWAITING NEW FEUD OUTBREAK

HERRIN, Ill., June 11.—Herrin is armed again.

Beneath the apparent peace that prevails in this little mining town, scene of so many bloody riots, ancient hatreds smoulder that may again, without warning, flare up into open warfare.

A desultory move for peace, seeking a permanent truce, hais failed. Again Klansmen and anti-Klansmen walk the streets with furtive backward glances and look twice before they turn a corner. The same shiny blue automatics protrude ominously from pockets and belts.

No one hazards a guess as to what will be the next spark to start the guns blazing again. But all elements in the town are fatalistically resigned to another skirmish such as the last one on April 13 which cost six lives.

Herrin Shots to Kill

There is one significant conclusion which may be drawn from all the blodshed in Herrin; Herrin shoots to kill. In six riots the toll is 34 dead, and no injured. The 34 were marked for death. If Klansmen, they were marked until such a time as open warfare might break out; if anti-Klansmen they were singled out until chance should give an opportunity for general fighting.

Instead of making eventual peace possible, each riot only adds to the possibility of future bloodshed on a larger scale. The relatives of each slain man swear vengeance against hte faction responsible for his death. Blod hatreds, with the promise of future killings, are fomented each time the guns bark out.

By many who have followed the strife closely but have played little or no part in it, prohibition is blamed for the difficulty. This, they say, gave rise to the formation of the Ku Klux Klan, a group who believed that the prohibition law could and should be enforced in Williamson county, and who, moreover, took up themselves responsibility for its enforcement. Added to this number were those attracted to the Klan by religious feeling.

Klan Influence Shifts

Influence of the Klan has fluctuated. At its organization it was all powerful. Then its power waned and anti-Klan officers were elected. At the last election, a week after the rioting of April 13, the Klan again went into power.

Ther are many men who walk the streets of Herrin now, members of both factions, who know that the seal of death has been put upon them. Their enemies wait only an excuse for a new outbreak.

What the outcome of it all will be no one dares to guess. The presence of nearly 1000 idle miners, turned off because the mines are close dfor the summer, adds to the danger. Many intimate that the end will come only when ancient foes have settled all grudges—until not one of either side is left alive and only those townspeople, perhaps a majority, who steadfastly refuse to take sides, are left.

But Herrin is somewhat hardened, somewhat indifferent. The new riot may come tomorrow, it may come nevt month, or next year. But Herrin knows that it will come again.

Automobiles In France Look Nice But Ride Rough

PARIS, June 11.—Gabriel Voisin, one of France's leading automotive and aeronautic engineers, stirred up trouble for himself in the French industrial world by declaring that the American automobiles would "sweep away in a few days like a tiral wave the entire French automotive industry if the customs barrier suddenly disappeared."

Social Season Is Disrupted By General Strike

LONDON, June 11.—London's social season was so badly upset by the general strike that many of the hundreds of dances and dinners postponed probably will never be given. There will not be nights sufficient to accommodate all of them before the middle of July, when the social season ends.

HERE'S WHAT WE MEAN BY RECONDITIONED USED CARS

When we say "reconditioned" used cars, it doesn't mean just a wash and polish, and a grease bath to make squeaks quit.

We go into the car—find things that may be worn and make them right. We put our used cars in A-1 shape to sell them as "reconditioned" cars.

Here are some attractive values—everyone backed by our famous Used Car Pledge—everyone just as we say it is.

Studebaker Special 6 Sedan—One of the last '22 models. Completely overhauled and repainted with genuine lacquer. Gray green. 2 bumpers. Automatic windshield cleaner. Motometer, and 5 very good tires. Will pass for new car. $1175.
Studebaker Light 6 Coupe—Repainted a lacquer French gray. Completely overhauled. Certified. Disc wheels. Bumper and other extras. With 5 good tires. Interior is immaculate. $750.
Another Studebaker Light 6 Coupe—Repainted also with lacquer paint. Has 5 very good tires. Equipped with bumpers. Motometer. Rear view mirror. Interior in the best of shape. This car will render new car service. $795.
Ford Coupe—Very good paint. 5 good tires. 2 bumpers. Very clean upholstery. Motometer. Rear view mirror. In good mechanical condition. $375.
Then we have another Ford Coupe in splendid condition for $225—a Dodge touring in the same shape for $225—and a 1924 Ford Sedan, which is in A-1 shape throughout for $425. See these before you buy anywhere.

WORTH HAVING

6½ Acres Valencias, $13,000

There is nothing better than a good orange grove, as a home and as an investment. This is a good one. The 6½ acres are in bearing young trees and show a healthy growth. They have already proven themselves capable of bearing crops of quality fruit.

A pretty little home awaits you here with a view of the ocean and surrounding country. Tractor and field implements assure you of inexpensive upkeep. We know you would be delighted to make this your home.

Dixon Says Attention Grocery and Meat Men!

At the northwest corner of McFadden and Oak streets we are building a combination stucco store and residence structure that is practically a duplicate of the one at 10th and Garnsey sold to J. C. Bach a few weeks ago.

This location has splendid business possibilities right now and an assurance of future growth. Nearly 200 homes ARE NEARER to this store than to ANY OTHER. The site for the new grammar school is a block away and it is in an area where there has been tremendous home-building activity for the past three years, with practically everything restricted against business.

Without question this is the ONE BEST BET in town. My other store SOLD WHEN ONE-THIRD FINISHED and there were several prospects who WAITED TOO LONG and were disappointed. If interested, ACT QUICKLY. W. H. Dixon, Contractor and Builder, Dixon's Durable Dwellings, 19th and Ross. Phone 1688.

FOR SALE—Beautiful 6 room English type stucco home at 1315 South Birch St. Tile drainboard, figured gum, 5 coat oil Tiffany on walls, genuine fireplace, a beautiful home. $1000 under market price. Small down payment, balance on easy terms. F. S. Gordon, 501 No. Main. Phone 411; evenings 2270-J.

Report Made on 1925 Walnut Crop

LOS ANGELES, June 11.—California's walnut crop for 1925 was valued at $15,200,000, or $3,605,630 more than in 1924 in the official report of the California Walnut Growers' association.

The total harvest was 72,917,232 pounds, an increase of 34.8 per cent over the 1924 production.

The crop brought more money to the growers than any previous harvest, except one year during the World war, when prices were abnormally high.

Prosecutors to Urge Law Change

WAWONA, Calif., June 11.—Remarks introductory to the campaign for criminal law revision, to be waged by California public prosecutors, were made today by J. J. Henderson, district attorney of Sacramento county, at the opening of the 16th annual convention of the District Attorneys' Association of California.

"Penal laws of California need revision to speed up the wheels of justice," Henderson declared. "Swifter justice will prevail when district attorney have a number of peremptory challenges equal to those allowed the defending attorneys."

Franklin Swartz, district attorney of San Mateo county, followed Henderson with a talk urging selection of trial judges who will "cast aside trivial technicalities and assist in criminal procedure."

Children or Careers?

By BILLIE BURKE

I believe that women are entitled to both children and careers. Their husbands have both.

I have backed up my theory by practice.

My little daughter is now nine years old and I know I have enjoyed her exactly twice as much as I would have done if she had been my sole interest in life.

People get tired of thinking all the time about one thing. More important than that, the thing, if it happens to be a child, gets tired of its too-attentive parent.

Because Patricia did not see me every minute of the day in her early childhood, she still finds me a refreshing and exciting novelty and we have lovely times together.

If I had to choose between my child and my career, I should, without question, have chosen the child.

But I do not think that it is ever necessary for a woman to make this painful choice.

I am more and more of the opinion that a woman with a talent, or even an aptitude for any given line of work, is cheating herself, the world and her own children if she ties herself down completely to the nursery, ignoring the opportunity to express herself fully.

Financial and Market News

WALL ST. JOURNAL

NEW YORK, June 11.—Buying activities broadened in today's session under the stimulating influence of further new highs on the current recovery in U. S. Steel and General Motors.

With the latter company's net income promising to aggregate $85,000,000 during the first six months compared with $116,000,000 for the full year of 1925, which set a new high mark, urgent demand was in evidence for the stock which easily maintained the rapid upswing started in the previous session.

Steel Common also continued to forge ahead, responding to excellent buying induced by Bullish advices sent out by a stock exchange firm whose operations are often traceable to Steel insiders.

In conjunction with the impressive way Steel production is holding up at a time when seasonal recession is usually quite pronounced, these recommendations carried the stock to within striking distance of the year's high of 138½.

Another outstanding feature of the day's transactions were the unmistakable indications of a rapid flow of investment funds into stocks like Atlantic coast line and Louisville and Nashville.

The market closed higher:

FOREST FIRES ARE JUMPING CONTROLS

MISSOULA, Mont., June 11.—Forest fires are jumping control lines throughout the Montana and Idaho sections of Reserve district No. 1, according to officials at District headquarters here.

In the St. Joe forest, five fighters are fleeing for their lives and reinforcements are being rushed there.

Reports from teh Pend O'Reille reserve, in Northern Idaho, and the Quinn and Donland sections showed the flames there under control, but high wind in the Kanisku forest threatened to spread the blaze over hundreds of acres of timber, despite the frantic efforts of ranger-led fire fighters.

Five Million On British War Debt Enroute to U. S.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 11.—Five million dollars in English sovereigns, an installment on Britain's war debt to the United States, will arrive in San Francisco tomorrow aboard the liner Makura, from Sidney, Austraila, according to officials of the Union Steamship line.

Exclusive Suburb Indignant at Snub

PASADENA, June 11.—Exclusive Sunnyslope, with its 100 fashionable residents, was collectively indignant today at an alleged snub, administered by the ultra-exclusive sister municipality of San Marino.

The city council of San Marino, with 1800 residents, many of them multi-millionaires, and not a business establishment within the corporate limits, voted overwhelmingly to reject Sunnyslope's petition for annexation.

"We don't care to annex this village to San Marino," ruled the board of millionaire aldermen. "It would merely decrease our property values to annex poorer neighbors."

WAREHOUSE BURNS

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 11.—Fire, caused by spontaneous combustion or defective wiring, early today destroyed the warehouse of the Pratt-Low Preserving company, doing damage estimated at $30,000. Five thousand sacks of sugar, valued at $25,000, and $2500 worth of canned goods were burned.

L. A. PRODUCE

SAN FRANCISCO PROD.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 11.—Stocks of apples in city cold storages totaled 23,111 boxes on June 10, against 34,748 boxes on June 3. Storage apples have not been moving rapidly into consumption channels due largely to the liberal supply of many other fresh fruits on the market and also to the inferiority of the majority of apples in storage. One year ago the storage aples amounted to 14,494 boxes. Slower demand was responsible for a weaker feeling on cantaloupes.

Grapefruit—Southern California, $4 @$4.50.

Lemons, box $5.25@$5.50; choice, $4 @$4.50; lemonettes, $2.50@$3.00.

CHICAGO BD. OF TRADE

CHICAGO, June 11.—Grains closed higher in all options on the Chicago Board of Trade today, wheat having made the expected rally from yesterday's dip and other pits reacting sympathetically.

Reports of rains in southwest wheat belt brought on heavy selling but the decline was not harsh and most operators thought that the reaction of yesterday's heavy liquidation had gone far enough.

Export business was estimated at only about a quarter of a million bushels.

Oats closed sharply higher on a dull market.

STEEL DERRICK IS ERECTED BY OIL COMPANY

HUNTINGTON BEACH, June 11.—Another new oil derrick was completed yesterday in the section of this city recently thrown open to oil drilling activities, when the Superior Oil company finished its steel derrick at the corner of Ocean avenue and Twenty-third streets. It is expected that the Superior company will spud in next week, and according to reports the company will drill ahead without any of the stops which have marked progress so far in the new area.

The Wilshire Oil company has started drilling activities again. The Wilshire well, only two blocks from the Superior well, resumed drilling activities when the Superior started construction work on a derrick. According to reports in the section today, the Wilshire well is now at about 2622 feet. A heavy tar sand has been encountered in the well and drillers expect to strike oil at about 3800 feet, it is reported from a reliable source. The Wilshire company has thrown a mantel of secrecy over the well. "Keep out" signs are up and ditches at the well have been covered to prevent curious persons from seeing all the results, according to reports.

The Julian Oil company which spudded in its well at Twenty-second street and Orange avenue some time ago, is getting ready to continue drilling operations. The well has been shut down for some time.

Reports were also being circulated about the town yesterday to the effect that a number of other derricks are to go up in the new section of the field within the next two weeks. This activity will be caused by drilling clauses in the leases held by several companies, it is claimed.

Legion Council To Hold Meet At Beach City

HUNTINGTON BEACH, June 11.—The Orange County Council of the American Legion holds its regular meeting at the American Legion hall here tonight, according to L. E. Mitchell, commander of the local Legion post, which is host for the evening.

The Woman's Auxiliary of the Legion will serve a banquet to the visiting Legionnaires.

Ted Craig of Brea, commander of the council, will be in charge of the meeting.

Reports on the next Armistice Day parade will be given at the meeting it is expected, and other business of the organization will be transacted.

Rotarians Bow To Lions Club In Ball Game

ORANGE, June 11.—After holding the younger team, representing the Lions club, to a tie in the fifth inning of the benefit baseball game held on the high school indoor field last night, the Rotary club team virtually "blew up" and allowed the Lions to score a total of 17 runs to their 11.

According to spectators, a good brand of ball was played by the men on both teams until the latter part of the game.

Proceeds from the game were donated to the Y. M. C. A. for use in constructing and maintaining cabins at the summer camp at Osceola in the San Bernardino mountains.

CHAMBER URGES WIDENING OF STATE HIGHWAY

FULLERTON, June 11.—Commissioner Nelson T. Edwards, of the California state highway department, has consented to meet with the highway committee of the Fullerton chamber of commerce on June 15, according to a communication from him which was read yesterday noon before the board of directors' luncheon at McFarland's cafe.

The purpose for the meeting on June 15, will be to discuss the probability of widening the state highway north and south of Fullerton. This meeting will be very important, as the Fullerton chamber of commerce has been endeavoring for several months to get some action from the state concerning the widening of the highway.

Several members of the board of directors offered their cars for the purpose of transporting some of the 750 editors which will be in Fullerton in the afternoon of June 29. The directors discussed other plans and arrangements for the reception of the editors.

The board of directors decided to give Ray B. Leach, secretary of the chamber of commerce, authority to send suitable gifts to the visitors who will attend the meeting of the business and professional women's club which meets in Anaheim on next Saturday and Sunday. It is expected that over 300 women will be in attendance.

Parochial School Will Graduate 15

ORANGE, June 11.—Annual exercises for the eighth grade class of 1926 of the Saint John's Lutheran church school will take place at the two coming Sundays. Fifteen graduates will be given the examination by the Rev. A. C. Bode next Sunday. The solemn confirmation will be administered to the students the following Sunday by Rev. Bode. At that time special music will be rendered by the choir and organ. School is scheduled to close June 18. The annual school picnic will be held in Irvine Park, formerly the Orange County park, June 22.

Club Women Hear Plans for Fair

BREA, June 11.—Representatives of the Brea Woman's club at the executive board meeting of the federated clubs of Orange county held in Garden Grove Monday, were Mrs. A. D. Clayton and Mrs. J. R. Hunt.

They report that J. R. Hunt, manager this year for the Orange County Fair association, announced at this meeting that a day is to be set aside for the women's clubs of the county at the fair this fall and that half that day's receipts are to be given to the federation. This amount will be used by the clubs for the assistance of the Trabuco Canyon preventorium, where ill and undernourished children of Orange county may receive the proper medical attention.

Suspend Godfrey; He Escapes Fine

LOS ANGELES, June 11.—George Godfrey, colored giant who lost to "Chuck" Wiggins, Indianapolis heavyweight, on a foul Wednesday night, has been formally suspended by Boxing Commissioner Seth W. P. Strelinger.

Godfrey drew a 30-day suspension but escaped a fine because the referee of the bout reported the low blows were not intentional.

TINY TOTS IN PARADE BEFORE MESA SOCIETY

COSTA MESA, June 11.—The last regular meeting of the Home and Foreign Missionary society of the Community church of Costa Mesa was held at the church Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. W. Rountree, vice president, presided.

The "Light Bearers," in charge of Mrs. Lawns, entertained with a victory march. Mrs. Lownes and Mrs. I. O. Jewett led and the children followed, each carrying a lighted candle in one hand, and their tiny blessing boxes in the other. They then returned to the primary Sunday school room where a table beautifully decorated in red, white and blue and laden with ice cream and cake made all happy. Mrs. R. Eastman planned and furnished all the decorations.

Mrs. Rountree reported concerning the meeting held in Balboa during May.

Mrs. V. Coyner gave the treasurer's report.

Mrs. M. Bennett spoke of the needs of daily vacation Bible school. Sewing will be done by girls of upper grades, and donations are requested. All home funds must be in the hands of Mrs. Coyner by June 18.

BREA

BREA, June 11.—Dinner guests at the Fred Stanger home Sunday were their son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Stanger, accompanied by Mrs. J. O. Moore, all of Torrance.

At the regular business meeting of Trinity Rebekah lodge, Monday night, July 14, election of officers for the coming six months wil be in order and all members are urged to be present for the occasion. Light refrishments will be served following the business session and an informal social evening will be enjoyed.

Honoring Miss Jewell Wallen, niece of Mrs. Florence Morton, and in whose home she lives, Mrs. Curtis Crandall, of 430 West Amerige street, Fullerton, gave a miscellaneous shower in her home Saturday evening. About 15 of Miss Wallen's friends were present and showered her with many lovely gifts for the adornment of her future home. Miss Wallen is soon to become the bride of Mr. H. A. Schmidt, a machinist with the Shell Oil company, and they are to make their home in the Graham cottage at the corner of Celar and Pomona streets.

W. W. Whitson, of San Diego, proprietor of the Red Lantern theater, was in Brea the first of the week looking after business interests connected with the theater.

Mrs. Helen Ballantyne, teacher in the domestic science department of the Brea grammar schools, met with her group of Camp Fire Girls for the last time this season before departing on her summer vacation on Wednesday evening. They met in the Boy Scout cabin and discussed plans for summer outings, spending most of the evening in an informal good time.

Levi Himes, for several months in the employ of Bergman and Sons in their garage, has accepted a position with the Union Oil company filling station at the corner of Birch and Pomona.

The date set for the marriage of Miss Edith Spicer and Mr. Don Churchill, has been set for June 24, the ceremony to take place in the Christian church with the Rev. W. E. Spicer, father of the bride and pastor of the church, officiating. Both Mr. Churchill and Miss Spicer are students in the Christian Missionary Training school of Los Angeles and expect to enter foreign missionary work with the completion of their course.

About 40 members of the American Legion post of Brea, with several prospective members in tow, gathered in Legion hall Tuesday evening and enjoyed a splendid steak dinner, prepared and served by the Legionnaires. Applications for membership in the post were received at this time and those so applying will be admitted to the Legion at their next regular meeting, Tuesday evening, June 15. This ends the intensive drive for new members in this order which has been nation-wide in its scope.

Mrs. Harry Davis, who has been visiting in the Henry Streed home on South Laurel street for the past three months, left this week for Pomona where she will spend the summer months with a sister before returning to her home in Des Moines. Mrs. Davis has not been wel for several weeks but is now much improved in health.

Dr. C. E. Steen, of Brea, and Dr. E. J. Steen, of Fullerton, have moved into their handsome new office building at 604 North Spadra Road, Fullerton. The building, which contains 16 rooms, is of stucco finish and has been very beautifully furnished. It affords the doctors first aid and minor operation rooms, medical, consulting and reception rooms, as well as commodious private offices. Dr. C. E. Steen will be at his Brea office in the forenoon of each day and will be in the Fullerton office during the remainder of the day.

The women of the auxiliary of the American Legion post of Brea gave a pot luck supper to the members at their regular meeting in Legion hall Wednesday night, the supper following the business meeting. A large crowd was present and the evening spent in an informal good time.

Leaving Tuesday morning on the first lap of a three months' visit, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Burquist will stop in San Francisco, Salt Lake and Denver before proceeding to Chicago, where they will visit several days. From Chicago they will go to Lima, O., and from there to Canton, which city is their objective point. In Burdette, New York, they will spend some time with Mr. Burquist's only sister. They also expect to attend the Sesqui-Centennial exposition at Philadelphia and will return by way of Canada, stopping for several days in Vancouver, thence by the coast route home.

Friends and family of John Craig were surprised to receive word this week of the marriage of himself and Miss Laura Boeckstyns Garrett, the ceremony having occurred in the home of the bride in Washington, D. C., on May 29. The newly-wedded couple are expected in Brea the last of the week for a brief visit with Mr. Craig's father and other relatives. They will leave on June 15 for New York City, where they will sail for Miri, Sarawak, Borneo, where Mr. Craig is field superintendent for the Shell Oil company.

Among the Brea folk to attend the annual picnic of the Builders' and Lumbermen's Association of Southern California, held in Orange County park on Saturday afternoon, were J. R. Collins and family and H. E. Moore and family. Mr. Collins has been manager of the Brown-Dauser Lumber company's local yard for the past several years and Mr. Moore is bookkeeper for the firm.

Miss May Rhone, clerk in the First National Bank of Brea, has again resumed her duties there after a three weeks' siege with tonsilitis, during which time she was confined to her bed under the care of a doctor.

Mr. and Mrs. Felix Yriarte and family left the first of the week for Red Bluff, where they expect to enjoy a two weeks' vacation. From this point they expect to make several short camping trips with friends and to enjoy some fishing in the northern streams.

Mr. and Mrs. James R. Kewish and family left Brea the first of the week for an extensive visit with relatives and friends in the middle west. They will visit for the most part in the vicinity of Kansas City, and expect to be away for several weeks.

After a two weeks' vacation Mr. and Mrs. John Gnagy are expected home the last of this week. Most of their vacation has been spent in San Jose with the family of Mrs. Gnagy.

Mr. Dick Smith, yard foreman for the Shell Oil company in Brea, is enjoying a two week's vacation in Los Angeles and other nearby points.

Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Munson have moved into the cottage of Mr. Jeness on South Madrona. Mr. Munson is a pipefitter for the Shell Oil company and the family came here from Wilmington.

CITY TRUSTEES DECIDE TO USE CITY HALLS FUNDS FOR EXTENSION OF SEWER LINE

FULLERTON, June 11.—The Fullerton city council has devised a way of securing the funds for Fullerton's share of $62,000 for the extension of the outfall sewer.

The trustees approved the recommendations of the financial committee, composed of Trustees O. M. Thompson and W. J. Carmichael to the effect that the $35,000 which remains in the city hall sinking fund should be turned over to the outfall sewer fund.

In addition to this amount, there is approximately $20,000 which will soon come into the treasury from two other communities' debt to Fullerton. Any deficiency in the cost of Fullerton's share will be taken from the fiscal year's budget.

As a result of this action on the part of the trustees which was decided Wednesday night following the hearing, Fullerton will not have to enter another bond election as was supposed, since the voters voted down the proposition at the last election.

The trustees also discussed the feasibility of forming an assessment district in order to secure money for the construction of a bridge on Richman avenue. Some such action will have to be made since the voters also voted down the proposition of a bond issue of $8500 for the construction of a bridge on Richman avenue. The street committee was given the power to consider erecting the bridge by forming the district near the site of the bridge, thereby assessing the property owners near the bridge site.

Flag Day Program To Be Given By Elks of Anaheim

ANAHEIM, June 11.—The Anaheim Elks' club is making elaborate preparations for the special Flag Day exercises to be held in the Elks' clubhouse next Monady evening, according to announcement today.

Dr. B. S. Haywood is to give the principal address of the evening and the recently organized American Legion orchestra is to take a prominent part in the musical program arranged in connection with the event.

The program planned includes the following: Introductory exercises by the exalted ruler and officers of the Elks lodge; vocal selections by Mrs. Mildred Carter Wilson, accompanied by Miss Geraldine Dolan; history of the flag by Louis Kroeger, Anaheim boy orator; vocal selections by Mrs. Walter Ross, accompanied by Mrs. Schwentker; "The Story of Old Glory," by Ernest Ball; remarks by Judge Homer G. Ames; guitar selections by Hulan Nedley, Mrs. Orville E. Bigelow, W. McIntrye and Fred Westone and selections by the orchestra.

Invitations Out For Wedding of Popular Couple

BREA, June 11.—Invitations are out for the wedding of J. Paul Sievers, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Sievers, residing on West Cedar street, and Miss Esther Morris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis W. Morris, of Yorba Linda.

The wedding, which is to be quite an elaborate affair and to which many guests have been invited, is to be held in Friends church, Yorba Linda, at 8:30 o'clock on the evening of June 16.

Immediately following the ceremony, the young couple will leave on a two weeks' honeymoon trip, the destination of which has been kept a secret from their friends. Both are graduates of the Fullerton union high school. Mr. Sievers recently graduated from the University of California with a degree in law. He will be associated with his father and older brother, William, in their extensive ranching operations on the Sievers ranch of 170 acres, one-quarter mile west of Brea.

Beach Elks Plan To Join S. A. Lodge

HUNTINGTON BEACH, June 11.—The dispensation for an Elks' lodge for this city has been refused by the grand lodge of the United States, it was revealed here today. The dispensation was refused several days ago.

A determined effort was made by more than 60 local men to form an Elks' lodge here. Investigations were carried out and the matter was approved by the grand exalted ruler at a national convention in Chicago some time ago. Later, the California state officers failed to give their approval and the application for a charter was returned to the national lodge, which refused to approve it.

The application for a charter for an Elks' lodge here carried the names of more than 60 men. Most of these men are members of the local Antlers' lodge, and now that the charter has been refused it is believed that they will affiliate with the Elks' lodge in Santa Ana.

Calves are Being Killed by Coyotes

PORTLAND, Ore., June 11—Another black mark has been chalked down against the ill-treated coyote and another tradition of the old west has been uprooted.

The belief long held by Oregon stockmen that a coyote will not attack calves has been conclusively disproved, according to Stanley G. Jewett, of the U. S. biological survey office here.

Three reports of coyotes killing calves have been received by his office this season. It is an aftermath according to Jewett, of the coyotes' exodus from the open plains to the timber.

They have sought the timbered lands for better protection, he said, and are fast adapting themselves to new surroundings. This means they are acquiring the habits of the timber wolves, explaining their attacks on calves.

Two Men Held In Kidnaping Case

LOS BANOS, Calif., June 11.—Another development in the arrest of a mother, Blanche Mary Anderson, for kidnaping her own children, came when William H. Anderson, her present husband, and Fred Miller were held in custody for Glenn county authorities as accomplices in the kidnaping. Anderson and Miller were arrested on a ranch near Los Palos, where Mrs. Anderson was arrested.

Charges of kidnaping were brought by Ray Middleton, former husband of Mrs. Anderson. Mrs. Anderson was quoted as saying that "the children are mine in spite of anything a court says."

Former Cop Guilty Of Driving Drunk

FRESNO, June 11.—Calling of though he was acquitted of manslaughter and driving a car without the owner's permission, Hugh Williams, former Porterville policeman, today faces sentence for driving a car while intoxicated, of which he was found guilty by a jury. I. H. Haley, who was riding in the car Williams was driving, was killed when the car collided with another automobile.

Tells Women How To Remain Young

LONDON, June 11 — "Don't smoke, don't drink, take regular exercise," these are the things the Bishop of London says are the essentials for women to appear to be young throughout their lives. Addressing a room filled with young women, all dressed in white, the Bishop advised them that if a young man should take any of them out to dine and offer them a cocktail she should never go out with that young man again.

ORANGE WOMEN ENTERTAIN 150 COUNTY GUESTS

ORANGE, June 11.—In a veritable flower garden of roses of all shades of pink, Mrs. Vincent A. Rossiter and Mrs. Cal Lester entertained 150 guests from Orange, Santa Ana and vicinity at the local woman's clubhouse yesterday afternoon, at a bridge luncheon. Assisting Mrs. Rossiter and Mrs. Lester in the receiving of guests and serving of luncheon were 12-year-old Dorothy Rossiter and 12 women from both Orange and Santa Ana.

Following the luncheon, which was served on tables bedecked with bowers of pink roses and centered with crystal bud vases, the tables were cleared for cards.

Mrs. Don Tubbs, Santa Ana, won a hand-painted scarf as first prize. Mrs. Frank Clayton, Orange, who won second place, and Mrs. L. W. Culver, a visitor from Michigan at the home of Mrs. L. A. Culver, Santa Ana, who won third prize, were awarded with hand-woven scarfs. Mrs. Mable Faulkner, who received low score, was presented a hand-painted vase as a consolation.

Those who assisted Mrs. Rossiter and Mrs. Lester were presented with hand-painted handkerchiefs.

Classmates Of Costa Mesa Boy Are Entertained

Francis Flinn has an enviable reputation of school attendance. During nine years, he attended 12 schools, in eight states and was never absent nor tardy.

Games were played and weiners and marshmallows were roasted. At 10 p. m., Mrs. E. E. Flinn served the guests with cake and cocoa.

Bid Farewell to Pastor of Brea

BREA, June 11.—Members of the Christian church and their friends gathered in the church parlors last evening for a farewell party honoring their retiring pastor, the Rev. W. E. Spicer, and family, who expect to leave Brea about July 1. The evening was most happily spent in an informal program and a splendid social time. Rev. Spicer has been the resident pastor of this church for the past 10 years and it is with deep regret that his congregation see him depart. At present he is undecided where he will locate but has two or three pastorates under consideration.

Fishing Barge To Be Anchored Off Beach Pier

HUNTINGTON BEACH, June 11—Fishing enthusiasts of this city will celebrate here next week when a caravan of automobiles will travel over Orange county advertising the new fishing barge which has just been anchored off this coast by C. H. Warner of Compton.

The barge is 210 feet long and 54 feet wide and has 52 staterooms for the accommodation of persons who wish to stay all night. For the past several days Warner, the owner and operator of the barge has been casting about for the best location and has finally anchored the boat near the kelp beds west of the pier, where according to reports, excellent fishing is encountered.

The boat landing at the end of the pier was finished last week and was put into operation this week.

HOUDINI PICKS MRS. KAHN FOR TRICK IN MAGIC

By C. B. DODDS
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON, June 11.—The selection by Houdini, the magician, of Representative Florence P. Kahn as his subject in a slate-writing trick at the house hearings on the bill prohibiting mediums from practicing their profession in the District of Columbia, has developed a situation that may make it necessary for Mrs. Kahn to obtain the floor of the house on the question of personal privilege to make an explanation.

The San Francisco member was wholly unaware of Houdini's plan to transcribe a fake message to her from her husband, the late Representative Julius Kahn, and was astounded during the performance of the trick. The illusion was perfect, as far as the members of the committee and the crowded gallery were concerned. Afterward, the spiritualists, who were under fire, accused Mrs. Kahn of being in league with Houdini, refusing to accept her denials and the denials of the magician. Houdini said he had never seen Mrs. Kahn in his life and the San Francisco congresswoman said she had never seen the great magician before.

The trick was performed when Houdini said he would illustrate one of the favorite tricks of the fake spiritualists, that of slate-writing. He took three slates, showed his audience that all were blanks, had them tied into a bundle by a member of the committee, and asked another member to insert a card into a dictionary. Then, after a few mysterious passes, he untied the slates. On one slate was a message signed "Julius," reading "I am glad to hear of the good work you are doing." The slate also bore the page number and the first and last words on that page in the dictionary where the congressman had placed the card.

The bewildered committeemen who were simply amazed at Houdini's expertness, demanded that they be let in on the secret. Houdini then explained that he wrote the message on the slate long before announcing his intention of performing the trick. He asked friends in his immediate vicinity for facts regarding Mrs. Kahn, so that the message would be appropriate. In asking the congressman to insert a card in the dictionary, he "forced" the member to insert it at the page already selected. Houdini then said he juggled the slates showing only five sides of the three slates, although giving the impression that he was exhibiting both sides of each one.

Houdini apologized for involving Mrs. Kahn in the trick, saying he did so knowing it would be more effective than if he had employed the name of one of the men.

Senator Edge, of New Jersey, one of the wet leaders, is having no little fun these days twitting the Democratic opposition to a national referendum on prohibition modification. The anti-modificationists assert that a national referendum on the subject of prohibition modification is illegal. To refute this, Edge cited the plank of the national Democratic platform of 1924, calling for a national referendum on the question as to whether the United States should join the League of Nations or not. Edge points out that the platform was adopted by the unanimous vote of the delegates, including several members of the senate, who are now opposing a national referendum on the wet and dry question.

Further supplementing his views, Edge has filed with the senate a legal opinion, prepared by Frederic P. Lee, chief legislative counsel of the senate, in which it is held that congress has a perfect right to lay the prohibition or any other question before th eelectorate for an opinion.

A thorough investigation of motor bus and motor truck operation in California and Washington is to be made by the interstate commerce commission. While the investigation will cover the entire country, it will be particularly thorough on the Pacific coast, because it is there that bus operation has reached the highest degree of efficiency.

The investigation is preparatory to recommendations the commission proposes to make to congress regarding the regulation of both busses and trucks. The investigation will go into the whole subject of bus competition with railroads. It will show the extent to which busses are operated as feeders for the roads and to what extent the competition is felt through the operation of independent busses.

Inspectors and statisticians are now gathering facts for the commission, which will be presented at a hearing, the date of which will be set later.

Senator Goff, of West Virginia, one of the driest of the drys, who was a member of the senate committee which recently conducted the prohibition hearings, has introduced a bill authorizing prohibition officers to search private homes. This is considered the most radical dry bill yet introduced and, while it has the active backing of the Anti-Saloon league and other dry organizations, it is not expected to pass, at least at this session of congress.

In the next war, the army will not take over the railroads of the country, as was done during the World war, in the opinion of Maj. Gen. B. F. Cheatham, the quartermaster general. In a speech before the Harvard business school, the quartermaster general said the war department has reached the conclusion that the railroad operators know more about the business of running trains than the army does.

California shipyards were building 14 steel vessels of more than 100 gross tons displacement on May 1 of this year, according to a report prepared by the department of commerce. Only one wooden vessel of more than 100 tons was being built. The Los Angeles Shipbuilding and Dry Dock corporation, of San Pedro, was doing most of the work with contracts for five steel vessels of 1655 tons. The total tonnage of steel vessels being built in California at the present time is 8596.

DRESS SHOP GIRL MOST BEAUTIFUL OF BEAUTIES

Louise Clerc, New York working girl, is the "most marvelous" of all his 15 most beautiful women of America, says Dr. Ernst Linnenkampj. She is 19, blond, unbobbed, blue-eyed, five feet six inches, weighs 127 pounds.

Yes, and She Has Sense, Too, Sam Sherlip, Her Employer, Opines

NEW YORK, June 11.—Louise Clerc, 19, who went to work for Samuel Sherlip, dresses, on West Thirty-fifth street, as a assorter, a scant three years ago, is the most beautiful of all his 15 most beautiful women in America, according to Dr. Ernst Linnenkamp, Viennese artist.

"Beautiful? Yes, and she has sense," observed Samuel, as the first flurries of excited surprise around Thirty-fifth street subsided.

Is Designer Now

"I paid her $12 a week to begin with. After awhile she came to me and said she had her mother to support. 'I'll see what I can do about it,' I told her.

"And when I gave her a better job and raised her pay to $20 a week, she cried!"

They weren't doing much work around the Samuel Sherlip dress shop as the owner spoke. Not since the concern first opened its doors had its routine been so disrupted.

"And will I stay right on my job? You bet I will," she said, radioing smile waves at an incalculable frequency.

"It means so much more to be successful in a career as a designer, say, than to commercialize your beauty on the stage. The bright lights are just a bubble to me."

No Boy Friends Call

"And can she design? Well, look at that costume she's wearing," interposed Samuel Sherlip. "She designed it herself. I'm happy that this recognition has come to her. What does it matter if we aren't getting any work done here today? The child deserves it—a splendid girl, everybody that knows her says. And never since she has been here has she had a telephone call from a boy. Can you imagine?"

Dr. Ernst Linnenkamp will paint a portrait of Miss Clerc, to accompany the portraits of 14 other American beauties in a Viennese publication.

Miss Clerc read while at lunch that Dr. Linnenkamp was undecided as to his 15th beauty. And though she never participated in a beauty or a bathing girl contest, she had a happy thought and hurried over to his hotel.

"He questioned me for two hours, I guess," she laughed. "And when he told me his search was over, I was breathless. I couldn't say a word. When I went home and told mother, she was so happy she cried."

There was hustling and busling to accommodate eager photographers in the Samuel Sherlip dress shop now.

"She is a daughter of the gods," Dr. Ernst Linnenkamp had said with enthusiasm. And the photographers had waited for no more.

Big Baskets of Flowers

"Here," said Samuel Sherlip to Miss Clerc, "is a big basket of flowers for you, from the whole concern."

"Proud of her? Yes, and we love her, too," chorused Mamie and Edith and Rosie and Susan and all the rest.

There's little market for cosmetics in the Clerc home. Louise is so beautiful she doesn't need them. Also, she knows beauty, though an asset, is less trustworthy in this fickle world than talent and brains.

"A splendid girl," sums up Samuel Sherlip, bustling around in such excitement he almost forgets about buyers for the summer trade.

Mrs. Pat Campbell Bobs Her Tresses

LONDON, June 11—Mrs. Patrick Campbell, whose long, black hair was considered one of her greatest charms in the days when she was playing "The Second Mrs. Tanqueray" has joined the army of the shingled. For several years, Mrs. Pat had been seen but little.

Now she is everywhere at gatherings of stage folk and announces that she expects shortly to reappear in a new play in one of the theaters in West End of London.

SUICIDES IN U. S. ARE ON INCREASE

NEW YORK, June 11.—The suicide ratio is increasing, with the Pacific coast and the midwest leading the eastern states in proportion of suicides to population.

Figures compiled by Frederick L. Hoffman, statistician of a life insurance company, and published in the current Spectator, show that the 1925 suicide rate in 75 cities was 15.6 per 100,000, as against 15.3 per 100,000 in 1924.

Dr. Hoffman's figures show that San Diego has the highest rate of recorded cities, namely 39.6. New York has 26.4 and Brooklyn, 10.6.

Men are more prone to commit suicide than women. In each 100,000 of the population of the cities, 18.6 men killed themselves, while only 5.6 were women suicides.

Women Just What Male Journalists Make Them, Claim

LONDON, June 11—Women are just what male journalists make them, so Miss Ellen Wilkinson, Labor member of the house of commons, says.

"Women want to get on with their jobs unobtrusively," Miss Wilkinson declared, "but men insist on making sex distinction. It is not obtrusiveness, but the struggle for existence, that makes women insist that they should be considered, not as women but as human beings."

"Once There Was a Rooster!"

NO THIS isn't the story of the Hollywood rooster—the old boy who rolled an ostrich egg all the way from the Cawston Farm just to show his wives what was being done elsewhere in their line—this is the story of a Long Beach rooster.

* * * *

This rooster is the property of the Hancock Refining Co., of Long Beach, a new trade mark that answers "What's in a name?" He is just as progressive and energetic as his Hollywood brother, however—he is rolling tank after tank of Hancock Gasoline into Orange County every day and demonstrating fully "what is being done in his line!"

* * * *

This old boy is always the same; he's not temperamental; he has no moods; you can always depend upon him to act exactly the same day in and day out under all conditions. That's because he and his brothers are all bred and refined in THE SAME REFINERY.

* * * *

Independent as the wind! Out to make a name for himself! He knows he's good and that he'll make a friend out of every motorist that drives into an independent service station and says "Fill 'er up with Hancock Gasoline out of the yellow colored pump."

* * * *

Tennessee Lady Had So Little Strength She "Couldn't Get Around." Took Cardui With Benefit.

Gassaway, Tenn.—"I wasn't able to do any of my work, and it seemed like I had so little strength I just couldn't get around," says Mrs. Frank Murphy, who lives near here.

"My mother knew of the good Cardui could do, so she told me to take it. I sent and got a bottle, and seemed like all the time I grew stronger.

"I had been suffering with pains in my sides all the time, and Cardui helped this wonderfully. I needed a tonic for female trouble, and Cardui just fitted the need. I was awfully restless and could not sleep at night, but after taking two bottles of Cardui I could sleep 'like a top.' I got along all right, and I know it was due to Cardui. I can certainly recommend it to women suffering from women's troubles.

"My present health is just fine."

Thousands of women have written to tell how Cardui relieved them of pain and suffering, and helped them to improve in health and strength.

Cardui is perfectly harmless, being an extract of mild-acting herbs, and contains no dangerous drugs or harmful ingredients.

After greeting the division and department officers, refreshments were served to the 350 guests, who were presented with the flowers usel in decorating the hall at the close of the evening.

SCIOTS PLANNING TRIP TO PASADENA

Sciots will go to Pasadena Monday, June 28, where an evening of entertainment will be provided for them by members of the Pasadena lodge. The purpose of the visit will be to initiate the new members taken into the two lodges in the membership drive that is now being held.

The invitation to attend the Pasadena initiation was tendered local members Wednesday evening, at their stated meeting, by Frank Gerhart, of that city. He announced that dinner would be served at 6:30 o'clock. At 7:30, a parade will be held, when Sciots will march to the Pasadena theater, where a program from a Los Angeles theater will be presented, following which the initiation ceremonies will take place.

Local members who wish to go to Pasadena are requested to be at El Camino hall at 5 o'clock on the date given. Those having cars in which there will be room for those having no means of transportation are to notify W. B. Ashford, toparch. Anyone who is at El Camino hall will be provided with a means of reaching Pasadena. The trip is to be made in caravan style.

Eastern Star Will Entertain

Members of Santa Ana chapter, O. E. S., will be hosts Monday evening at the Masonic temple to all officers and escorts of the various organizations in this district. Following the business session, cards and dancing will be the entertainment of the evening. Refreshments will be served by a committee headed by Mr. and Mrs. William Iverson.

Observance of Flag Day Plan Of Elks Lodge

The Elks are planning a special program in observance of Flag day, which will be held at the Elks' club Monday night, starting at 8 o'clock.

The program will be opened when Stearn's trio, of Costa Mesa, will play "The Star Spangled Banner," after which will come the introductory exercises by the officers and the exalted ruler.

Prayer will be offered by the Rev. W. L. H. Benton, chaplain, and there will be another selection by the Stearn's trio. A short history of the flag, by Franklin West, and a patriotic address, by B. Z. McKinney, will be the main features of the evening. There will be other musical numbers to conclude the evening's entertainment.

The public is invited to attend the meeting.

DAUGHTERS OF GOLDEN WEST NAME OFFICERS

Santa Ana parlor, No. 235, Native Daughters of the Golden West, is looking forward to a prosperous year, having elected the same corps of officers to carry on for the ensuing six months.

Past President Mrs. Rose E. Ford; president, Mrs. Louise Grouard Mock; first vice president, Mrs. Mamie Conn Schonberg; second vice president, Mrs. Mary Duggan Moore, third vice president, Mrs. Olive Waite Lopez; marshal, Mrs. Genevieve Hiskey; financial secretary, Miss Mildred Fox; recording secretary, Miss Dorothy Thurston; treasurer, Mrs. Stella Stiffler; organist, Mrs. Fredda Moesser Barger; inside sentinel, Mrs. Muriel Bray; outside sentinel, Mrs. Clara Gerken; trustees, Mrs. Caroline Yoch Bennett, chairman; Mrs. Eunice Fox and Mrs. Elizabeth Marsile.

The parlor had a surprise visit from Miss Marvel Thomas, deputy grand president, who gave an interesting talk and complimented the parlor upon its various activities. Mis Thomas is a candidate for grand trustee at the forthcoming grand parlor session, in Sacramento, and Santa Ana parlor indorsed her candidacy and that of Dr. Heidelberger, of San Diego, who is running for third vice president. The delegates to grand parlor are Mrs. Louise Mock, Mrs. Mamie Schonberg and Mrs. Olive Lopez.

Three candidates, Mrs. Linna Yarnell West, Mrs. Marguerite Cleveland Dickenson and Mrs. Josephine Wagner Berkenstock, were initiated.

Mrs. Genevieve Hiskey gave an interesting report on the work for homeless children, one of the many worthwhile branches of Native Daughter and Native Son work.

A committee from the Native Sons invited the Daughters to a barbecue, in Orange county park, the date tentatively set for next Saturday. The Daughters will furnish cakes.

The Pioneers' picnic was announced for June 27, in the county park, and the parlor will assist to make it a success.

PROGRAM GIVEN BY SCHOOL CHILDREN

Among those taking part in the play, were: Gloria Best, Eloise Elodgett, Helen Warner, Lois Newbold, Virginia Congdon, Dorothea Dixon, Lois Lambert, Arda Mae Miles, Delpha Wollert, LeFaye Morris, Charles Best, Alma Mitchell, Lillian Allen, Virginia Davidson, Helen Meyers, Wanda Norman, Virginia Hardin, Helen Price, Dorothy Davidson, Marguerite Fox, Virginia Wilson, Milford Dahl, Jack Kenyon, O. H. Hemphill, Billy Brooks.

A play was given by Bess Marie Simmon and Gladys Earley. Name of the play was "A Pair of Lunatics."

Preceding the program, a pot luck dinner was served. Tables were decorated in red, white and blue in honor of Flag day. Officers went to Buena Park to attend the meeting of that chapter following the session here.

Members were reminded of the picnic, to be held tomorrow at Orange County park, when each one is to bring a covered dish, cake or pie and sandwiches for the lunch.

Auxiliary Sews On Bed Spread

Members of Calumpit auxiliary met Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. F. T. Deaver, 1405 East First street, where the time was spent in making a bed spread, which will be sold later at a bazaar.

Entertainment for the afternoon was musical. Mrs. Fredda Barger played several selections on the piano and Miss Eulalia Combs whistled.

A surprise to the members was the presence at the meeting of Mrs. Anna Jones, who of late has been unable to attend, owing to her duties as a school teacher.

DIXON IS VICE COMMANDER OF SPANISH VETS

Charles E. Dixon, of this city, was elected senior vice commander of the United Spanish War Veterans for the department of California, at the department convention, held recently in Yosemite National park. His election insures his advancement to the position of department commander in May, 1927, which will bring departmental headquarters to Santa Ana for the year, 1927-1928.

Mrs. Mae Glaze, of Garden Grove, was elected member of the council of administration of the auxiliary department. Past Commander Walter W. Tantlinger was elected alternate delegate to the national encampment, which will be held in Des Moines, Ia.

The local drill team of Calumpit auxiliary won the competitive drill and was honored by the request of the president, Mrs. Marie Williams, of Indianapolis, Ind., to repeat the drill as an exhibition for the benefit of visitors. The team is under the leadership of Mrs. Mae Glaze.

The encampment of the veterans voted to contribute $500 toward the expenses of the department drum corps, which will be sent to the national encampment, at Des Moines. Past Department Commander General Robert Wankowski, of Los Angeles, also contributed $100 to the expense fund.

Those who attended the convention from the local camp were Charles E. Dixon, junior department vice commander; Marriott C. Cooper, commander of the camp; Howard A. Wassum, past commander; Charles E. Waffle, past commander; Frank P. Rowe, junior vice commander; Carl J. Christensen, trustee; James W. Nourse, A. V. Wheeler and B. Frank Lutz, delegates.

CLASS INITIATED BY BROTHERHOOD

Twelve candidates were initiated into the Santa Ana Fraternal Brotherhood, at the regular meeting, last Friday night, in the El Camino hall. A pot luck supper was held. About 90 members were present.

A visitor to the lodge was J. Callahan, an officer of the Riverside Fraternal Brotherhood. The active program being undertaken by the Santa Ana order was complimented by Callahan.

On Saturday night of last week, a dance was given by the lodge at the El Camino hall. Nearly 200 members and their friends attended. Proceeds were devoted to purchase of uniforms for the drill team.

New members admitted at the last meeting were Roy Dysart, Ruth Dysart, Hazel Ferguson, Alma Mae Sugden, Florida A. Mosley, James M. Mosley, Ivan R. Belcher, Ruby K. Irwin, Margaret Patterson, Bernard De Smet, Paul W. James and Anthra James.

Bishop Elected Head of Council

F. S. Bishop, a local contractor and member of Tustin lodge, No. 85, Knights of Pythias, was elected president of the council of District No. 31.

CHILDREN'S NURSE RESUMES HER DUTIES

Praises Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for some time and I would not be without it in the house. As I am a children's nurse, I have to be on my feet a great deal and your medicine has helped me wonderfully. I was hardly able to do my housework when I began taking it, and now I am a strong and well woman, able to do all that and go out nursing besides. I have also used the Sanative Wash and found it beneficial."—Mrs. Gertrude L. Stewart, 103 Davis St., Greenfield, Mass.

Valuable for Weakness

"I have found Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a valuable medicine for weakness."—Mrs. J. A. Pietsch, Box 397, Lancaster, Pa.

Hundreds of letters like these are received by the Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., from grateful women who say that their health has improved since taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

DEPARTMENT HEADS AT CORPS MEETING

At the Thursday meeting of the Woman's Relief corps, in G. A. R. hall, Mrs. Jesse Reed, of Riverside, department president, was present. Other department officers present were Past President Mrs. Clara C. Holland, Commander R. C. Martin and Patriotic Instructor Mrs. Harriett Martin.

An invitation was received from Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War to be present at the reception, Wednesday night, given by that organization.

Mrs. Madge C. Sellman, Mrs. Minnie I. Davis, Mrs. Jesse F. Hoagland, Mrs. Martha A. Brooks and Mrs. Emily McDonald were initiated.

The sewing circle of the corps met Wednesday, in the G. A. R hall, where a quilting party was held. A pot luck luncheon was served at noon.

Program Features Woodcraft Meet

The Neighbors of Woodcraft met in regular session Monday night, when the business meeting was followed by an entertainment and dance.

Piano solo, Gertrude Eldred; vocal solo, Henrietta Scheffer, accompanied by Miss Dorothy McCune, composer of the song; address, the Rev. F. T. Porter; humorous reading, Mrs. Porter.

Refreshments were served by a committee consisting of Stella McCune, Myrtle Shield, Marie Sanford, Maggie Erickson and Lillian Penrose.

TIRES AT LOWEST PRICES Guaranteed, Rebuilt, 30x3½, $4.50 Cords, 31x4, $6.25, 32x4, $7.50, 34x4½, $9.50. Other Cord sizes in stock. Gerwing, 312 Broadway.

DISCUSS PLANS FOR JULY OBSERVANCE

Plans were recently completed for holding the second annual sunrise service, July 4, in the Brea hills, under the auspices of the Southern California Pythian council. Hundreds of Pythians from all over Southern California are expected to be present.

The rank of knight will be conferred in a natural amphitheater, the same setting as used last year.

At the meeting of Santa Ana lodge, No. 149, held last Wednesday night, Austin A. Wyatt resigned as master of finance and C. B. Weber was elected to take his place. J. A. Gajeski was elected to the office of trustee, made vacant by the resignation of Weber. G. P. Campbell resigned as keeper of records and seal. No successor has been elected as yet.

The rank of esquire will be conferred next Wednesday night, at 7:45 o'clock, at the regular meeting place, M. W. of A. hall.

PROBLEM OF BOOZE TACKLED BY PREXY

ANN ARBOR, Mich., June 11.—The University of Michigan has undergone a significant academic change during the past year—the first under the presidency of Dr. Clarence Cook Little, formerly of the University of Maine.

By a disregard for tradition, the youthful successor to the late President Leroy Burton has won the enthusiastic support of the faculty. To the average student, the change has amounted almost to a revolution.

Major planks in Dr. Little's academic platform include a serious effort to mix student life with scholastic interests, improvement of the relations between alumni and the university and a grappling with the campus liquor problem.

Dr. Little laid down a strict rule to the undergraduate body to abolish liquor. When the initial campus uproar had subsided, fraternity after fraternity pledged its hearty co-operation.

With general support, the new president set about the task of inaugurating the following scholastic reforms:

1. Aiding the transition of students from high school to college.
2. Correlating knowledge gained in college work with the practical problems of life.
3. Aiding the transition of the undergraduate to the field of individual creative work.
4. Inauguration of a revised system of education for women students, including courses in practical nursing and housewifery.

In addition to this program, Dr. Little has "drafted" committees of alumni to work on such problems as student housing, non-athletic activities of the university, and allied subjects.

Dr. Little has explained that it is his hope to bring each student to the point at graduation where he or she is constructively ready to take up individual, creative work in their chosen fields of endeavor.

The board of regents of U. of M. has recently reorganized the board of control of athletics so as to incorporate the president as an ex-officio member of that body.

KRAHLING SERVICE STATION BUILDS UP LARGE BUSINESS

Proprietor Attributes Success to Popularity of Associated Gas

Three years ago, when Herbert Krahling purchased the small service station at 2311 North Main street, at the junction of Main and El Portal streets, some of his friends smiled. Since he has gradually added to his equipment and grown with the neighborhood, it is Krahling's turn to smile.

Located at a strategic corner on a converging point of several important streets, and on the main traffic line between Santa Ana and northern points, he has built up a splendid business and his station today is considered one of the best in this entire section and is rated as worth over $20,000.

His equipment is complete and includes three clear vision pumps, which expedite service in the heavy traffic rushes, an air tower, a Lubo oil dispenser, a modern greasing rack, car pit and complete equipment for tire service. He carries a stock of tires and accessories.

Krahling is of the opinion that he made two good moves in the service game, one when he purchased his present place of business and the other when he started selling Associated gas. Since handling this gas, his business has grown rapidly and still is gaining.

"Associated gas has won us many patrons," said Krahling. "We know that is is so because the majority of motorists who drive in our station ask for it by name. Of course, no matter how good a product is, there are other factors which enter materially into a service station's success. We recognize this and when we fill a tank with Associated, we never fail to throw in courtesy, service and speed."

Assisting Krahling in giving the public service is Alan Turner, who sees that every need of motorists is courteously supplied.

MOTHER'S WORK

NEW YORK, June 10—Mother is entitled to $36 a week that she does not get, according to data offered by the home economics teachers of a large western electrical concern. The teachers compiled a table of work done in the average American home by the mother and showed that, on the basis of servants' pay, mother would earn that much.

SKELETON REVEALS FRONTIER TRAGEDY

PORTLAND, Ore., June 11.—Mute evidence that at least one Oregon pioneer "died with his boots on" has been uncovered here with the discovery of a human skeleton, crouched in a shack near the McKenzie river highway.

A Winchester rifle of the type used in 1870 was grasped in the bony hands. The bolt was drawn as though he had ejected a shell just bfore being shot down by an enemy.

In the ancient stable, nearby, was found the skeleton of a horse, evidently the mount of the man. It, too, died in action, for the bit was between its teeth. The rope, tying it to the manger, was still in place, indicating that the animal had starved to death.

The discovery was made by William Harder, 12, Boy Scout, who became curious about the old buildings, while on a camping trip on the McKenzie river. He reported his find to J. Neilson Barry, of the Trail Seekers.

Barry is conducting an investigation to ascertain who the man was. He reports that settlers of that district thought the place haunted, which explains why the skeleton remained undiscovered for many years.

Woman Weds 2 Times; Retains Name of Smith

SACRAMENTO, June 11—Smith is a good old name, so good in fact that Mrs. Marjorie Tracy Smith, 32, of Sacramento, has retained it through two marriages.

And if she should ever take a third husband—well, there are plenty of Smiths, aren't there?

Mrs. Smith and her second husband, Frederick Estman Smith, 43, of Spokane, obtained a marriage license here. Her first husband, also named Smith, died. To start with, Mrs. Smith's maiden name was Smith.

FRANCE SEEKS PERFECTION OF FLYING BICYCLE

PARIS, June 11—The aerial bicycle again is being importantly experimented. Some of the greatest constructors, like the Peugeots, are taking it up since unexpected success of the motorless airplane.

To objections that the motorless airplane starts on the air from a height it is answered that there is no objection, at the beginning, to the air-bike rushing down hill to get its first support on the air increased. If the wind be in its face, so much the better.

With the air-bike, it is hoped country boys will skim over fences and fields to school. They will hit the ground, pedal on their wheels again to gather force, at need, and rise into the air again.

Weighs 47 Pounds

An aviette said to be backed by the Delage firm, has a total weight of 47 pounds, the bicycle itself alone weighing 24 pounds. By scientific calculation, it ought to rise. It is established to quit the earth at a rolling speed of 22 1-2 miles per hour.

Gabriel Poulain, former bicycle champion, on a machine similar in weight and spread, has already quit the earth and "skimmed" the 10 yards of the Decametre Purse for aerial bicycles, founded, years ago, by Robert Peugeot. But the Decametre conditions require the 10 yards to be done in both senses, altitude and distance, in the same trial. The 10 yards distance must be done at 10 yards altitude.

Poulain Capsizes

Poulain, they say, beats the 10 yards distance, even double or treble; but in doing so he does not get or maintain the 10 yards altitude. Also, they say, he has made his 10 yards altitude all right; but in going in for altitude, he sideslips or otherwise capsizes.

Frank Rettich's air-bike, before the year 1929, rose and skimmed nine feet, and then 11 feet, at the height of a man's knees. Rettich got off the earth by unaided means—it was done without a motor, without being thrown into the air, without rolling off a height. He rose and skimmed 11 feet distance by his muscular force on the pedals.

He will go down in history with Wilbur Wright and Santos-Dumont. He was the first bicycle skimmer of the air.

Rettich did not win the Peugeot prize: but the first Aviette club, organized on the spur of the moment by Paris Aero club members, presented him with a purse of $250 as a mark of esteem.

Warping Mere Trifle

The Rettich type of aviette, which poulain and others have improved, lacks some small trifle to really skim the air—instead of side-slipping and making "jumps." So did French pilots before the Wrights showed the small trifle of "warping."

Warping was apparently a mere trifle, yet the whole of flying was in that little modification of the planes' edges.

Rising and righting of the Rettich-Poulain machine are already obtained by a particularly ingenious device for varying the slant of the planes.

The back wheel is regularly smaller than the front one. On the bike is fixed a sort of biplane, the spread of whose upper surfaces, six yards and a half by two yards, give a bearing on the air of about fifteen square yards. The lower plane measures about four yards by one and one-half yards, and there is a small direction rudder at the rear.

The part of the frame resting on the hub of the back wheel can slide on the axle and thus describe, in sinking downwards, an arc the center of whose circle is the hub of the front wheel.

When the pilot thinks he has the necessary rolling speed on the ground, about ten yards per second, he slips a hand lever attached to the handlebar—which shoots open the bolt holding the bicycle frame on the back wheel's hub. With a jerk of the haunches, he makes it slip off, frame and saddle sinking under him and himself with them. The whole apparatus (except the wheels themselves) being of a piece, it pivots on the hub of the front wheel, dragging the planes back with an upward slant—the slant desired to favor the attack on the air, and so on.

LOS ANGELES HITS AT BATHING SUITS

LOS ANGELES, June 11.—The bathing suit, like the pajama, should be worn at certain times and in specific places only.

This is the gist of an ordinance adopted by the Los Angeles city council, making it a misdemeanor to wear a swimming costume in the streets unless it is covered with an outer garment.

The aldermen reasoned that there were too many bathing beauties and "asphalt arabs" who disported themselves, in and out of season, without sufficient covering. No bathing suit, no matter how abbreviated, is immoral when worn at the beach in bathing season, it was argued. But those who parade the streets in punctuated bathing attire should be censored.

Oregon Girl Is Wanted as Wife

OREGON CITY, Ore., June 11.—Oregon girls make good wives for New Yorkers, according to a letter Postmaster William R. Logus received from a resident of the eastern city.

The gentleman, who claims he has serious matrimonial intentions, desires to correspond with a "charming Oregon girl or widow" and he lists his qualifications as follows:

1. Good character.
2. Mild disposition.
3. All essential qualifications which would contribute to the happiness of an Oregon-born wife.

The letter fails to say in what way New York girls fail to please him. Mr. Logus suggests that perhaps the gentleman fails to please the New York girls, despite his extravagant claims.

ACID STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

Sufferers From Indigestion or Stomach Trouble CUT THIS OUT

"Stomach trouble, dyspepsia, indigestion, sourness, gas, heartburn, food fermentation, etc., are caused nine times in ten by chronic acid stomach," says a well known authority.

Burning hydrochloric acid develops in the stomach at an alarming rate. The acid irritates and inflames the delicate stomach lining and often leads to gastritis accompanied by dangerous stomach ulcers. Don't dose an acid stomach with pepsin or artificial digestants that only give temporary relief from pain by driving the sour, fermenting food out of the stomach into the intestines.

Instead, neutralize or sweeten your acid stomach after meals with a little hot water and Bisurated Magnesia and not only will the pain vanish, but your meals will digest naturally. There is nothing better than Bisurated Magnesia to sweeten and settle an acid stomach. It soaks up the harmful excess acid much as a sponge or blotting paper might and your stomach acts and feels fine in just a few minutes. Bisurated Magnesia can be obtained from any reliable druggist in either powder or tablet form. It is safe, reliable, easy and pleasant to use, is not a laxative and is not at all expensive.—Adv.

CLAIMS SOVIETISM IN RUSSIA FAILURE

SAN FRANCISCO, June 11.—Sovietism has failed in Russia, and with this failure will come the ultimate failure of Bolshevism's projects throughout the world, according to George Thomas Marye, former ambassador to czarist Russia.

Marye, accompanied by his wife, has just returned to California from a several months' tour of Russia. His home is in Burlingame, a residential community outside San Francisco.

"Business throughout Russia," Marye said, "still is in the hands of the government. It will take Russia a long time to get back to what we call normal, once the present form of government has been modified.

But the menace of Bolshevism is over. The world may sigh with relief."

Marye was ambassador to Russia from 1914 to 1916, when he resigned the post. He holds the Order of St. Nicholas Nevsky, given him by Nicholas II, and is the only foreign envoy to have ever been so honored. He left Petrograd a few weeks before the revolution of 1916.

GROWTH REVEALED IN GRAPE RAISING

SACRAMENTO, June 11.—Grape raising has grown increasingly more extensive in California every year since prohibition, and the acreage devoted to producing the juicy globules will continue to show a gain in 1926.

This in indicated in figures released by E. E. Kaufman, agricultural statistician, in charge of the federal-state crop reporting service.

Wine grapes, 156,945 acres, table grapes, 144,200 acres, and raisin grapes, 352,091 acres.

Wine grapes are in better condition than either table or raisin varieties, the report said, showing a condition of 98 per cent of normal and indicating a crop of 418,000 tons, compared with 395,000 tons harvested in 1925. The condition of all grapes was estimated on June 1 to be 84 per cent of normal, forecasting a production of 2,159,000 tons, as against 1,817,000 tons harvested last year.

GERMAN TAXPAYER DUNNED FOR 1 CENT

BERLIN, June 11 — The watch dogs of the Reich's treasury department are figuring income tax returns down to the last cent in their attempt to keep the budget balanced.

An irate taxpayer, complaining about the "immense amount of leisure time treasury officials seem to have," has written a Berlin newspaper saying that after paying a tax of 3500 marks last year, he recently received a bill of 4 pfennigs (about 1 cent) for balance due. Added to this, the taxpayer said was a charge of 5 pfennigs to cover postage. To avoid collectors, fees, the correspondent said he had to spend 10 pfennigs for a 1-cent money order and 5 pfennigs for a stamp to settle the bill.

DEMOCRATS MAY CALL CONVENTION

VISALIA, Calif., June 11.—Al- another state-wide conference of Democrats and changes in California's primary law will be considered by a special committee appointed by D. S. Ewing, of Fresno, as the aftermath of the Democratic convention at Santa Cruz last month. The committee will meet in Fresno on June 19.

The committee which Ewing was authorized to appoint consists of:

E. L. Finley, Santa Rosa; R. H. Dewitt, Yreka; George W. Vice, Sacramento; William J. McGee, of San Francisco; O. K. Cushing, San Francisco; H. H. McPike, Oakland; Charles A. Barlow, Bakersfield; D. M. Burnett, San Jose; Mattison B. Jones, Glendale; Mrs. J. Henry Stewart, Los Angeles, and C. M. Brown, Redlands.

Lacks Quarter For Gas Meter; Suicide Balked

EVERETT, Wn., June 11.—The fact that the supply of gas passing through a 25-cent gas meter was limited, saved the life of Anton Olson, laborer, found unconscious in a room in a lodging house here. He had gone to the room, written a note explaining he was tired of living, and turned on the gas. But he failed to put a qaarter in the meter. He revived when fresh air was admitted to the room.

Boy Has Picture In French Salon

PARIS, June 11 — The youngest painter with a picture hung in this year's salon is Tony Ricou, the 13-year-old son of M. Georges Ricou, director of the Opera Comique in Paris. Tony is still attending high school and does his painting on Sunday and Thursday (the days there is no school in France). He sent in two pictures and the National Society of Fine Arts accepted one, a still life showing a bowl of fruit on a table.

Former Newsboy Now Owns Long Island Estate Worth $5,000,000

NEW YORK, June 11—There's only about five feet five inches of Marcus Loew, measuring from north to south. Nor does his tailor have to pin two tape lines together to calculate his proportions latitudinally.

Whimsically inverse is the ratio between Loew's physical bulk and the extent to which he stacks up in the theatrical and financial worlds.

For further contrast, compare Loew's humble birthplace down in the lower east side of Manhattan with the splendors of his present five-million-dollar country estate out on Long Island sound.

Loew is the head of some 100 corporations now centering in the movie and vaudeville industries. But once in earlier life he was a bankrupt, and several times he saw ill winds blow his bank balance down to nickels and dimes.

Sold Papers in Gotham

Most of his time between the ages of 10 and 20 he spent hot-footing it up and down the New York sidewalks selling papers and ear muffs and such. Now he travels in a palatial private yacht or aboard the finest steamships.

Fortune played hide and seek with him for a while, but he won the game at last.

There's joy for Mrs. Loew in the freedom with which her husband goes on vacations now. The way he used to work, she observes, even after millions came his way, one would think he still was facing the direst poverty.

Back in those penny arcade days, Mrs. Loew didn't mind. Marcus had his name and livelihood to make, an dwith his ambitions she was in sympathetic accord. he knew hard work couldn't be avoided.

But after prosperity came, and Marcus still refused to let go of toil and responsibility, it worried her. Now that he consents to spend the winters in Florida and his springs in Europe, she's satisfied.

Would be Head Waiter

It was funny about Loew away back yonder when he gave up school at 9 years of age. He wanted most of all to be a head waiter.

He went so far as to get a job as bus boy in a restaurant, but when he spilled a big tray of dishes his hopes were blasted as if by dynamite.

A multitude of experiences began for Loew thereupon. He worked in a print shop. He and a youthful friend published a weekly paper, the "East Side Advertiser." He worked at $4 a week in a dry goods store.

At 12 he was employed by a fur concern. Here promotion came. At 18 he went into the fur business for himself. A year later he was bankrupt.

At 23 he married Carrie Rosenheim and re-entered the fur trade. Disaster paid him a return visit, but after paying all his debts he still had $7.

Rose on Capes

Capes became popular among women about that time. Loew went into the cape business and made a small fortune.

In 1904, a penny arcade was built on New York's famous Union Square. Loew had invested $40,000 in it. Friends subscribed $65,000 more. The arcade was profitable, and Loew decided to start others. He invested $150,000, and again the loss of all his worldly goods threatened.

But he extended his arcade operations to Cincinnati, and soon profits once more were pouring in.

The movies came next. Then vaudeville. Loew cashed in on them to the tune of millions.

Loew Admits Luck

Luck is due its share of the credit for his graduation from newspaper and ear muff selling into the magnate class, Loew concedes. It was pure chance, for instance, that robbed him of his job as a bus boy.

There are twin boys, Arthur and David, in the Loew family. They help manage their dad's theatrical affairs. Both are married. All the Loews live together at "Pembroke," a Long Island fairyland of flowers, orchards, gardens, walks and drives centering about a great mansion.

He likes to recall with them the days when contributions from their purses went with all his own funds into the penny arcade business down on Union square.

U. S. Withholds Recognition of Nicaragua Rule

WASHINGTON, June 11.—Announcement was made by the state department that the United States does not and will not recognize as the government of Nicaraugua the regime now headed by General Chamorro.

Asserting that the American government "continues to be, as it has always been, a warm friend of the Nicaraugan people," and that its attitude toward the Chamorro government remains unchanged, the department's formal statement continued:

"Needless to say, the American government sincerely hopes that the Nicaraguan people will, by a return to a constitutional form of government, make it possible for the United States to extend recognition to such a government and enter into formal diplomatic relations forthwith."

SMALL FARM SEEN AS FUTURE HOME

TULSA, Okla., June 11.—The two-acre farm, near enough to the heart of the city so that part of the family may hold urban jobs, will be the "homeseekers' paradise" of the future, according to J. E. Miller, Geneva O., vice chairman of the farm lands divison of the National Association of Real Estate Boards. Miller led the discussion of selling suburban farms to city dwelers here at the division meeting held in connection with the 19th annual convention of the association.

The automobile and the development of concrete highways have brought the truck, poultry and fruit farms within the reach of the city dweller, Miller said, adding that this has made the present trend of home hunters toward the outskirts of cities.

Reminding his audience that the code of ethics of the realtor is based on the Golden Rule, Harry H. Culver, of Culver City, Calif., stated that service to the community is the first obligation of the realtor.

"Selling a subdivison means more than selling lots. It means building a community spirit as well," he said.

THE MARTYN, FREE X-RAY

CHIROPRACTORS

FREE X-RAY

Examination to all sick people who call at their offices before June 12. There is no catch to this offer. It means exactly what it says and you will be under no obligation in any way. Many people hesitate in taking advantage of the above because they do not understand how we can give an X-Ray examination without remuneration in some form. But let us state right here that if we never see you again, after giving the report on your condition, we shall feel well paid for our efforts, because we have at least spread the wonderful truth of Chiropractic through you to the next person who may be in need of our work.

We, as Palmer Chiropractors, have made a special study of the spine and the nervous system and realize the importance of keeping the nerves free from pressure in order to have and maintain a healthy body. Many individuals think that because we work exclusively on the spine, we cannot correct their particular condition of sickness or trouble, not realizing that every part of the body receives its power to function, or its life, directly from the main line—these nerves. Our work is to find these pinched nerves which are causing your trouble, and with our hands alone, in a very careful manner, without pain, remove this pressure. We do not use medicine, surgery, osteopathy, massage, violet-ray, electronic reaction, or any other adjunct. Only our hands upon your spine. We do not twist your neck, pull your arms or legs or use hammers.

A Free X-Ray Examination will show clearly all of those little details that are so necessary in making an exact analysis of any sickness or disease. It will show the position of the vertabrae and the condition of the many tiny nerves that supply the body with force or energy. It will show what must be done if your health is to be restored, and will eliminate guesswork to the fullest extent. It will be a conclusive proof as to the cause of your condition that you can see with your own eyes and that you can depend upon. That is why we use it in our work. We would no more think of adjusting a patient without first X-Raying to locate the cause of the trouble than a carpenter would think of building a house without a rule. If you are not well and wish to learn the real facts of your case, take advantage of the following offer.

Any sick person who will call at our office at 412-416 Helbush Bldg., corner of Fourth and Main Streets, Santa Ana, before June 12, 1926, will receive an X-Ray examination and a report showing the exact cause of his sickness or disease. ABSOLUTELY FREE OF CHARGE, or obligation in any way.

FARMERS FACE SHORTEST CROP IN MANY YEARS

WASHINGTON, June 11.—Farmers are faced this season with the shortest crop production of the last 15 years, due to an unseasonable spring, the department of agriculture announced.

Bumper crops of winter wheat were forecast, with production totaling about 543,300,000 bushels, an increase of nearly 150,000,000 bushels over the harvest last year, but the condition of practically all other crops is much below normal.

The condition of spring wheat is 7.8 per cent below a 10-year average of 89.9 per cent. The crop in the northwest is suffering for moisture and is below average in most producing states.

Pastures and hay crops have suffered from drought. While in the southwest and west the hay crop will be godo, indications are the harvest for the entire country will be smaller than for any previous 15 years.

Apples, peaches and pears survived the cool spring weather. While the season is late in some sections, present indications point to a large crop. Georgia, Illinois, North and South Carolina will produce the largest crop in years, if weather remains favorable.

The planting of corn and other late crops has not been completed, the department said, therefore no prospective condition for production estimate could be made.

Legal Notice

(c) Heating contract.

Separate sealed bids shall be submitted for the (a) general contract on each of the five buildings and (b) for the plumbing and sheet metal contract on each of the five buildings and, (c) for the heating contract on each of the five buildings.

Separate sealed alternate lump bids shall be submitted for (a) the general contract on all five buildings, and for (b) the plumbing and sheet metal contract on all five buildings, and for (c) the heating contract on all five buildings.

A separate sealed bid shall be submitted for all classes of work on all buildings.

The bids submitted shall be in accordance with the plans and specifications on file in the office of the clerk of the board of supervisors of Riverside County, Riverside County Court House, Riverside, California; in the office of the clerk of the board of supervisors of Orange County, Orange County Court House, Santa Ana, California; in the office of the clerk of the board of supervisors of Imperial County, Imperial County Court House, El Centro, California.

Copies of plans and specifications of said work and also blank forms suitable for use in bidding on said work may be obtained at the office of G. Stanley Wilson, Architect, 646 W. 9th St., Riverside, California; at the office of the clerk of the board of supervisors of Riverside County, Riverside County Court House, Riverside, California; at the office of the clerk of the board of supervisors of Orange County, Orange County Court House, Santa Ana, California; at the office of the clerk of the board of supervisors of Imperial County, Imperial County Court House, El Centro, California; and no bid will be considered which is not in accordance with and on the form herein referred to. A Twenty-Five Dollar ($25.00) deposit will be required for each copy of plans and specifications taken out. This deposit will be refunded upon the return of said copy of plans and specifications to the office from which it was secured within ten days from the date it was taken out from said office.

Each bidder must accompany his set of bids with a certified check or a cashier's check made payable to the County of Riverside in a sum equal to ten percent (10%) of the highest total cost for all classes of work on all buildings, according to his separate bids or lump bid, which ever cost is the highest, as a guarantee that the bidder if awarded the contract, will enter into a written contract for the performance thereof satisfactory to said boards of supervisors of Riverside County, Orange County and Imperial County, respectively, and in addition thereto the successful bidder will be required to file a bond in the sum of twenty-five percent (25%) of the amount of the contract, with sureties satisfactory to said boards of supervisors as a guarantee of faithful performance of the contract, and a further bond in the sum of fifty percent (50%) of the amount of the contract, with acceptable sureties to secure the payment of laborers, materialmen, etc. Each bid shall be sealed, submitted, received and filed on or before July 6th, 1926, at 10 o'clock a. m. in the office of the clerk of the board of supervisors of Riverside County, Riverside County Court House, Riverside, California, and sealed copies thereof shall be filed by the bidders on or before said date and time with the clerks of the respective boards of supervisors of Orange and Imperial Counties respectively. Said original bids so submitted, received and filed at the office of the clerk of the board of supervisors of Riverside County shall be duly publicly opened and read by the board of supervisors of Riverside County at the board room thereof in the Court House in the City of Riverside, County of Riverside, California, on the 6th day of July, 1926, at the hour of ten o'clock, a. m. and said sealed copies filed with the clerks of the respective boards of supervisors of Orange and Imperial counties shall not be opened prior to ten o'clock, a. m., of July 6th, 1926.

The above mentioned certified check or cashier's check shall be given as evidence that the bidder will enter into a written contract if awarded the work and will be declared forfeited if the bidder refuses to enter into said written contract after being requested to do so in writing by the board of supervisors of Riverside County, California.

The board of supervisors of Orange County, together with the board of supervisors of Riverside County and the board of supervisors of Imperial County respectively, reserve the right to reject any and all bids not deemed advantageous to said Counties, and said boards further reserve the right to erect any or all of said buildings.

By order of the board of supervisors of Orange County, State of California, made this 25th day of May, 1926.

T. B. TALBERT,
Chairman, board of supervisors of Orange County, California.

Can You Remember 'Way Back When . . . .

A merchant bought space in "the paper" because his friend Bill Smith was the publisher, and Bill said his paper was read by "nine out of every ten families in town?" Purely a friendly transaction with no thought of whether Bill's statement was open to question or his judgment in error.

Today the merchant wants to know what returns the publication will give as an advertising medium. Competition has forced him to buy space as he buys potatoes or sugar —not because the seller is a friend of his, but because he knows he will get the full quantity that is paid for, and that the expenditure will bring profitable results.

In other words, selecting mediums for advertising has passed from a haphazard procedure to an accurate scientific process. This has been brought about through A. B. C. reports.

The Audit Bureau of Circulation was organized eleven years ago to provide verified circulation data for the use of advertisers. It now has a large force of auditors who cover the United States and Canada once a year auditing the circulation reports of over 1400 publisher members.

A. B. C. reports containing full data on all circulation questions furnish the only means by which the advertiser can be positive that his advertising is reaching the prospective buyers he desires.

The Santa Ana Register is a member of the A. B. C. The latest report will be furnished on request

RUM RUNNER SAVES LIVES OF 9 AND GETS PRISON TERM

Capt. Robert Pamphlet and the schooner Pescawha

Captured by Coast Guard When He Rescues Men From Open Boat

PORTLAND, Ore., June 11.—Nine exhausted men huddled in an open lifeboat, drifting toward the death on the wings of a raging gale that whipped the Pacific off the rocky Oregon coast.

Up into the teeth of the wind came a two-masted Canadian schooner, close-hauled to the fury of the gale. Her captain dared the loss of his ship and his life, hove-to for a few perilous moments—and saved the men from imminent death.

Then up came the U. S. coast guard cutter Algonquin. It trained its guns on the schooner, escorted it back to Portland—

And now the skipper of the schooner, Capt. Robert Pamphlet, has been convicted of rum running and sentenced to two years in the federal penitentiary and fined $5000.

Steamer Broke Down

That, in brief, is the story of one of the strangest adventures of the sea ever revealed.

It all began when the American steamer Caoba, bound north from San Francisco, got into trouble off the Oregon coast. There was an engine breakdown that could not be repaired and there was a heavy storm rising. The Caoba was helpless.

Another ship tried to help her, but sprang a leak and was obliged to run for port. The Caoba began to settle, and Captain Sandvig and his crew abandoned it and took to the boats.

Captain Sandvig and eight seamen were in the boat about which this tale revolves. The storm grew worse and the tired sailors could do little but hold their little craft's head into the wind. A steamer passed and failed to answer their hails, running before the wind and passing over the jagged horizon.

Just in Time

The men in the lifeboat saw that their case was hopeless.

Then, through the spray and mist that the wind dashed in their eyes, they saw a sail. There was an agonizing moment of suspense—did th emen on the schooner see them? Then the schooner changed its course and began beating against the wind to come to the rescue.

As the rescue ship hove-to windward, the men in the lifeboat saw that it was the schooner Pescawha of Vancouver, black-hulled and sturdy. And, lining the rail, were half a dozen grim looking men leveling rifles at the drifting lifeboat!

The captain of the Pescawha—Captain Pamphlet—scrutinized the lifeboat with his glasses. Then he signed his men to put away their rifles and the Pescawha came closer. The lifeboat and the men in it were hoisted aboard.

Then the rescued men got another surpris. They were taken below and given, in addition to warm food, plenty of good whiskey to chase away the ocean's chill. For the Peschawha was a rum runner, a load of Canadian whiskey under her hatches, and her crew had at first mistaken the lifeboat for a hijacker's outfit. Hence the display of rifles when the schooner first came alongside.

Cutter In Pursuit

Meanwhile, the lookout on the coast guard cutter Algonquin had spied the Pescawha's sails. The Algonquin was looking for the Pescawha. A bell jingled down in the engine room and the cutter came on at full speed. Precently the cutter reached the schooner.

Into port came the Pescawha, meekly enough, her own men under guard and a prize crew of blue-jacketed coast guards in charge. Captain Pamphlet was held for the federal court as a rum runner.

A little later the shipping firm of Sudden & Christensen of San Francisco, owners of the lost Caoba, sent Captain Pamphlet a $500 gold watch, engraved with a tribute to his heroism in rescuing Captain Sandvig and his men.

And then Captain Pamphlet came to trial. He testified that he was 18 miles from the coast when seized by the cutter. The coast guards said it was seven miles. It was revealed that the Pescawha would have escaped capture if it had not stopped to save the Caoba's men.

But the judge hald that the rescue had nothing to do with the case. Accordingly, Captain Pamphlet was convicted and sentenced. He is now out on bond pending an appeal to a higher court.

"They Are Men."

"They gave us their food, their clothes, their bunks and their booze," he said. "We cannot but feel that they are prisoners because of their humanity to us. Where a big freighter refused to stop to save us, a booze runner picked us up—and was seized as a result. They may be rum runners but they are men."

And Fred L. Boalt, editor of the Portland News, has sent a petition to President Coolidge asking for clemency for Captain Pamphlet.

Meanwhile, the two-year prison sentence stands, and unless a higher court reverses it or the attorney general intervenes, Captain Pamphlet will go to prison—because he saved nine lives.

14 CENTURY PLANTS BLOOM IN CAPITAL

SACRAMENTO, June 11.—To anyone who scoffs at the statement that everything that grows, grows more quickly and grows more blossoms and fruit in California than any place else, William Vortriede would like to show his 14 century plants.

They bloom every 25 years.

Vortriede is state gardener and one of the recognized plant experts of the Pacific coast. Due to this fact his statement is taken authentically, rather than as an added "booster blurb."

The plants range from 25 to 35 years, and will be in full bloom in another month. They are located in the state capitol park.

WAY IS OPEN FOR STOKES WILL FIGHT

NEW YORK, June 11.—The way was opened today for the proposed contest of the will of the late W. E. D. Stokes.

The surrogate's court here was notified that Mrs. Stokes had been served with notice that the will would be probated here July 7 and an order was then made permitting service of similar notice of Mrs. Stokes' two children, through an uncle.

That gives Mrs. Stokes the right to institute contest on behalf of her two children.

Stokes, in his will, left his entire estate, valued at several million dollars, to W. E. O. Stokes jr., cutting off with nothing the two children of Helen Elwood Stokes.

WOMAN'S ENEMIES SET FIRE TO HOME

GLENDALE, June 11.—The home of Mrs. Billie Jewell was fired by mysterious enemies, who have been sending threatening notes to the woman for the last two weeks.

The home and furnishings were completely destroyed.

The arsonist gained entrance to Mrs. Jewell's home and saturated her bed wtih kerosene. A 40-foot fuse was stretched from the bed to the yard outside, where it apparently was lighted.

Police believe the woman's unknown enemies intended to light the fuse while she was sleeping and burn her to death. She was not at home when the fire occurred.

UNCLE IKE'S BOTTLE

PROPOSED TUNNEL

SEATTLE, Wn., June 11 — The possibility of putting a highway tunnel through the Cascades between eastern and western Washington will be investigated by a committee, appointed by Gov. Rowland H. Hartley to report to the next legislature. The tentative plans call for a 30-mile bore, costing about $4,000,000.

THE ROMANCE OF AMERICA—Nathan Hale —BY REDNER

An outstanding event in American history trails back to 1777, and has to do with Betsy Ross and the making of the first American flag. A daughter of Samuel Griscom, who played a part in the erection of Independence Hall, Betsy was born in Philadelphia in 1752. At the age of 24 she married John Ross, a nephew of George Ross, a signer of the Declaration of Independence.

After the Continental Congress had discussed and decided on the design for a national flag, a committee comprising George Washington, Robert Morris and George Ross, was named.

They called upon Betsy Ross and asked her if she would make the flag for the new republic. Betsy explained that, of course, she had never made a flag, but agreed to try her hand.

Thereupon her visitors showed her the roughly drawn design. It contained a blue field with 13 stars in a circular constellation and, extending from it and below it, an arrangement of 13 stripes which were alternately red and white. At that time there were only 13 states in the Union and a star and stripe represented each one of the original colonies.

The WOMAN'S DAY
by Allene Sumner

"I Want to Write!"

The above declaration of desire comes in my mail no less than half a dozen times a day. Then follows this classic line, "please tell me how to go about it." Here's an answer today. I'm al lagog over a new book by a comparatively unknown author—"The Pride of the Town," by Dorothy Walworth Carman. I want to shout and sing praises to the lady, and if the reviewer "don't treat our Nell right!" I'm going to steal from Mrs. Carman's lively book and show some samples of real living, real observation, real thinking, real sensitiveness, that may tell one "what I must do to write and how to go about it."

Great Stuff!

"On either side of Mrs. Kellogg's chair a maid stood, as if she were enclosed in parentheses."

"Conversation was opened neatly, like a tin of sardines."

"Hypatia decided that a bride becomes a part of a strange family too suddenly, like a fresh vegetable tossed into a stew already cooked.

"Naomi was secret as a house without winds. No one knew exactly what was inside."

Wonder If We Dare!

Now we want to steal a whole hunk from this best of all modern novels, for it berates and defines a certain type of woman, as such types have needed doing since Eve first baked an apple and stuffed it with cloves and nutmeg.

"In the first month Hypatia made the decision whether she would be a model housekeeper, Topax Kellogg was a model housekeeper because she was afraid of leisure. When she did not have housework to think about, her mind felt bleak and unprotected. Thoughts of silver, muffins, pears, and jam warmed and covered her mind as a wadded tea cozy comforts a teapot. Flour, sugar, salt and butter were basic words in her Household Creed.

Why!

"Savages created for themselves protecting gods because they were afraid of the dark. Topaz created a god from her house because she was afraid of a dark leisure, afraid of that dumb, empty moment when thought would be a face pressed against a window, or a knock on the door. The fear of Topaz was the guilt, unconfessed fear of humanity spent each year to ward away thought. Movies, radios, automobiles, and golf were weapons of the rich. Coney Island was the shield of the poor."

The Neighbors

"The neighbors told the story, reverently, of Mrs. Totmarsh. This Mrs. Totmarsh was on her feet from morning 'till night. She was the first to get her house cleaned in the spring and the first in the fall. Once she thought a neighbor was going to finish before her, so she stayed up all night to clean and was through first."

What They Said

"Caring for a home is the most beautiful, worth-while accomplishment in the world," Molly Pitcher sighed when the story was done. Hypatia waited a moment, then she said: "Caring for a home is the most worth-while thing in the world, but what does it include? It isn't all eating and cleaning. There's so much else—caring for the spirit of the home, for instance. Caring for your mind—

Going On

"I could forgive a woman," Hypatia continued, "if she cleaned her silver because she liked to see it shine. But to clean your silver once a week because your neighbor cleans it is infamous. To dust every day because your mother dusted is a sin. It's a sin to take care of the body of the house and have no strength left for the spirit. IT IS WICKED TO BE DIRTY, BUT IT IS MORE WICKED TO BE TOO CLEAN. It's the unpardonable sin to polish your kettles and have no time to think."

Just Folks
by Edgar A. Guest

A BIT OF HEAVEN HERE

A little bit of Heaven here,
Though brief the day and swift the year;
A kindlier world in which to live,
Where men the faults of men forgive,
This is the dream I faintly see
And wonder will it ever be.

I'd like to see the lanes of earth
Aglow with fellowship and mirth;
I do not doubt the God above
Nor question His unfailing love;
I trust His purpose and His plan,
My only quarrel is with man.

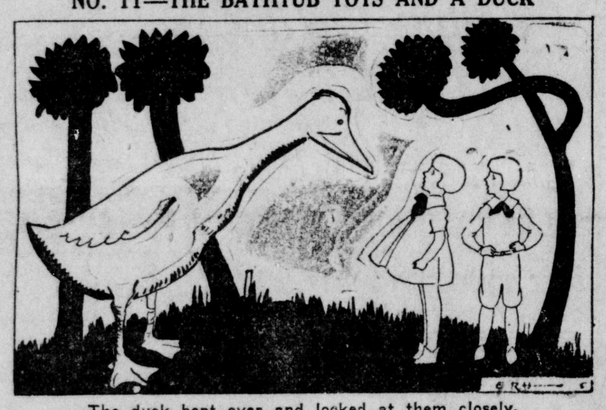
Would we could catch His spirit here,
And banish doubt and hate and fear,
Making this world a gentler place,
With more of beauty and of grace
And smoothing every troubled brow
With peace and hope and comfort now.

Some rest from toil, some sweet relief
From all life's bitterness and grief.
With more of laughter and of song,
And less of cruel hurt and wrong,
So that we all from year to year
Could have a bit of Heaven here.

Oh, we could fill this world with grace
And make of it a kindlier place,
Could scatter joys along the way
And fill with sunshine many a day,
But selfishly we grope and plod
And leave it all to Heaven and God.

ADVENTURES of the TWINS
by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

NO. 11—THE BATHTUB TOYS AND A DUCK



The duck bent over and looked at them closely.

The alligators kept spinning the Twins around until you couldn't have told them from tops.

"Oh, dear!" gasped Nancy.

"My goodness!" cried Nick.

"Aren't they cute!" laughed the fat alligator with the ruffles and the velvet basque. "Let's take them home to our children. They would make lovely bathtub toys. I wonder if they float."

But before Mister Alligator could answer, an enormous duck, quite as large as an elephant, waddled up.

"What are they?" he quacked.

"We don't know," said the alligatoress, putting out her paw or her foot or her hand, or whatever it is alligatoresses have, and stopping the Twins as they twirled. "But we think they are what you call people."

The duck bent over and looked at them closely—so closely that the Twins thought he was going to gobble them up. "Queer—very queer," he quacked. "They are neither frogs, worms, nor turtles. So I suppose you are right. I shall take them home to my ducklings for playthings."

But before the alligators had time to say that he would do tended to take them home themselves, a very large fish hopped up on his fins.

He put on a pair of eye-glasses and gazed at the Twins as though something weighty lay on his mind. Finally he turned to the duck and the alligators. "Do they squeak if you push their heads?" he asked. "Aave they whistles about them anywhere? Have you tried?"

"Why, no," said Mrs. Alligator, showing all her teeth. "I never thought of such a thing." And before anyone could stop her, she grabbed Nancy with one paw and Nick with the other and pushed hard.

"Ouch!" cried Nancy.

"Ouch!" cried Nick.

"That's fine," said the fish. "I shall take them home to my children."

"I just guess you won't," quacked the duck. "They're mine."

"Just listen," said Mrs. Alligator indignantly. "They belong to us, my dear sir. We discovered them."

"Why, you're only an old bathtub toy, both of you are!" said the duck. "Your made of rubber, and so is this old fish here. I've got real feathers, I'll have you know."

"You're only a Christmas-tree toy yourself," retorted Mister Alligator. "Your feathers are all pasted on and your bill is made of paper and your feet are made of wax and wire. So are your legs."

At this Mrs. Alligator grabbed the duck by the tail and Mister Alligator grabbed him by the neck and the feathers began to fly in all directions.

"I think I'll be going," said the fish uneasily, putting his eyeglasses away in his pocket. "I'm not sure about my scales. I think they are only painted on, but if they should come off like the duck's feathers, I'd be a remarkable sight."

He hesitated a minute as he looked at the Twins, as though he had a notion to tuck one under each fin and walk off with them.

But he changed his mind and disappeared.

"Let's run!" whispered Nick.

"Stop them!" shouted the alligators.

But although dozens of hands and paws reached out for them, the Twins kept on going. At last they reached the end of the town and sat down on a stone to rest.

FOR THE BEACH

Short sport coats of printed linen are particularly attractive in black and white, worn with pink or bright red crepe de chine frocks.

TRADITIONAL FROCK

The lingerie frock made after the French fashion with colored handkerchief linen or georgette and fine laces and embroidery is extremely popular now.

VERY DECORATIVE

A very attractive pink chiffon frock is very simply made and trimmed only with a corsage of rhinestones—a bow effect and long fringe of the brilliants.

VERY EFFECTIVE

Wide metallic ribbon with gold and silver threads interwoven to form a pattern, is liked for sashes and for trimmings for evening gowns.

Hates Housework Mother Says

By ANNE AUSTIN

Lest I be accused of making myself appear to be an ideal mother and Elizabeth a paragon of a child, I hasten to slip into this series a frank discussion of her most annoying fault, a fault which has earned her a good many sound spankings and countless stern curtain lectures. I have a quick temper and I've been extremely busy making a living ever since Elizabeth was born—two factors which have insured friction between my easy-going, careless, lazy daughter and myself.

For Elizabeth is certainly lazy, physically. She apparently hasn't a nerve in her body that she's conscious of, and she dosen't give a rap about an immaculate house. I'm nervous, keyed up to a tremendous pitch most of the time, and I can't abide a disordly room. You can imagine the result.

Worked at Three

Since there was no money for a nurse or a cook or even a part-time servant, I insisted that Elizabeth take over her just share of the work, even when she was less than 2 years old. She had to keep her playthings in order, and act as her own nurse. When she was 3 years old she stood on a chair to dry dishes and she had to learn to make her own bed. She did both willingly enough, but to this day she does them both rather badly.

Of course, she washes the dishes now, as well as dries them, cooks our breakfast and helps prepare the dinner. Since she is bigger and stronger than I am now, she has to do the heavy cleaning, but it takes my constant supervision to see that it is done even halfway right. She admits very frankly that she hates housework, and would never do a stroke of it if she didn't have to.

Her idea of bliss is for us to become rich enough to afford a staff of servants. Since that seems to be rather distantly in the future, she does her share of the work with pretty good grace, because she loves me too much to impose upon me Sometimes, when I am ill, she has all of the housework there is to do in a four-room apartment, and then she does it with great cheerfulness, singing lustily off-key. But even when she's rejoicing in her feeling of grown-up responsibility she does her work far from perfectly.

Washes Own Clothes

She simply can't attach enough importance to spotless kitchen floors and wrinkless beds. She washes her own socks and dresses of the kind which the laundry would spoil, but it never occurs to her to sew on a button unless I point out the necessity to her. I do that sort of pointing with what, to her, is painful frequency.

I credit my early strict discipline with the fact that she never openly rebels, never refuses to do anything she is told to do. But I can't claim that she performs any of these tasks with any degree of perfection.

She would so much rather read or talk or play with her dog. Her teachers tell me that she is just as lazy about performing arduous, uninteresting tasks at school—cleaning out her desk, copying laboratory notebooks, making history outlines. But I refuse to be sorry for her, because she has to do disagreeable tasks. After all, life has been pretty good to her.

Tomorrow I shall tell, as frankly as possible, how I have taught Elizabeth the so-called "facts of life."

BEAUTY CHATS
by EDNA KENT FORBES

PLAIN SOAP AND WATER

People who write about beauty and beauty treatments are apt to talk almost entirely about cold creams and such lotions, and neglect to mention the greatest skin beautifier of all which is plain soap and water. There is a right way and a wrong way to wash the face, and there are soaps that are good and soaps that are bad for the skin. Let us find out more about plain soap and water. First of all no soap should take oil from the skin. The best toilet soap, therefore, is one containing an abundance of pure vegetable oil, olive oil is the best, and palm oil and cocoanut oil are practically good. Most good soaps advertise what they are made of. If you pay a fair price you will be certain to get a good soap. You do not have to pay exhorbitant amounts for fancy boxes, you want the quality in the soap and not the wrapper.

Buy a good oily soap, and get it without perfume if possible, and don't pay less than ten cents a cake. If you live in a hard water district use any brands of hard water soap which soften the water for you, otherwise use a bit of borax in the water, or, better yet, powdered oatmeal. Open the pores of the skin by wringing your face cloth from the hot water and holding it a moment over the face. Rub the soap in well and then rinse. Rinse with water as hot as what you have washed with, and if possible even hotter. It is necessary to get every bit of the soap from the skin which can only be done by relaxing the pores still further so they can throw off not only the soap but everything the soap has absorbed to close the pores. If your soap is good quality and you have rinsed it out thoroughly your face will not be shiny. If it feels dry after such a treatment, the next time you wash the face rub it with cold cream and use this vigorous soap and water wash to take the cream from the skin.

Miss A. F. B.—From your description of the cream I should think that you had put too much borax in it. There is no reason why you should not use the cream as a cleanser, especially for ridding your skin of the blackheads. Be sure to rinse enough to get all the cream from your skin or the borax will make it feel parched.

Hot, damp rags held over the places where the blackheads collect will open the pores and soften the skin, so the cream has a better chance to dissolve the impacts in the enlarged pores. Always close the pores again after any kind of cleansing of this kind, either with very cold water or an ice rub.

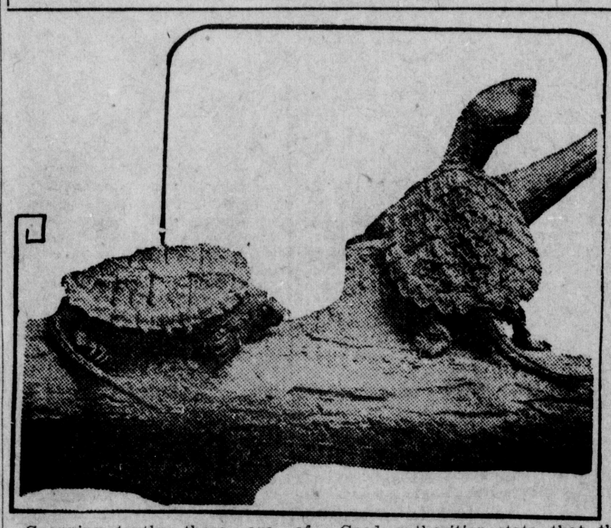
Mrs. W. S. K.—Sage and sulphur mixtures will not color grey hair beyond a light shade of tan, and since your hair is dark brown you will not gain anything by using this method.

Tomorrow—Skin Blemishes

Queer Quirks of -NATURE-



Snapping turtles there are of more heroic build than our common one of the eastern states, but none that inch for inch combines more tenacity of life and more uncompromising ferocity.

Just out of the egg, they will snap at anything that disturbs them, and the last act of the life of an old snapper—no one knows how long they do live—is to shut its jaws on some enemy, and refuse to let go even in death.

The life of the snapping turtle begins in some sandy bank where its mother has laid her two or three dozen round rubbery shelled eggs in a hole of her own digging, and after putting down the replaced soil over them, gone on about her leisurely business, leaving the rest to fate.

Nor does the young snapper, on emerging from the shell, waste any time looking for parental help. He merely digs his way to daylight, and starts out to make a living.

The food of the baby snapper consists of anything in the animal or vegetable line that he can pick up and he himself passes as food in the eyes of many a bird and beast.

If he escapes these in his early youth, however, he has few enemies to fear during the next hundred years or so. Fish and frog and duckling, and the leaves and fruit of many water plants form a part of his bill of fare.

Good authorities state that the snappers do not breed until about 15 years old. This fact alone, if true, would argue that the normal span of life of the snapper is considerable.

The colder months are spent in the depths of some stream or pond, where, indeed, most of his life is passed. The principal purpose of leaving the water is to lay its eggs, although land excursions are occasionally made with other objects in view.

Though the snapping turtle is not a desirable inhabitant of duck pond or fish pool, it is a part of Nature's great scheme. Its eggs and young form a port of the food of its fellow inhabitants of the marsh and its own flesh forms the basis of a large part of the terrapin soup over which the epicure smacks his lips.

BERLENBACH RETAINS LIGHT HEAVY CROWN

DIFFICULT TASK

In 1914 Mack boasted a pennant winner. He decided, for various reasons, to break up his team. The following year his club finished last. For seven successive years it was a tailender.

Then the Mackian system began to make progress. Last season it was a contender all the way. It faltered only in the stretch. This year it is an even better combination.

Only an absolute collapse of the ball club will prevent the A's from having considerable to say as to who is going to win the American league pennant.

BOSTON RED SOX

Owner Bob Quinn of the Boston Red Sox has been going through all the hard luck that pursued Mack for seven years, since he acquired the Boston Americans.

It wasn't much of a ball club that went with the sale, so immediate efforts were made to strengthen it.

A number of veteran players, believed to have several years' service still in their systems, were purchased, with the hope the Boston fans would see winning ball at once under the new ownership.

For two months the veterans delivered in fine style, but when warm weather set in they wilted and the club dropped to the bottom.

It was then decided to rebuild the team with young blood, no matter how long it took.

After several disappointing years it is beginning to look as if the efforts of Bob Quinn and Manager Lee Fohl were bearing fruit.

Most necessary to a winning ball club in the majors is a strong infield. At present the Boston club is better fortified in infield strength than in any other department of play.

Haney and Rigney, former Detriot stars, have filled the gaps at third and short in fine style. Mike Herrera, the Cuban, is a very satisfactory second baseman and Phil Todt is mighty capable at first.

The Boston Red Sox have completed the laying of the foundation for a good team, in getting together an infield of major league

SPRINTER HONORED

HARVEY BEAR

Santa Ana high school's 1927 track squad will be captained by Harvey Bear, mercury - footed sprinter, who was one of the stars of the season just closed. —Bear was elected skipper of next year's team at a meeting of lettermen yesterday.

Rogers Hornsby of St. Louis, whom many consider to be the greatest natural batsman of modern times, has led the National league hitters six consecutive seasons.

BEAR TO PILOT TRACK TEAM AT POLY IN 1927

Harvey Bear, star sprinter, will pilot the Santa Ana high school track team next year as a result of a vote taken yesterday among the trackmen. Bear was almost the unanimous choice.

The track captaincy was a tribute to the stellar performance of Bear during the past season. Although but a junior, he went into the finals of the Southern California prep meet against the star athletes of the Southland, placing fifth. He was handicapped by a heavy cold in that meat.

The loss of some of the best individual stars that ever dug spikes in the Poly track, however, will be hard to replace. Captain Howard Paul, Harold English, Robert McKean and Gerald Twist will graduate.

Although it appears that Santa Ana will be weak in the middle distances next year, Coach Scott expects that new material will bolster up the team in these departments. Weight events also will need strengthening.

Letters were awarded the members of the 1926 squad at the student body assembly yesterday. Of the men receiving letters, Captain-elect Harvey Bear, Robert Jacques, Manley Moffatt, Terry Stephenson, Harold Breeding, Ernest Velarde, Harry Rademacher, John Keeler and Clarence Fairchild will be eligible next season. Graduating lettermen include Captain Paul, Harold English, Gerald Twist, Charles Winters and Robert McKean.

Much will be expected from the two stellar Santa Ana tracksters, Captain Bear and Harold Breeding, next year. Bear's favorites are the century dash and the 220-yard dash. Breeding, probably the best miler ever developed here, is expected to be premier in his event.

NATION'S BEST COLLEGE TRACK STARS IN MEET

CHICAGO, June 11.—As fine a gathering of college athletes as could be rounded up throughout the nation awaits the roar of the starter's gun that will open the National Collegiate A. A. games tomorrow.

On the eve of the meet it appears that records are more certain than ever to be buffeted about as the boys go through their favorite events.

Every athlete entered in the meet is, at least, a place winner in his sectional games. Some hold world's records, others American records, and quite a few boast of various conference records.

A glance over the entries brings out such names as "Bud" Houser, Southern California; John Kuck, Kansas State Teachers' college;

Roland Locke, the Nebraska flyer; Sweet, Montana; Hester, Michigan; Northrop, Michigan; Taylor, Baylor and Barnes, Southern California.

Every event promises to develop the kind of competition that a national meet should bring out, but the weights and sprints probably will be more evenly divided among the stars than any of the others. The duel between Kuck and Houser in the shot put and discus will be the really close event of the meet. In the sprints it seems a toss-up between Locke, Hester and Sweet.

A heavy rain falling this morning threatened to cause postponement of the preliminaries scheduled to be held this afternoon.

Mary-Suzanne Match Is Postponed

PARIS, June 11.—Mary K. Browne's match with Suzanne Lenglen for the French tennis championship today was postponed until Saturday after rain had made a puddle of the center court at the Racing club.

Decision to postpone the match was reached shortly after 3 p. m. Rain had been falling for some time. The doubles matches scheduled for today had been postponed earlier, but the management clung as long as possible to the hope of playing the feature match.

"ONE-TWO"—THAT MEANS BRADLEY!

It's getting to be "one-two" or no count with E. R. Bradley, prominent Kentucky sportsman and owner of the Idle Hour farm, home of famous thoroughbreds.

For the fifth time this season Bradley horses ran first and second, in capturing the Latonia Derby last Saturday, Bagenbaggage winning with Boot to Boot a half length behind.

It was the third big derby Bradley nags won this year, the others being the Kentucky event, which went to Bubbling Over with Bagenbaggage second and the rich Louisiana race won by Bagenbaggage with Boot to Boot second.

Hank Gowdy Says He Was Fired As Columbus Pilot

COLUMBUS, Ohio, June 11.—Hank Gowdy was discharged as manager of the Columbus club of the American association and did not resign, the former New York Giant catcher revealed in a telegram to the Columbus Citizen.

"I was fired without a chance," Gowdy wired.

"I deny emphatically that I resigned. I only want to say that my dismissal was very inconsistent, in view of the fact that previous managers have been given at least a year to prove their worth."

Gowdy had been manager of the club only a few months.

ADAMS, ROSEN MIX AT LEGION TONIGHT

LOS ANGELES, June 11—Johnny Adams, San Bernardino lightweight, will have a great deal at stake when he steps over the ropes at the Hollywood American Legion stadium tonight to meet Charley Rosen, a capable fellow, in a 10 round bout.

Adams has just regained a reputation he lost by being knocked out more than a year ago. His future looks brighter than it ever has, even when he was lightweight champion of the Pacific coast. He is signed to meet Tommy O'Brien a week from next Wednesday and if he gets through the two fights in good shape he will be in line for big money.

SHORT SPORTS

NEW YORK—Special courtesies will be accorded Jess Sweetser, newly crowned British amateur golf champion, when he arrives home today aboard the Aquitania. He will be met on a cutter at quarantine by a committee from the Siwanioa club, where he is a member.

DETROIT—Because of the non-appearance here of Jack Delaney, Bridgeport light heavyweight, his scheduled ten round bout tonight with Bob Sage of Detroit has been postponed.

Radbourne, one of the most phenomenal pitchers in the early days of the National league, made a record of 36 straight victories as a twirler for the Providence team.

EXCELSIORS HAVE MANSFIELD WOBBLING BUT FOUNTAINEERS RALLY IN NINTH TO WIN, 5 TO 4

The Excelsior Creamery company had Southpaw Jimmy Mansfield wobbling and on the verge of his first defeat in the Santa Ana City Indoor Baseball league at Lincoln park last night but the Milk-Dispensers faltered just as they reached the tape and Lee's Fountain, coming from behind with a rush in the eighth and ninth, won, 5 to 4, retaining their tie for first place with the Tiernan Typewriter company.

It was another one of those nip and tuck, hammer and tongs affairs that have featured the Lincoln park card almost every evening this week. The game came to a dramatic conclusion amidst the wildest confusion when Luther Babcock, the big Exscelsior catcher, trying desperately for a double play that would end the struggle in the ninth threw wildly to first base. Two Lee Fountain runners, bringing in the tieing and winning runs, dashed home on the heave.

Excelsiors Take Lead

The Excelsiors got away to a lead and were never headed until the Fountaineers' rally in the last stanza. Babcock singled off Mansfield after two were down in the first and came around on a wild pitch and another single by Lee, the City league's leading swatter, who nicked Mansfield for two hits during the evening.

Scott drew a pass in the fourth, went to second on Jones' error, to third when Lee forced Babcock at second and scored on a wild pitch. Jackson's single, Brelje's sacrifice an da passed ball gave the Excelsiors another run in the fifth and put them out in front, 3 to 1. The Fountaineers having made their first counter in the last of the fourth when Lacy doubled and Norton singled. The Excelsiors came back in the sixth, Jiles singling, going to second on Scott's sacrifice and scoring on a wild pitch.

L. Daley Scores

Levitt Daley brought in the Lees' second tally in the sixth. He singled to start the frame, stole second,

AMERICAN NET QUEEN PRAISED BY PHYSICIAN

NEUILLY, France, June 11.—Dr. Thierry De Martel, the greatest surgeon in France, calls Miss Helen Wills of Berkeley, Cal., the finest specimen of girlhood ever seen in France, and predicted that she will be on the courts again within four weeks.

Dr. De Martel operated on the American tennis champion for appendicitis six days ago. He was assisted by Dr. Gabriel Maurange, who similarly described Miss Wills as a superb physical specimen.

"Your Miss Wills," said Dr. Maurange, "not only is a wonderful athlete. She is undoubtedly one of the calmest characters in the world. This has enabled her to convalesce at record speed.

"Where ordinarily only the best patients rise on the tenth or twelfth day after such an operation, Miss Wills ate heartily of chicken on the fourth day and rose yesterday afternoon, walking about her room without danger or pain.

"She is physically a 100 percent perfect specimen of girlhood, whom all women of the world could wisely copy. Her moderate life, her quiet temper and her devotion to sport have made her body remarkable.

Piping 'Em Off

Yesterday's Hero—Adolfo Luque, the Reds' Cuban pitcher, who set down the Robins, 4 to 3, the Reds regaining the league lead.

The Braves made it eight in a row, poking out 12 hits and defeating the Cubs, 8 to 4.

"Flint" Rhem, the young Cardinal right hander, allowed the Giants only five hits and St. Louis won, 3 to 2.

Home runs by Lazerri and Muesel helped the Yanks to make it three straight over Detroit. Pennock pitched the 8 to 1 victory.

The Pirates were demoted from first place when the Phillies came from behind with wild rallies and won, 13 to 9.

The Red Sox gained an early lead and were never headed, beating St. Louis easily, 8 to 3.

Three singles, two doubles and a sacrifice in the ninth netted Washington four runs and Cleveland was beaten, 5 to 3.

STRIBLING IS NO MATCH FOR TITLE-HOLDER

Boy Challenger Content to Wrestle, Clinch Through Uninteresting Ring Go

By PAUL W. WHITE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, June 11.—Paul Berlenbach remains the light heavyweight champion of the world and from the list of those disputing his title the name of Young Stribling has been erased.

The erasure was accomplished thoroughly and uninterestingly last night at the Yankee stadium. For 15 rounds Berlenbach was employed in setting down the challenging Georgian and the decision was his by a mile.

It was not a fight calculated to please many of the 50,000 or so customers. If Stribling had been more successful in the fascinating "catch-as-catch-can" maneuvers he employed, it would have been a wrestling match.

Spends Time Clinching

For the first five rounds the boy had some action. But Paul's vicious left reduced Stribling to a point where he spent the rest of the evening in clinches. As the Southerner hung on to the champion, he pushed and shoved, once backing Berlenbach through the ropes and into the press box. That diversion came in the fourteenth round.

In the first three rounds the boxers felt each other out and no blow of consequence was landed. The fourth saw Berlenbach shoot a left to the heart and that blow may have been the decisive blow.

Stribling outboxed his opponent in the fifth, but faltered after that and won no other round.

Warned Repeatedly

In the late periods Stribling was repeatedly warned by the referee, who tried his best to speed up the bout. Berlenbach attempted to fight but Stribling clinches so repeatedly that many fans began to leave. Even persistent booing failed to arouse the challenger, who seemed not to have a telling blow.

"Pa" Stribling, father-manager of the defeated boxer, said after the bout that he had no excuses. He refused to coincide with some critics who said that Stribling was too finely trained.

RACE TO HONOLULU BEGINS TOMORROW

LOS ANGELES, June 11—With the starting time only a day away, interest in the annual yachting race to Honolulu reached a high pitch here today.

While skippers and crews of the six schooners and yawls entered in the event went over their craft to make certain that they were in good condition to stand the 2225 mile cruise, the landlubbers were picking their favorites.

The Mariner was made a popular choice today, with the Invader and Poinsettia close behind as possible winners. The Mariner holds the record between the Pacific Coast and Hawaii, having made the distance in 1923 in a little over eleven days.

'LAZY' MEUSEL IS DIFFERENT MAN THIS YEAR

By PAUL WHITE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, June 10.—The man who has been called "the laziest player in baseball" is one of those most responsible for the present league-leading position of the New York Yankees.

Bob Meusel, competent and talented left fielder of the Hugmen, is called indolent even by his nearest friends and yet there are few players regarded as more dangerous by the Yanks' opponents.

Playing his seventh season in big league baseball he is at his best. And when Meusel is good there are few fielders in any league who can touch him.

In addition to his batting—and he is up among the slugging leaders—he can capture fly balls with consummate ease and has one of the best arms in the game. Although there are no figures available, it is probable that Meusel has thrown out more men at the plate than any other outfielder.

It is a phrase often heard in the American league that "you never can tell what Lanky Bob will do." There have been times when Bob has idled down to first on a bit when by sprinting he could easily have reached second, only to steal on the next pitch.

Frequently Meusel has been a real problem to Huggins. Last year, when the Yanks were just about as bad as they could get, Meusel was hard ridden by the fans.

From the press box it looked as though he were loafing. Many balls went by him when he failed to move sufficiently fast. And he was thrown out at first on several hard drives that he could have stretched into safe hits.

But Bob didn't mind the riding, as far as anyone could see. Although indifferent, apparently careless and carefree, he was kept in the line-up.

This year he doesn't seem to have any more enthusiasm towards his work, but the results are far different. Give Babe Ruth all the credit you can for the Yankees' showing, but save a little for the gentleman in left field.

EXCELSIOR BEATEN BY LEE'S FOUNTAIN

took third on an out and scored on Ed Daley's hit. L. Daley also made the Fountaineers' third marker in the eighth. He singled and easily counted when his brother, Ed, slammed a triple into right. Ed Daley was nipped at the plate, Hendricks to Babcock.

Thus, the score stood at 4 to 3 in favor of the Milk-Dispensers when the last of the ninth came around. Carl Lacy, Merrill and Windler all hit safely in a row and the bases were choked with nobody out. Norton popped to Scott for the first out. Mansfield shot a grounder at Bowe and the latter's throw to the plate forced Lacy for the second out. Babcock, endeavoring to double Mansfield at first, threw wildly and before the ball could be retrieved both Merrill and Windler were across with the winning runs.

Treatment By Sun Warned Against

LONDON, June 11 — Sir Henry Guavain has issued a warning against the abuse of sunlight treatment and has advised parents to have the advice of physicians before they submit their children to extended sunlight treatments.

In the opinion of this distinguished doctor there is a tendency to overdo the use of sunlight in the treatment of weak children, and he says it may even be fatal if an ailing child is exposed to the sun for too long a period.

JULIA LATHROP SCHOOL ENJOYS GREAT SEASON

By GEORGE BERRY

Julia C. Lathrop junior high school's athletic teams, under the excellent coaching of "Pat" Bryan, had the most successful season in their history during the past school year.

The football team was out of the ordinary, not losing a single game and being credited with a Southern California junior high school championship.

Lathrop's baseball team came out even with 500 per cent standing in the Orange County High Schools Second Team league.

Monograms were awarded the following athletes:

Track—Gordon, Pratt, Page, Allen, Crumley, Planchon, Estes, Meissinger, Zirinsky, Lindley, Lindsey, Copeland, Sanchez, Meret, Barnett and Casey.

PSYCHOLOGY IN SPORT

There is no doubt as to the power of psychology in sport.

Recently the Philadelphia Athletics after toppling over Washington and New York in seven out of nine games, invaded Boston for a five-game series.

"There is one guy who is tough for us to beat," was the consensus of the Mackmen.

Ehmke, since his entry into the majors, has been a jinx for the Philadelphia club. No matter how poorly he may be going, he always rises to great heights against the Athletics.

This game was no exception. Pitted against the great "Lefty" Grove, Ehmke hurled faultlessly, shutting out the Athletics, 2-0. He drove in the first run and scored the other one.

STRANGE COINCIDENCE

When the Athletics stopped New York after the Yankees had won 16 straight games, it was history repeating itself.

Earlier in the season New York had won nine straight games when it met Philadelphia in a three-game series. The Athletics won all three games.

Getting away from Philadelphia, New York started on another winning streak that reached 16 straight when the Mackmen were again encountered.

This time in a four-game series. After breaking the streak, the Athletics won two more games, dropping the final contest.

COUNTIES SETTLE TAX WITH STATE

SACRAMENTO, June 11.—Countytreasurers have paid into the state coffers $3,650,307.90, representing the esmi-annual settlements with the state government, Charles G. Johnson, state treasurer, announced.

Inheritance tax collections account for the greater proportion of the payments, which brought the total for the fiscal period to $8,174,945.39, or an inchease of $930,634.85 over the preceding year.

Los Angeles county, with a semiannual collection of $1,928,784.76, paid in the largest amount. Insecond place, San Francisco contributed $837,660.25. Third in payments was Alameda county, which turned in $196,324.96.

Effort to Unseat Strike Chief Fails

LONDON, June 11.—Efforts to exclude J. H. Thomas as a vice president of the Royal Colonial institute because of his part in the recent general strike have proved unsuccessful.

When Thomas' name was mentioned at a meeting of the institute, one member objected and moved that it might be deleted.

Lord Stanley, of Alderly, chairman, said that while he believed it was true the recent events were in the nature of an attempted revolution, he doubted whether, in the minds of the ordinary rank and file, there was any intention to subvert the political conditions of the country.

Other speakers asked that the motion be withdrawn and this was subsequently done.

Royal Family Is Wanted to Open New Parliament

MELBOURNE, June 11.—The announcement by the Australian premier that his government will invite a member of the royal family to open the Australian parliament in the commonwealth's new capital next year is a reminder that the long story of the building of Canberra is nearing its close.

Washington provides the nearest parallel to this fashioning on virgin soil of a city designed for purely governmental purposes, and when Canberra is complete the noble lines on which it has been planned will give to it on a small scale something of the dignity and spaciousness of the American capital.

Its site on an undulating plateau of the Australian Alps, its tree-lined streets, its three gracious lakes, its ample gardens, and its convenient radical thoroughfares will make it an addition to the world's cities of which Australia may well be proud.

Highwayman Is Called Father Of Bolshevism

MOSCOW, June 11.—The official Messenger reports that the government has decided to erect in memory of the revolution the greatest monument of its size in Russia, cut in a cliff on the shore of the Caspian sea, so that the man's face may be seen from afar by sea travelers. The name of the man is not Lenin, but Stenka Rasin, a famous highway robber and murderer, and later a Cossack mutineer, who, 300 years ago, aroused the population against the government and the nobility. He is now regarded as the father of Bolshevism, thereby meriting memorials of different forms and sizes.

Girl Works Way Through College

UNIVERSITL OF OREGON, Eugene, June 11.—It is possible for a woman to come to the University of Oregon without money, earn her way through college, get good grades, enjoy many social activities and win scholastic honors, according to Ellen McClellan, senior. Miss McClellan has accomplished these things. She has worked her way through college, takes an actice part in social and student activities and yet recently was awarded the Pi Chi Theta, woman's honorary commerce fraternity award, as being the best all-around woman in the business administration school.

New Cure for Lepers Is Found

RIO DE JANEIRO, June 11—Numerous genera of leper curing flora exist in Brazil, including one species which is thought to be more efficacious than the famous chaulmoogra tree of Hawaii, announced the National Agricultural Society.

The Brazilian tree which is thought to contain a superior grade of the magic ethyl ester is popularly known in Portuguese as "sapucainha." In various parts of Brazil the seed is called "leper fruit" and "leper bread," indicating that the natives believe that it cures the disease. The tree grows wild in several states.

Singer Refused By Covent Garden

LONDON, June 11.—Chaliapin, the Russian basso, has a good laugh on the officials at Covent Garden. Eighteen years ago, when he tried to get an engagement to sing at 1000 francs, the proffer of his services was somewhat haughtily rejected.

"The manager," said Chaliapin, "told me that I was no Patti, that I was not even a singer. He said that it was fantastic for a basso to ask such a price."

Fire Drives Many Away from Homes

BUCHAREST, June 11—Several thousand inhabitants of the little town of Bacau have been rendered homeless by a disastrous fire which broke out in the working class quarter and destroyed 500 houses. A number of factories were also burned down.

MORE NICOTINE

GENEVA, N. Y., June 11.—More nicotine is wanted by the tobacco-breeding plant scientists at the state agricultural experimental station here. The nicotine is wanted for the insecticide industry, which makes large use of it in the manufacture of bug poison.

Pays Big Fine

"I always thought if the doctors couldn't help my stomach and liver trouble, nobody else could. It has cost me nine hundred dollars and I have paid my fine. It remained for MAYR'S, to do the trick. I have been in the best of health since taking it more than a year ago." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. At all druggists. —Adv.

TREASURE TROVE

A Chinese Buddha once owned by the late Richard Mansfield, actor, has been found to be filled with precious Chinese manuscripts and old stones. The dealer who bought the Oriental god removed it from the pedestal to get it through the door of his shop, and in doing so discovered the treasures in the hollow base. The idol stands eight feet high and the outer surface of the base is engraved with 3000 smaller Buddhas.

RICH NEWSBOY

John Williams, veteran St. Joseph, Mo., newsboy, has just retired after laying by a fortune estimated at $50,000. He sold his first papers on April 3, 1883, the morning the famous Jesse James was killed.

RUNAWAY

About this time every year hundreds of boys run away and go to sea. Most of them drift back home in a short time; but Harry Johnson of Seattle is one that didn't. He ran away 39 years ago, after a quarrel with a 14-year-old sweetheart, and he's been sailing ever since. He's been in six shipwrecks.

Red itching blisters on baby's face healed by Resinol

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 19:—"My baby had eczema for three months and nothing seemed to do him any good until I tried your products. His cheeks were red and covered with blisters, and the itching was so annoying that he could not sleep.

After reading your ad in the paper I purchased a jar of Resinol Ointment and a cake of Resinol Soap. Only a few applications stopped the itching entirely and within a week the redness was gone and his skin practically clear. Your ointment is really wonderful and I will praise it to everyone." Foreigners Raid German Art Again

BERLIN, June 11.—Foreigners have successfully executed what is called another raid on German art treasures. In Leipzig at an auction of black and white drawings of famous masters, American, English, Swiss and Holland collectors obtained every one of the offerings, paying about $50,000 for them.

Representatives of German museums were unable to outbid competitors because of limited funds.

WORLD FIGHT FOR OIL MAY LEAD TO WAR

LONDON, June 11.—The "international whirlpool" in the world's flow of oil runs merrily along, bearing in its eddy, more possibilities of international complications fraught with danger of war than any other factor in the whole field of world trade rivalries.

England is at logger-heads with Turkey over the oil fields of Iraq; the United States has been at odds with Mexico over the Mexican fields; American, British, French, German, Dutch and Japanese firms are scrambling over one another to secure favored hands with the Soviet in the exploitation of the undeveloped Russian fields.

Turkey meanwhole has announced that Turkish oil is a government monopoly, and has made its first shipment, as a monopoly, to Russia, thereby effecting a diplomatic gesture of friendliness toward the Soviet that is viewed with disquietude in many quarters.

Little, vendetta?scarred Albania is watched with greedy eyes because it is believed that here and there under a certain hundred thousand acres of her barren hills may lie rich deposits of the fuel that is today the exclusive factor in the automotive transport of the world, and which is rapidly becoming a foremost factor in marine transport as well.

Governments Concerned

If the scramble was concerned purely with questions of individual commercial initiative and enterprise, there would, according to diplomats, be no special threat to world peace in the rivalries. But the fact of the matter is that the government of the several countries are deeply concerned with the question of adequate oil resources as an essential part of the scheme of national defense.

Twenty years ago, motor transport of food and amunition supplies of an army and the haulage of heavy artillery by tractors were in the primary stages of experimentation; ninety per cent of the ships of the navies of the world were coal burners; and the airplane as an instrument of war existed only in the minds of writers af fantastic fiction.

Today, the situation is completely changed. Ninety per cent—and probably more—of the world ships-of-war are oil burners; an army without fuel for its motor transport would be at an insuperable disadvantage; and its air forces without gasoline would remain impotent on the ground. England, for instance, if it should find herself at war and its supply of oil cut off, with the exhaustion of its small stocks of reserve supplies, would find itself practically at the mercy of the enemy. Hardly a battleship could leave port; not a single airplane could rise to ward off the bombing planes of the invader. France would be similarly situated, though recently some small supplies of oil have been found in Southern France in the Herault region. To date the flow of oil from these wells has been small—some seventy-five or eighty tons a day, but the fact that oil has been found at all in France has been a matter of great self-congratulation on the part of French military leaders and no expense is going to be spared by the government in exhaustive surveys and soundings in the Herault district in the hope of discovering other oil pools.

Obtaining Oil from Coal

For the same reasons British authorities are following with the keenest interest reports of the discovery of a new process of obtaining crude oil from coal, of which England, of course, has vast quantities. By the new process it is claimed crude oil in quantities as high as twenty gallons to the ton of coal has been extracted. Whether it con be extracted economically and marketed in competition with the free oil from the ground is not for the moment the primary consideration in the minds of military authorities. What interests them is the fact that the process represents the possibility of being independent of imported supplies in the event that the vicissitudes of war should cut Britain off from her normal sources.

Meanwhile there is another angle of the matter of world oil supplies which is being watched with keenest interest from this side of the water. That is the question of the virtual exhaustion of the American and Mexican oil resources which some experts have predicted may take place ten years hence. America and Mexico together now supply practically ninety per cent of the world's oil consumption. Some of the European oil experts are commencing to argue that if Eprope holds off on the full development of Russian, Balkan and Mesopotamian fields until the American and Mexican supplies are practically exhausted, not only will they be able to command their own price for oil but with America compelled to turn to Europe for its oil, Europe will have the United States at a distinct military disadvantage in the event of war. Even in peace times, it was pointed out, in the event of the exhaustion of American supplies, a united Europe would be in a position to wring valuable diplomatic concessions from the North and South American countries in return for guarantees of oil deliveries.

These are among the considerations that lie in the background of the mad international scramble for the control of adequate oil supplies. Whether, to return to the original similie, the international whirlpool in oil is moving slowly on to a future war over the question of this control, only time can tell. But certain it is, however, whenever a new war does come, next to men, food and munitions, the question of adequate supplies of fuel oil will stand first in the minds of the army and navy general staffs.

SPECIAL NOTICE!

The Grand Central Market Merchants regret that many customers were disappointed last Saturday when they learned that they were too late to avail themselves of the special sugar prices.

This circumstance was occasioned by the fact that the sugar was sold at such a low price that certain small dealers took advantage to buy large quantities at the less-than-wholesale cost.

Therefore, tomorrow sugar will be sold to customers only (those making any other purchase).

This will serve to protect our customers. While the carload of sugar should last all day, we urge you to do your shopping early.

FORTY-NINERS NOT AS TOUGH AS PICTURED

SACRAMENTO, June 11.—The cherished beliefs that California's pioneers, the "Forty-niners," were highfalutin bozos has been sent scampering into the oblivion of untruths.

There it lurks, along with the other fond tradition that George Washington made beer.

When time has ripened, when time has rung the curtain on that present generation of busy bodies who would like to get the scalps of Santa Claus and the White House spokesman, out they will jump, and ingratiate themselves into the favor of a new and trusting generation.

California's "Forty-niners" were penny hoarders.

Were Not Rough Necks

They did not come down from the hills and away from the streams of an evening, with gold belts full of dust, and fight for a foothold on the iron-pipe rail of the Ribald Rollo bar.

They did not throw their gold dust like a blast of Mojave desert sand over the barroom floor; nor did they drink, and drink, and drink of raw red likker till numbness gripped their frames and dropped them, brawny hulks, beneath the faro table, from where they rose—and drank some more.

Nor did they wake, when morning came, to find themselves entombed beneath the rough-hewn bar, imprisoned by the barkeep, who felt he needed sleep.

None of this.

The "Forty-niner" was a frugal man, in inclination and habit. The facts, just uncovered, reveal this to be so, and prove that the movie and the western novel thriller have worked for naught in their alleged effort to cast an unjustly colorful light upon the hardy pioneers who paved the way for California's greatness.

Cut Salaries of Officers

As early as 1851, California's "Forty-niners" gave indication of the leaning toward economy. In that year, they slashed the salaries of all officers who drew pay from the modest state treasury.

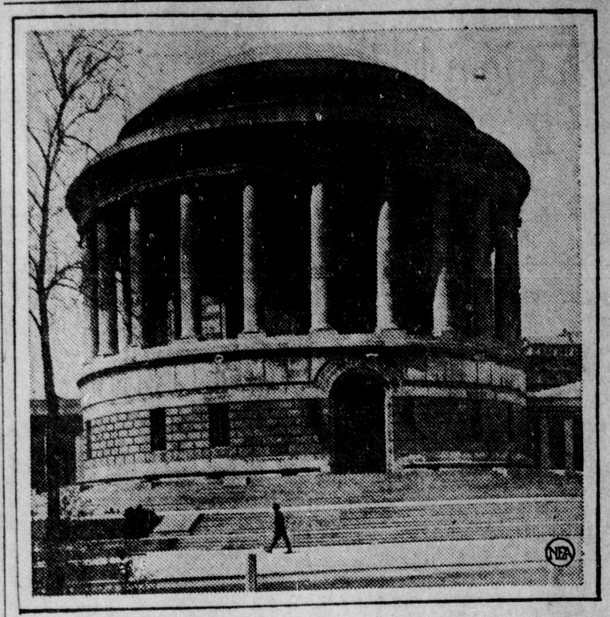
This was provided in a "retrenchment bill" which was legislated after the cost of California's government administration was found to exceed California's revenues.

"Cost of government for the first fractional year, which ended July 1, 1850, was placed at $384,165.26," said Charles G. Johnson, present state treasurer. "The succeeding year brought difficulties. Expenditures totaled $585,702.83, or $254,906.38 more than the revenues for the period. The salary slashes and other budget cuts immediately followed."

The first biennial report, Johnson related, commented with pride upon the removal of the seat of government from San Jose to Vallejo at a cost of only $1500.

"Our pioneers," concluded the treasurer, "have two often been pictured as spendthrifts who toiled with the gold pan by day and poured their earnings over the gaming tables and saloon bars by night."

ELK'S WAR MEMORIAL



This $3,000,000 building, a memorial to the more than 1000 members of the Elks who gave their lives during the World war, will be dedicated with impressive ceremonies on July 14. It is located in Chicago's south side park district.

Sing a Boost for Tustin

To the tune of "It's A Long Way to Tipperary"

It's a good time to boost for Tustin,
It is grand to live here;
It's a good thing to vote the bonds through.
The time is drawing near;
It's a good time to be a marching,
Till the harbor we shall see,
When the ships will be a-sailing
Toward the land on the sea.

It's a good time to boost for Tustin,
It's the best time I know;
As heaven-ward we go,
Good-bye sin and sorrow,
Farewell doubt and fear;
It's a good time to boost the kingdom,
That's why we are here.

It's a good time to get acquainted,
It's the best time I know;
With your neighbor just beside you
Just smile and say "Hello;"
He may be very lonesome
And at you may sadly stare;
It's a good time to boost for Tustin,
Some people do care.

BANNER YEAR FORECAST FOR PACIFIC COAST

NEW YORK, June 11—"Business conditions on the Pacific Coast make prospects favorable for a banner year and we look for continued satisfactory earnings on the Southern Pacific system, with no reason for any change in the improved operating results," said President William Sproule, of the Southern Pacific company here. He expressed belief that this year's gross revenues and net earnings will be well ahead of a year ago, which would also mean ahead of 1924 and near to the record earnings since the war of $12.94 a share made in 1923.

"If the market can take care of increased tonnage of fresh grapes next fall," he said, "there is hardly a doubt that grape tonnage will considerably exceed that of last year.

"Some 65,000 carloads were moved eastward in 1925.

"Development of mildew has dampened prospects of much of an increase in shipment of melons.

"Automobiles moved westward in quantities early this year and are still coming.

"Farmers along the coast should have a much better year, since moisture conditions have been the most favorable in years."

Ask Permit to Dig In Park for Gold

OAKLAND, June 11—The Oakland park commission has just received another application seeking permission to dig for "buried gold" on the banks of Lake Merritt, a long pond rippling through the center of Oakland's beshrubbed Lakeside park.

The origin of the rumor that gold lies buried on these grassy slopes has been lost in the passage of years, but for 20 years past, according to the park commissioners, intermittent applications have been made for permission to dig.

They all have been denied, as the applications never have been based on anything stronger than the much-handled rumor.

American Colony In London Grows

LONDON, June 11 — Americans living in London now number 6700, and the number of Australians is approximately the same. The Canadian population is 5000, and there are 4700 South Africans and 1700 New Zealanders here. Of the 147,000 foreign residents nearly one-half are Russians and Poles.

Three million of the 4,500,000 living in London are London born. The French population numbers 13,500. There are 11,300 Italians and 8800 Germans.

DR. W. B. CALDWELL AT THE AGE OF 83

"Purges" and "Physics" Bad for Old Folks

While Dr. W. B. Caldwell, of Monticello, Ill., a practicing physician for 47 years, knew that constipation was the curse of advancing age, he did not believe that a "purge" or "physic" every little while was necessary.

To him, it seemed cruel that so many constipated old people had to be kept constantly "stirred up" and half sick by taking cathartic pills, tablets, salts, calomel and nasty oils.

In Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin he discovered a laxative which helps to "regulate" the bowels of the old folks. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin not only causes a gentle, easy bowel movement, but each dose helps to strengthen the bowel muscles, shortly establishing natural "regularity." It never gripes, sickens, or upsets the system. Besides, it is absolutely harmless and pleasant to take.

If past fifty, buy a large 60-cent bottle at any store that sells medicine and just see for yourself.

AMERICANS CALLED TIGHTWADS ABROAD

PARIS, June 11 — Individually American visitors along the Riviera are "tightwads" in comparison with persons of other nationalities who seek enjoyment and rest in that salubrious region. As good spenders, the Americans are ranked fourth, coming after the Russians, Germans and Egyptians. British visitors are placed fifth. Leading hotel and restaurant proprietors along the Riviera are authority for this statement.

"Americans and British are so numerous on the Riviera that their total expenditures amount to more than half of all the money left there by foreigners," says a writer who interviewed the purveyors of food and frolic. "But it is a myth that they are the most generous of the visitors. Despite the fact that many of the Russians are in poor circumstances, when they appear in public they are the freest spenders of all foreigners. During the last year, Germans have occupied many of the most luxurious hotel suites in Nice, Cannes and Monte Carlo and the hotel proprietors consider them excellent guests."

YOSEMITE PLANS 75TH ANNIVERSARY

YOSEMITE, June 11.—Yosemite valley is laying elaborate plans for the seventy-fifth anniversary of its discovery, to be celebrated July 31.

The celebration, to continue two days, not only will commemorate the seventy-fifth "birthday" of California's scenic valley, but will dedicate the new automobile road, which will make Yosemite accessible 365 days of the year.

Details of the celebration are being perfected by a committee of seven, headed by D. V. Nicholson, of the California State Automobile association, appointed at a recent San Francisco meeting of the general Yosemite diamond anniversary committee.

Lesser events of the two-day celebration will be the laying of the cornerstone of the valley's new hotel, dedication of the new Yosemite fish hatchery, which will pour added hundreds of shining game fish into Yosemite's streams, and an open air pageant, depicting the discovery and history of Yosemite valley.

AERIAL HONEYMOON PROVING POPULAR

LONDON, June 11 — Flying has become so popular with the newly weds that facetious observers of the tendency of the just married to take to the air are suggesting it soon will be necessary to add a honeymoon ship to the continental airway schedule. Two or three couples, evidently not long since at the hymeneal altar, are not infrequently to be found traveling in a plane to the continent.

The men are usually the more backward in boarding the air expresses, airdrome officials say. The brides seldom show any signs of balkiness at essaying the experience.

HAGERTY NAMED HEAD OF EAGLES

YOSEMITE, Calif., June 11—After electing D. D. Hagerty, Maricopa, worthy state president, and selecting Placerville as the 1927 convention city, California aerie of Eagles closed its annual convention here.

Harry Pulcifer, Oakland, was elected worthy vice president. James Cunnison, San Bernardino, won the office of state chaplain, which leads through automatic promotion to the presidency.

Other officers elected were Miles Sharkey, Redwood City, conductor; William J. McCort, Taft, inside guard, and E. R. Silva, Pinole, outside guard. Judges elected were James G. Love, Los Angeles; Matthew Haly, San Jose, and I. Kubel, Oak Park.

The Bakersfield degree team, winning convention honors, was awarded permanent possession of the silver cup denoting three consecutive victories. A cash prize of $100 accompanied the cup. Maricopa won second honors and a cash prize of $75. Golden Gate aerie, San Francisco, took third honors and $50.

Bird Makes Home In Seat of Auto

LONGVIEW, Wn., June 11.—A bird mistook the rattle of a flivver for that springtime tune, "Come feather your nest," according to James O'Malley, who found a bird's nest under the front seat of his car.

As proof of the fact that the bird recognizes the flivver as home, O'Malley points to the fact that first he found one egg, and left it. The next day another egg appeared and a few days later the nest revealed a third.

The car was parked in a different place each day, according to O'Malley. He is eager to discover how the bird picks the car from so many others just like it.

"I have to look at the plates sometimes, myself," he said.

2 YALE GRADS OF 1856 CLASS PLAN REUNION

NEW HAVEN, Ct., June 10.—The most unique college reunion in the history of American will be held here this month, when two members of the famous Yale class of 1856 will meet for the first time in years at commencement and silently drink a toast to those who have gone before.

It will be the oldest class reunion ever held in this county and one of the most famous, for these two survivors are Chauncey M. Depew 92, and former senator, noted financier and after dinner speaker, and Dr. Virgil M. Dow, 93, of New Haven, well known New England physician and pharmacist, who is now totally blind.

"Chauncy Depew was a popular student and a very agreeable companion," the doctor, who is now in his 94th years, told the United Press in an interview. "He sat next to me in the division and I came in pretty close contact with him.

"You understand in those days students were seated alphabetically and both our names commenced with 'D.' Yale was not such a big school in those days, there were only 95 graduated in our class.

Hesitates on Brilliancy

When asked if Depew was a brilliant student the physician seemed to hesitate.

"Well I should say he was just an average student," he finally answered.

As he talked of the college life in those far off days 70 years ago his face brightened and he straightened in his wheel chair. The only athletics was football and it was not much like the football of today, Dr. Dow said. It was rough and tumble affair and the games were generally between the various college classes.

"There were no iron-clad rules for football then," Dr. Dow said, except to kick each other's shins. Mr. Depew, as I recall it, was not an enthusiast and rarely took part in the games.

"The college rushes in those days were anything but tame affairs, also. We used to tear everything to pieces, including the sidewalks, which were mostly wooden, the fences and ourselves."

The last reunion of the class of 1856 was held in 1916. About a dozen members attended at that time to celebrate the 60th reunion, but since then all of them have died except Dr. Dow and Mr. Depew. The reunion this year, to mark the 70th anniversary of their commencement, will have to be held quietly at the physician's home here, as he is unable to leave the house, though in fairly good health and hoping to live some years yet.

Seventy Years Ago

Dr. Dow expects that Depew will attend the exercises at Yale this year and come out to visit him and talk over old times on the 70th reunion of their class. He has only met the former senator twice since they left Yale to go out into the world, the last time at the 60th reunion in 1916.

Chauncey Depew is somewhat younger than Dr. Dow, having been born in Keekskill, N. Y., on April 23, 1834, while Dr. Dow was born here on April 5, 1833. Dr. Dow studied medicine in New York after his graduation from Yale, served in the medican corps of the Union army during the Civil war, then took over his father's business in New Haven and was a practicing physician until 1906 when he retired.

Other members of the class of 1856 attained distinction. Two of them were justices of the supreme court of the United States, several became famous as professors and college presidents and others besides Depew were noted in the world of business and finance.

Capital Letter

WASHINGTON, June 11.—The Prince of Wales is a mighty nice chap, but no one is permitted to forget for a minute that he's a prince. He's quite prepared to be perfectly democratic and unassuming with other folks, but the other folks mustn't make the mistake of getting a bit fresh with him.

You wouldn't recognize Prince Gustavus Adolphus, of Sweden, as a prince unless you knew it in advance.

Washington has had the pleasure of entertaining both Wales and Adolphus within a comparatively short time and feels that it's entitled to be regarded as a good deal of an authority among cities on what princes are like.

* * *

Of course, New York gets a crack at all visiting princes, too, but there's such a commotion everlastingly going on in New York that precious few people get a chance to size 'em up a short range.

Here in Washington a prince has a chance to introduce himself, if he wants to take it.

Gustavus did. Wales, so far as the hoi polloi was concerned, no.

Naturally Washington hollers its head off in its enthusiasm for Gustavus. Its sentiments toward Wales, while not hostile, are characterized by no great warmth.

He got off his train in the midst of a perfect army of cops, fly and in uniform. He rode straight to the White House in a closed car. He lunched with the Coolidges and met a few especially selected notables. Then his closed car took his back to the Union station, where, again between lines of sturdy harness bulls, he boarded his train and streaked it back to New York.

About all that ordinary folk got out of it was a glimpse of his automobile. There's nothing very thrilling about a closed auto, even if there's a prince inside.

Gustavus and his wife, Princess Louise, climbed from their train into a certain amount of police preparation, certainly, but with none of the standoffishness about it that marked the arrival of the Prince of Wales.

Then, in plain view, with much eclat and a cavalry escort, they journeyed clear across Washington to the Swedish legation, to wash up and see the sights—and be seen. The proletariat appreciates this kind of thing. Gustavus could easily be elected to something if he'd stick around here. In these days of equal suffrage, so could his wife.

From the legation the prince and princess presently issued forth for a series of receptions, monument unveilings and tours of museums, galleries and histotic spots that kept 'em on the jump as long as they stayed.

Such a program is hard work, but the prince is built to stand it. He overtops Secretary of the Navy Wilbur, who rivals a trolley pole himself, and he's broad in proportion—not fat, but huge.

THIS CHURCH HAS NO CONGREGATION

A magnificent $300,000 church is just being finished at Leroy, Ill., which will have no congregation at all when its doors are thrown open. One J. T. Crumbaugh, rich land owner, who died in 1905, left a $300,000 tract of land to build and support a Spiritualist church and his will was recently sustained by the supreme court after extended litigation. There is not a Spiritualist within miles of the church now, but the edifice has been built in accordance with the will.

COAST GUARD OFFICER TO BE PUT ON TRIAL

SAN FRANCISCO, June 11 — Boatswain C. W. Bayne, commander of a U. S. Coast guard chaser, will be courtmartialed Monday on a charge of withholding and diverting liquor siezed from rum runners.

A second San Pedro chaser commander is under investigation and faces court-martial on similar charges, it was revealed.

The order for Bayne's court-martial was received by Capt. W. E. V. Jacobs, commandant of the coast guard, from the secretary of the treasury at Washington. It followed several weeks of investigation by Com. M. C. Covell, recently assigned to base 17.

Covell, according to the charges, searched Bayne's boat several hours after seizure of liquor from a captured rum runner and found 10 cases secreted in the ammunition magazine. The chaser had previously unloaded the supposed entire seizure, the charges claim.

Bayne is under technical arrest, though remaining in Oakland, where he has been visiting friends.

Capt. W. E. McCoun will be president of the court-martial board, which convenes Monday. Other members will be Lt. Com. C. C. McMillan, and Lt. F. L. Austin.

BOOZE JOINTS ARE TO BE PADLOCKED

SAN FRANCISCO, June 11 — Padlocks will be placed on the doors of every San Francisco booze "joint" on which two convictions have been obtained, it was reported.

The new drive against anti-Volsteadism was revealed when Judge W. A. Beasly, advisor to Col. Ned Green, prohibition administrator for northern California and Nevada, drew up abatement proceedings against 22 places on each of which more than one conviction has been obtained.

Building owners will henceforth be held responsible for the character of their tenants and abatement proceedings will begin immediately after the second conviction, it was stated.

Private homes, where bootleggers have lived, stores where they have purveyed liquor, and warehouses and factories, where liquor and stills have been found, were included in the abatement list.

THE HARBOR—STRAIGHT AHEAD!

Very naturally, in common with nearly two-thirds of the voters of Orange county, The Register is disappointed with the result of the harbor bonds election. But The Register is not dissatisfied, and hopes that none of the other enthusiastic and hopeful supporters of the bonds are dissatisfied. Dissatisfaction would imply a protest against the law which provides that bonds proposals, in order to carry, must be approved by at least two-thirds of the voters who cast their ballots.

It does seem too bad that almost two-thirds of the voters can be defeated in their wishes by a little more than one-third—as they were with respect to the bonds for harbor entrance improvement,—but that is the law. And it must be sound law because it is in effect almost everywhere and has stood the test of years. The theory of the law is that, in matters affecting large expenditures of public money, the minority are entitled to protection against the majority. It is the principle of minority representation which is fundamentally sound, and which finds expression in many forms and phases of democratic government.

What are we going to do about it? The harbor must be developed. It is too great a natural asset, and too much money has already been spent upon it, to permit its abandonment now. Possibly the way out is to form a metropolitan district including Santa Ana and the coast area. Yesterday's election figures indicate that a tremendous majority—probably eight or ten to one—of the voters in such a district would vote for harbor bonds. And such a district could easily stand the initial investment, at least to the extent of improving the harbor entrance. After that is done, perhaps the results obtained would convert enough voters in other parts of the county to enable the carrying of a county-wide bonds issue for further improvements.

While this is only a suggestion, we feel justified in offering more than a suggestion to the effect that we set ourselves seriously and determinedly to the task of finding some way, as soon as possible, to develop the Newport Bay into the fine harbor it easily can be made.

TO SAVE COAL INDUSTRY

There is no mystery about the difficulty the coal industry is having in England and America. It is simply a big industry, highly capitalized and highly manned, whose market is failing it.

Strangely enough, the tremendous increase in industrial activity is requiring less coal rather than more. The American Mining Congress finds that the increasing use of waterpower and oil has deprived the coal industry of a market it would otherwise have for 100,000,000 tons of coal a year.

The amount of waterpower substituted for fuel is going to increase steadily. The use of petroleum for fuel, now growing rapidly, may wane with the exhaustion of oil deposits, but there is no telling when that will come.

There is, however, an obvious remedy for coal troubles. American power interests have found that they can produce electrical power cheaper by establishing their power plants at the mouth of coal mines, and burning the coal on the spot, than they can produce it from any but the most advantageous waterpower sites. England, if industrial statesmanship were applied to the coal industry, would probably do this on a vast scale.

There would be no great difficulty, from an engineering standpoint, in producing enormous electrical power at the British mines, distributing that power by wires throughout the British Isles, supplying all the energy needed in manufacturing centers and electrifying the whole country.

That would save the British coal industry and might bring in a new era of industrial prosperity for Great Britain. But unfortunately such matters are determined by political considerations, not engineering wisdom.

THE RESTFUL MOVIE

May be Thomas A. Edison is right in saying that Americans don't want speaking films because they prefer "restful quiet" in a moving picture theater. A frequent patron of the movies remarks that his own experience supports this view—"there is really more rebellion among a picture show audience against conversations and irrelevant noises than among those attending the spoken drama."

American ears have to endure a good deal from the noises of every-day life, especially in crowded cities. It is a relief to many a sound-weary and nerve-weary man and woman to drop into a place where, along with entertainment that distracts one's thoughts from personal or business affairs, the stress is transferred from ears to eyes.

There was a time when this was so hard on the eyes as to jangle the patron's nerves, and so spoil the benefit of silence. But improvements in the projecting machines have remedied that. The ordinary picture theater today is really restful. May we still have such theaters, even if the talking films arrive, instead of letting chatter and jazz invade the last sanctuary of silence outside of the church.

WISDOM IN ROYALTY

On King George's 61st birthday a Canadian newspaper, acknowledging the firm hold that sovereign has upon the people of the British Empire, explained it thus:

"While other thrones have tottered and fallen in the revolution against autocracy, the British throne remains the symbol of strengthened democracy. For the sympathies of the King are always with the people. His tactful act and timely word directed to the overcoming of discords and difficulties within the Empire, which he knows so well, reach to the man on the street, not because he is King, but because his appeal is in behalf of his people.

"Democratic government and democratic laws have reached further in Great Britain since George V became sovereign than in any other country. True, he is not the government, and does not make the laws, but his blessing is on them all, so long as they represent the wishes and contribute to the welfare of the great mass of the population. As King he recognizes the rovereignty of his subjects. There can be no quarrel between the people and such a King."

Here is a picture of royal wisdom. It isn't the first time in history that a king has cast his lot with the masses of his countrymen rather than with subjects of title and wealth. But such a policy is shrewder today than ever before, because now the people have the power to rule, and are determined to use it.

So we have the odd spectacle of a real democracy reigning in the name of a king. Could our ancestors have imagined that in 1776?

Good Argument for Drys

Riverside Press

The rapid increase in the number of automobiles is an effective argument for prohibition and one that will grow stronger as the years pass, because every year the number of autos on the highways will increase. The drunken driver is a menace to himself and to everybody else on the road. Not a day passes but some fatal accident is recorded in California where a part of the report includes this statement: "the driver was found to be intoxicated."

A striking example of the danger to innocent people was the recent accident to Lieutenant Governor Young in the Imperial valley. Mr. Young was in a car that was being driven at moderate speed and in a careful manner. The driver heard a car approaching at unusual speed and pulled out to let it pass. Even that precaution was of no avail for the drunken driver of the car coming up behind zigzagged from one side of the highway to the other and struck the car containing the lieutenant governor with such force that it was lifted several feet into the air and turned completely over. It was a wonder that both Mr. Young and the driver were not killed. And when the reckless fool who caused this accident was arrested, he was so drunk that he could not remember anything about it. People like that ought to be permanently disqualified from driving; and the "light wine and beer" advocates ought to do some sober thinking about what will happen on our highways if booze comes back and any driver with a thirst can get himself "pickled" at any wayside saloon along the road.

Yale Wants Students Who Work

Fresno Republican

James R. Angell, president of Yale university, recently took very serious offense at a published report that his institution was going to put a money qualification on candidates for entrance to the university. As the report had it, not only must young men have standards of scholarship, morals and manners, but they must also "have sufficient money to take full advantage of what college offers."

Sugar-coated as the language which wrapped the idea, it was one that stirred up both the friends of Yale and readers in general. President Angell declared indignantly that no one in the government of the institution had proposed it and that the policy of Yale is "exactly the reverse."

And well it might be.

Nor is the effort of universities to get men of limited means merely one of democratic sentiment—far from it. The university, above all, wants men, young men capable of attainment, and as a test prefers those who have already shown some capacity to attain. The rich man's son may have it. But too frequently he has not had to stress his muscles of attainment in the struggle for existence. The man of limited means has. So Yale sees to it that at least one-third of her students are self supporting to some degree. She wants that kind of men. So do all universities that have regard for the character of the student body.

Carelessness in Paroles

Sacramento Bee

Considerable light is thrown on the doings of the state board of prison directors by the discovery that the board has been granting paroles on the strength of "narratives" made up by convicts and unchecked by either the board or its secretary.

The secretary, upon whom the board asserts fell the duty of checking these narratives, has now been fired. He is not accused of dishonesty, merely of taking the papers furnished him by a ring of "trusties" and passing them on to the board without verification.

How could there be a worse situation than this, in which convicts were permitted to be the means by which other convicts secured paroles?

Of course, no convict, "trusty" or other, should have anything to do with this business, except in so far as mere clerical work is concerned.

All accounts of prisoners' behavior upon which applications for parole are to be based should be rigorously checked at both ends by the prison authorities and by the board. Neither check is sufficient by itself.

There must have been an immense amount of carelessness all along the line for this system to have continued any time without detection.

This mess should be thoroughly cleaned up. There has already been far too much scandal about paroles and pardons in this state.

Health Topics

USE PLENTY OF WATER

An abundance of water, both internally and externally, is a necessity during hot weather. A daily bath during the summer cleanses, refreshes and aids in maintaining the health.

Just how much water should be consumed in hot weather depends upon the work performed, the atmospheric temperature and the relative humidity. In any event, pleasantly cool water should be consumed in fairly liberal quantities.

The excessive use of iced drinks is apt to exert a detrimental influence upon the digestive system, causing discomfort or actual illness, and if such drinks are sweet, the sugar contained adds to the amount of heat produced in the body.

Take a sun bath every day, but very cautiously at first, until your skin attains the necessary protective powers. Too long exposure to the sun's rays when you are not accustomed to it, is harmful.

In summer one's thoughts naturally, and very properly, turn to the prospect of a vacation, a change of scene and respite from customary labors. Every person who works would be benefited by such a vacation and should endeavor to obtain it.

The person who remains at home is fortunate in many ways. In cities the milk, water and food supplies are usually available and insect pests are infrequent.

Sometimes a vacation at home affords the very best opportunity for rest and recuperation. However, many of the home advantages are offset by the summer heat and the sameness of the surroundings.

If an "away from home" vacation is decided upon, a place in which adequate health protection is afforded should be chosen. The selection of such a resort is an important matter requiring the exercise of good judgment and careful attention to numerous vital health factors that have been discussed in previous lectures.

Consolation From Experience

Moral Reflections

No man can get a blessing and keep it all to himself without having it like stagnant water in his soul.

Our anger and impatience often prove much more mischievious than the things about which we are angry or impatient.

It is the habit of making sacrifices in small things that fits us for making them in great, when it is asked of us.

A perfect world awaits those who are willing to give the maximum instead of striving ever to get it for themselves.

Be not disturbed about the future, for if you ever come to it, you will have the same reason for your guide which preserves you at present.

There are three difficult things in life; to keep a secret, to forget an injury and to make the best use of your leisure.

Worth While Verse

A SONG OF CHILDHOOD

Ah! what would the world be to us,
If the children were no more?
We should dread the desert behind us
Worse than the dark before.

What the leaves are to the forest,
With light and air for food,
Ere their sweet and tender juices
Have been hardened into wood—

That to the world are children;
Through them it feels the glow
Of a brighter and sunnier climate
Than reaches the trunks below.

Come to me, O ye children!
And whisper in my ear
What the birds and the winds are singing
In your sunny atmosphere.

For what are all our contrivings,
And the wisdom of our books,
When compared with your caresses,
And the gladness of your looks?

Ye are better than all the ballads
That ever were sung or said;
For ye are living poems,
And all the rest are dead.

—Longfellow.

CONTRADICTIONS

My soul seeks peace, and yet I love
The restlessness of moving things;
The grazing sheep of meadow-lands,
The floating clouds, the fleeting mists.
The ripple of a field of grain,
The swaying branches of a tree
Rouse ecstasy akin to pain.
The solemn chorus of the frogs
That throbs upon the summer night;
The river flowing swiftly on;
Youth and its days of dear delight.
The curling witchery of smoke;
The leaping crimson of its fires;
All restless things I seem to love,
Yet peace is what my soul desires.

CHRONICLES OF THE LITTLE GRAY HOUSE

We are never certain whether we dwell in a Little Gray House or in a zoo. Of course Ginger Cat isn't really to be considered among the lesser animals—he is a member of the family and has no idea that he differs from the rest of us in size and shape. In fact when he sees himself in a mirror, he is far more surprised than cats usually are, for the reflection isn't at all what he expects—It is a four-legged animal with fur instead of a two-legged animal with hair!

But Big Boy, the white rat, and his numerous progeny are unmistakably of the zoo department, as is the funny little horned toad that was added recently to the family. We liked him all right, but never could quite accept the long lizard that Sonny was so happy over.

But what we started to tell you was of gazing idly at the ceiling just after the lights were turned on, to see a regular Noah's Ark procession of shadowy animals move slowly around the wall just below the ceiling line. It was the most amazing sight—really quite uncanny until we discovered that Sonny and his playmates had placed the family of baby rats up in the Chinese basket, that does duty for a shade on the drop light of the dining-room. The bright light disturbed their slumbers, so they got up on the edge of the basket to seek a way out, and their shodaws were what formed the Noah's Ark procession. It was startling. But we are used to startling things in a family of boys.

DRIFTING

(And this actually happened, according to its teller)

Sue and I—it was a fine day—
Wandered down to the river (It just started that way)
When we loosened a skiff and took up an oar,
And we drifted too,
With nothing to do.
Till a green little isle blocked up the way
And Sue called "Oh Joy! What a heavenly day!
If only we had them—" then Sue gave a screech
Yes, the grapes were high,
But so was I!
For I'd made a wild jump, caught a branch on the fly,
And we hung suspended, the wild grapes and I.
But Sue—she was game—plucked the fruit from the vine
Then I dropped to the boat and said "we will dine."
Sue's laughter lifted.
"What if the boat drifted?"

JUNE

The poets fill your lap with flowers,
With babbling brooks their verses bubble.
They sing of all your fragrant bowers,
But June, to me you bring but trouble!
I do not doubt your flowers are fair,
Nodding 'neath breezes blithely fanning,
But I've no time to seek them there,
For, June, to me you mean just "Canning!"

—Anna Louise Barney

Here is a Silver Lining For Your Quilt says this optomistic Patcher in a charteristic way.

"Yesterday was cloudy and we wondered if hopes and dreams ever would come true. Then we knew the sun would shine tomorrow. Today everything seems nearer. The cloud has shown its silver lining. Every wish comes true—just around the corner. Every desire fulfilled is just one step farther. Don't waste tears on yesterdays nor fears on tomorrow. Tomorrow never does come you know. And because we can always start a new day we need live only this one day at a time, stepping along with our path lit by the lamp of hope."

DEDICATED TO THE BRIDES O' JUNE

Any Wife to Any Husband

(By Margaret Widdemer.)

Oh, I was wayward, and I laughed;
You followed—you were laughing, too—
And here's an end to all our craft
And vows to do and not to do;
And now I find to my distress,
That here's an end to waywardness!

I must be grave and grown and wise. . .
And I would please you, sir, who pleased
Before with inattentive eyes
And lips that mocked and words that teased . . . .
When you have shaped me to your will
I wonder if you'll like me still?

READ THIS!

Nemo finds that several readers of the Patchwork Quilt, have the impression that there are really no contributors to the Quilt and that all the names as Nemo, Susie Slade, Cross Patch, The Kernel, Pat-sh, Victoria Ann, Little Sister, McCipher, etc., are but masks which the Patcher Lady dons in order to add variety to the column.

But that is a mistake The contributors are all very real, bona fide writers who at more or less frequent intervals, send their thoughts in either verse or prose form, to the Quilt. A few of them write under their real names, such as Mrs. Frances Stone, a member of Santa Ana Woman's club, and one who developed her ability to sing, after the fledglings left the nest.

Most of them however, maintain a certain secrecy about their identities, but we assure you they are very real for we know most—not all—of them. And in passing, we would suggest that we hear from each and every one, with a little more regularity and frequency.

To correct the impression, we are sorry to admit that only the verse which heads the column and the Chronicles of the Little Gray House are the product of the Quilter herself. "A poor thing, but all mine own."

Comfort in Survey of Youth

Kansas City Star.

Are the boys and girls of today more inclined to waywardness and crime than those of a former generation? There are all sorts of answers to the question, some of them based on genuine experience and observation, others being mere opinions and practically worthless. Nobody knows just what the situation is, and it would be difficult to gather the facts on which a correct view of the matter would have to be based. But dependable information can be had, and The Star previously has cited one attempt to obtain such information, the move of the national children's bureau to study statistics of juvenile delinquency and crime in the United States.

This agency has made one report on its findings from a survey of fourteen large cities of the country. The report, of course, does not settle the question, but it throws important light on it, to the perhaps surprising effect that delinquency rates among boys and girls under 18 actually are lower than they were ten or twelve years ago. In the war period there was an increase of delinquency, but since that time, or in the last five or six years, the rate has declined in three-fourths of the cities studied. There was noted, too, a decrease in the numbers of delinquents committed to institutions in a recent 18-year period, or from 1910 to 1923.

But another discovery was more interesting. Many observers have been alarmed at what they believed to be a decided lowering of the age of criminals. That seemed to indicate not only that there were more youthful criminals today than ever before, but, according to some reports, that the great majority of criminals were youths of "tender" age. The bureau's survey of prison population, however, tends to show the average age of criminals has not decreased. In a large way, the question remains to be threshed out. But what has been learned may serve both as a warning and a consolation, a warning against hasty conclusions, and consolation that perhaps conditions are not as bad as previously pictured.
